A Word to the Readers

"Imam Ali and Political Leadership (Siyāsāt Nāmeḥ)" is the most comprehensive and useful part of "The Encyclopedia of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) (Mawṣū'a al-Imām 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭalīb)". It is the most perfect asset, for the organization of a well-founded Islamic Civilization and a system of ruling a state in today's human society.

In reality, Imam Ali and Political Leadership is a book that speaks about the sovereignty of human values. Thus, this work is extremely helpful and instructive not only for the Islamic world and statesmen, but also for all those who suffer from the dominance of power, wealth and fraudulence under various names, and for those who yearn for the prevalence of values (of which its foremost is justice). Thus and for this reason, this part of the "Encyclopedia" was translated prior to other sections of this collection and presented as a separate volume to the interested readers.

Before reading this volume, respected readers are requested to consider the following points:

1. Imam Ali and Political Leadership is a complete translation [into English] of the fourth volume of The Encyclopedia of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) that also includes the Arabic text for those interested in ḥadīth and historical texts in its source language.

2. The Introduction to this version of "Imam Ali and Political Leadership" is more detailed than the fourth volume of the Encyclopedia, consisting along with new points, an analytical explanation for the reasons of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) solitude towards the end of his ruling and also the reasons behind the disruption and discontinuity of his government despite his efficient policies.¹

1. This analysis added to the Introduction of this book is taken from Volume Seven of "The Encyclopedia of Amir al-Mu'minin" [in Persian].

3. The Introduction of Imam Ali and Political Leadership is a summary of the policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.). In order to be fully aware of the policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in various fields, it is necessary to refer to the main text [of this volume] according to the order of the topics.

4. The references in the footnotes of the 'Introduction' are just a part of the sources used in Imam Ali and Political Leadership and it is necessary to refer to the main chapters of the book for further information about other sources.

5. Wherever reference is made to a 'section', it refers to the sections of the Encyclopedia of Imām 'Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib.

In the end, I would like to thank my respected colleagues and everyone else who collaborated in the compilation of the Encyclopedia of Imām 'Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib, in particular the eminent scholars Sayyid Muḥammad Kāẓim Ṭabāṭabā'ī, Sayyid Maḥmūd Ṭabāṭabā'ī Nijād and the dear professor Mr. Muḥammad 'Ali Maḥdawī Rād, for their efforts in presenting analyses. I am also sincerely grateful to Mr. Aḥmad Riḍwānī who took on the English translation of Siyāsāt Nāmeḥ and the eminent scholar Hujjatul-Islam Mohammad Sharif Maḥdavi and Mr. Zaid Alsalamī for editing this work. I pray to Allah the Beneficent to bestow His rewards on them all, befitting His Grace and the dignity of the Master of the Pious ['Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib (a.s.)].

O Lord, Deign to accept this from us! Verily, You are the All-Hearing, the All-Knowing.¹

Introduction

Politics in the Two Schools of Thought

On the 18th of Dhil Hijjah 35 AH/June 17,656 CE, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) took over as leader of the Muslims and was martyred in his prayer niche on Ramaḍān 21st,40 AH /January 29th,661CE. His rule thus lasted for just four years, nine months and three days.

Among the many issues that merit discussion in relation to this period of his life are the following:

1. How the Imām (a.s.) came to power and the dimensions of his political reform;
2. The various kinds of resistance against the policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), politically and militarily, and the wars and other conflicts during his short period of rulership;
3. The insubordination of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) army, their refusing to go to battles and their weakness in front of the enemy and also tyrannical invasions, plundering and night raids by Mu'āwiya;
4. The companions of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and his agents;
5. Events leading to the plot for the assassination of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and his Martyrdom.

Of these topics, perhaps the most important is the way that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) organized his administration, and the reasons for his policies, and that is because of its relevance to the present era and the guiding principles it can offer to contemporary rulers, particularly to the statesmen of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the leaders of Islamic movements. We believe that a clarification of the political principles of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and a comparison with those of the Umayyad school, would confirm the validity of the Imām's political principles in governing and respond to the objections that some people have raised against them, both in the past and even today.

According to Imām 'Ali (a.s.), political insight is one of the most crucial requirements of leadership. Imām not only considers 'understanding and correct political perception' as the secret to a government's success and survival, but also stresses that 'governing a state is exactly politics itself'.¹ He asserts that political incapability is a blight that undermines a statesman's authority and can lead to his downfall. In Imām's view, therefore, rulers who do not possess such political insight will not be able to remain in power for long. Eventually, according to the teachings of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), the pursuit of ineffective and wrong policies is a clear sign of the decline of a government's authority and the weakness of a state.²

Therefore, the management of a society on the basis of Islamic principles, as defined by Imām 'Ali (a.s.), is only possible through the effective leadership of the rulers. In other words, statesmanship is one of the general principles of management and it is equally important in other schools. What distinguishes Islam from other doctrines, and puts the political principles of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) above others and those of Umayyad politics, is how politic is viewed and understood.

Umayyad Politics

In the political ideology of the Umayyads, the only principle involved in politics appears to be identifying the goal and achieving it through whatever means possible and necessary. Such approach to politics has been common in all societies throughout history. Even today, politicians and statesmen in the "International Community" seem to have no other definition of politics than this. In other words, politics in the Umayyad School, is the same category as the common understandings of the governments that are not based on any principles or values, and for them, it is not the criteria for distinguishing between truth and falsehood that give them direction in their practices. In describing a politician, Oswald Spengler says, "A person who is politician by nature has nothing to do with the truth and falsehood of things."

1. See 10/1 (Causes of Durability of Governments).

2. See 10/2 (Causes of the Decline of Governments).

The British philosopher Bertrand Russell had a similar view of the political motives and behavior of men in politics:

Political motives in most people include profiteering, selfishness, competition and love of power. For instance, in politics, all human actions originate from the above traits. A political leader who can convince people that he would be able to satisfy these needs, would also be able to subjugate people in such a way that they get to believe that two plus two equals five, or his authority has come down to him right from God.

The political leader who neglects these basic motives is usually deprived of the support of the masses. The psychology of public mobilizing forces is the most basic part of the education of successful political leaders. Most political leaders achieve their positions by convincing people that they have humanitarian ideals. It is easily understood that such a belief will be welcomed as it is emotionally appealing. Fettering people, public lectures and sermons, illegal punishments, and wars are procedures and steps towards the development of emotions. I think, for the followers of illogical thinking, keeping people in emotions provides with a better chance to deceive them and make benefit from them.¹

This interpretation of politics is clearly the same interpretation of Umayyad statesmen, beginning with Mu'āwiyā. On this basis, and by relying on the slogan 'Kingdom is barren', in order to seize control and safeguard his acquired power, Mu'āwiyā was ready to commit any mischievous act and use any means to achieve this goal.

The Politics of Imām 'Alī (a.s.)

In the view of Imām 'Alī (a.s.), by contrast, politics is the administration of society based on Divine principles and values, and a truth-oriented movement. He is quoted as saying:

1. Robert Edward Egner, Bertrand Russell, Best: Silhouette in Satyr.

Kingdom is politics.¹

Thus he (a.s.) never approved of doing anything simply for the purpose of achieving or retaining power. On the contrary, he never considered resorting to illegitimate measures, even if the alternative was the possible loss of rightful power.

According to the teachings of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), politics involves recognizing and employing of legitimate strategies to administer a society and provide its people with material and spiritual welfare. In other words, in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) teaching, exploiting illegitimate methods and tactics, to achieve ends, is not politics, rather they are deception, fraud and as in Imām al-Ṣādiq (a.s.)'s words, 'imposture', even though they may appear effective.²

Therefore, from the viewpoint of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), the government is based on mastery over the hearts and the subjugation of the intellects and emotions, not dominating over them by the exploitation and subjugation of their bodies. In such an understanding of government, there is no need to resort to duplicitous and illegitimate political strategies and methods. According to Imām 'Ali (a.s.), power has no sanctity other than to administer justice, and therefore there is no reason to resort to illegitimate or underhand methods to preserve it. Such mastery over hearts is only possible by using legitimate methods and by treating people in accordance to the principles of justice and truth. Unlawful and false policies may achieve and maintain power for a short while, but they will never last long and they bring nothing to people but harm and loss:

"Truth has a [lasting] sovereignty while falsehood has a [short-lived] turn."³

1. al-Amālī by al-Ṣādiq, p. 132.

2. Imām al-Ṣādiq (a.s.) says about Mu'āwiya's political cunningness: "It is imposture and devilishness; it looks like intellect but it is not intellect." (al-Kāfī, vol. 1, p. 11.)

3. al-Kāfī, vol. 2, p. 447.

Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) Reforms

In accordance to this approach towards government and understanding of politics, Imām 'Ali (a.s.), immediately after taking over the reins of power, launched a series of state reforms, calling for 'social and economic justice'. He declared that his main object in accepting government was to 'embark on reforms and restore suppressed rights'. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) believed that the events that occurred after the death of the Messenger of God (s.a.w.) had radically distorted the values that he (s.a.w.) had introduced, and there was as a result a great inconsistency between the rule and example of the Prophet (saw), and what had been done in the name of an 'Islamic State'. In his formal statement at the beginning of his Caliphate, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) had asserted that what had previously been done had been inconsistent with the conduct (sīrah) and tradition (sunnah) of the Messenger of God (s.a.w.). He believed that the current state of affairs was unacceptable; and there was a strong need to establish new ways and procedures of government, and that this idea can be achieved by the 'code of conduct and reforming of Imām 'Ali (a.s.)' which are in concordance with the 'Prophetic traditions and reforms' rather than the 'tradition of the two Sheikhs'¹,

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) with his deep political insight realized that such a process of radical reforms would not be tolerated by the people who had become accustomed to reversed values over a period of years:

Neither hearts can bear it nor can intellects stand firm before it.²

However, he was a truth-oriented statesman who regarded honesty in speech and clarity in position as well as adherence to the truth, and nothing less, as being the very essence of politics. Thus, in his very first statement after accepting the leadership of the community, he explicitly declared an unrelenting struggle against the errors and deviations of latest years, without the slightest fear of the political repercussions and social tensions that would ensue.

Policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) concerning Confrontation with Deviations

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) had a deep and precise awareness of what had befallen the people and knew how they had acclimatized to the deviations; he therefore became determined to embark on reforms. He knew both the depth of the calamity and the difficulty of removing it from every circle of the society. Thus, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) acted neither hastily nor unplanned. He divided the reforms he intended to make into two categories:

1. Fighting against administrative and economic corruption.
2. Fighting against cultural deviation.

The Policy of Administrative and Economic Reformation

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) began to encounter administrative and economic deviations and fight against corruption in these areas from the very beginning of his rule. He expelled incompetent, corrupt and ill-behaved administrators from their posts and reclaimed the plundered public treasury.

On the first day of his rule, Imām proclaimed his intended reform policy in the following thought provoking words:

وَأَعْلَمُوا أَنِّي إِنِ اجْتَبَيْتُكُمْ رَزَيْتُ بِكُمْ مَا أَعْلَمُ ، وَلَمْ أَصْغِ إِلَى قَوْلِ الْقَائِلِ وَعَنْبِ

"You should know that if I responded to you, I would lead you as I know I should, and would not care about whatever one may say or reproach."¹

Meaning, you should comply with me in a way that I know. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is a truth-centered person, proficient in the sunnah and absorbed in God. What is thought-provoking here is that Imām indicates that he knows that compelling people to comply with his way, would lead to hardships, or even more, being followed with rebukes, faultfinding, and stirring up the society, but his motto was 'I am a truth-centered and I safeguard the truth and nothing else'.

Then, on the second day of his Caliphate, he asserted in his lofty status of social guidance, and in view of his great responsibility of leadership, saying:

أَلَا إِنَّ كُلَّ قَطِيعَةٍ أَقْطَعَهَا عُثْمَانُ وَكُلَّ مَالٍ أَعْطَاهُ مِنْ مَالِ اللَّهِ فَهُوَ مَرْدُودٌ فِي
بَيْتِ الْمَالِ ، فَإِنَّ الْحَقَّ الْقَدِيمَ لَا يُبْطِلُهُ شَيْءٌ ، وَلَوْ وَجَدْتُهُ وَقَدْ تَزَوَّجَ بِهِ النِّسَاءُ
وَفُرِّقَ فِي الْبُلْدَانِ ، لَرَدَدْتُهُ إِلَى حَالِهِ ، فَإِنَّ فِي الْعَدْلِ سَعَةً ، وَمَنْ ضَاقَ عَنْهُ الْعَدْلُ
فَاجْتَوَرَ عَنْهُ أَضْيَقٌ.

Know that any land that 'Uthmān had granted and any wealth from God's property that he had given as gift will be refunded to the Public Treasury; as nothing can annul previous rights. If I find the assets I will restore them to their rightful place, even if they are given as dowries to women or distributed among cities; for "spaciousness is only in justice, and for whomsoever justice is constraining, oppression will be even more so."¹

In a fervent, awakening and thought-provoking sermon, Imām spoke widely on the same day about the responsibilities of the authorities of a community in realizing social justice, stressing that he would not give a special privilege to anybody to use Public Treasury; and those who have taken public treasury, plots of land, water, well-bred horses, and beautiful maids through usurpation, should know that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) will confiscate them all and return them to the Treasury.

These words came down like a heavy thunderbolts, striking like a blacksmith's hammer, on the heads of those who had plundered and pillaged (illegitimately) and were now extremely worried. Thus Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) outcry, advocating justice, reverberated more than ever among the well-known figures that soon turned into staunch opponents of his (a.s.) ruling.

These mottoes were announced and the people got familiar with a resonance, unknown to them up to then.

On the third day of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) rule, people sought to receive their portion of the Public Treasury. Imām ordered his scribe, 'Ubaydullah ibn Rāfi' as follows:

Start from Muhājirin (the emigrants). Call for them and give them three dirārs each. Then, call for the Anṣār (the supporters) and treat them similarly. Anyone else that comes to you, black or red, or..., treat them the same way as you treated Muhājirin and Anṣār....¹

The elders among the people found that Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) plan of economic justice was not a slogan, but that it was indeed a real and very serious practice. Objections were raised before the scribe of the Imam [a.s.], who later reported them to him. Not only did the Imām remain unmoved by the onset of oppositions, [especially from insolent figures] and did not hesitate on his path, rather he asserted the continuation of his reforms decisively. He said:

"By God, if I remain [in power] and stay secure and sound, I will set them firm on a bright path."²

From this very moment the vengeance for the killing of 'Uthmān began! Was it not ironic that some of the gold-hoarders and affluent stipulated their allegiance to the Imām on the following two conditions?

1. 'Ali (a.s.) should not meddle with the wealth that they have seized during the rule of 'Uthmān.
2. The murderers of 'Uthmān should be identified, arrested and killed.

However, the Imām knew that the revenge for 'Uthmān's bloodshed was only a pretext. Their main concern was to prevent 'Ali (a.s.) from taking back the illegitimate riches and treasured up properties left over from the era of 'Uthmān. Regarding this, the Imām had heard various proposals and had strongly rejected all the proposals which were compromising, contradictory to the restoration of rights and based on trampling on the Public Treasury.

The Policy of Cultural Reformation

In different parts of the Encyclopedia of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.), the reasons for people's uprising against 'Uthmān's rule are mentioned; the most important of which was standing up against administrative vices and economic corruptions.¹ People were fed up with the unfair extravagance and nepotism and would not tolerate the incompetent sovereignty and incapability of the statesmen who had been assigned to their posts, only because of their attachment to the Caliph. Accordingly, from the early days of his rule, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) started his bureaucratic and economic reforms, despite all the difficulties that arose thereby. However, the society was not yet ready for the accomplishment of cultural and intellectual reforms and fight against distortions of values and deviations which had taken place in various dimensions in the Islamic state. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) had to delay and act prudently, preparing the ground and then begin the struggle. In other words, this movement was in need of more stability and stronger establishment in his government. That was why Imām 'Ali (a.s.) declared:

"If my steps remain firm through these slippery places, I shall alter [many] things."²

The Imām could not easily and immediately build a different culture and fight against what had been fixed in the people's minds, tongues, souls, and characters over a period of twenty five years and they were accustomed to, so far.

Without doubt, this fight would have raised widespread discontent and exacerbated the already complex affairs, hindering the chance for other reformations. Therefore, forbearance had to be shown until the appropriate time came.

Nonetheless, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) embarked on reforms on the basis of precise planning, clear perspective and explicit goals, aiming at restoring the community back to the Prophet's (ṣ.a.w.) conduct and tradition. He took the first step toward the founding and expansion of social justice and implementation of administrative and economic reforms, carrying it on to the end of his life in order to lay the foundation for an 'Islamic' community in its absolute meaning, based on the Qur'anic values and Divine doctrines. It is regretful that evil-mindedness, inhumanity and tyranny hindered this great man of justice and faith, from achieving all those noble goals.

What we are dealing with here is an account of the most fundamental reforms of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in the bureaucratic, cultural, economic, social, judicial, security, military and international areas, based on texts of history and traditions, while trying to explain the principles of the reforms. Without question, a thorough explanation of the foundations of Imām 'Ali's policies and an interpretation of his reformation certainly demand more efforts and time.

Ruling over the Hearts

Islam is the religion of governance (ḥukūmah), as is clearly evident in the doctrines of this Divine faith. However, a close study of the Islamic texts dealing with the foundations of an Islamic government indicates that Islam is a religion that rules over people's hearts rather than over their 'bodies', dominate them with political authority. The principles of this type of ruling and statesmanship are tantamount to the political foundations of the Islamic state and the political foundations of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) ruling system are the very foundations of Islamic management.

Islam is the system for the material and spiritual advancement of human beings. The most basic element of this code is love. The role of love in the actualization of an Islamic government and the plans provided by the Divine religion for the development of human society is so highly emphasized upon, that Imām al-Bāqir (a.s.) considers the religion of Islam as nothing other than love, saying:

هَلِ الدِّينُ إِلَّا الْحُبُّ؟

Is religion anything but love?¹

In the view of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), the main pillars of Islam and the principles of its plan of perfection are based on love for Allah. In this regard he says:

إِنَّ هَذَا الْإِسْلَامَ دِينُ اللَّهِ الَّذِي اصْطَفَاهُ لِنَفْسِهِ ، وَ اصْطَفَاهُ عَلَى عَيْنِهِ وَأَصْفَاهُ

"Verily, this Islam is the religion which Allah has chosen for Himself, formulated before His eyes, for which He selected the best among His Creation and He established its pillars on His love."²

1. Da'ā'im al-Islām, vol. 1, p. 71. Friendship in the Qur'ān and hadith p. 259.

2. Nahj al-Balāghah, Sermon 198.

Religious and truthful political leaders of the Islamic nation are manifestations of the people's love for their Lord and the people's love for them is love for God. In this respect, the fundamental basis of the Islamic government is beyond people's allegiance and their votes. An Islamic government is rooted in the people's love. This is indeed the secret of so much emphasis given by the Holy Qur'an and Islamic traditions regarding love of Ahlul Bayt (a.s.).

On the other hand, it is clearly evident that love is not something which could be gained by compulsion. It is not possible for a person, by merely reading a statement or a pamphlet, to start loving someone or something or being forced to do so, contrary to his inner drive.

Man loves beauty. This love for beauty lies deep in his soul, and by nature, he loves all types of material and spiritual beauties. Consequently, if he views someone's personality, manner and behavior as beautiful, he would fall in love with him; and if he finds him displeasing, he would turn away from him. This is what human nature dictates, unless this inner nature changes.

We therefore understand that the secret of the emphasis on showing love for Ahlul Bayt (a.s.) and the philosophy of its necessity, are in persuasion to achieve real knowledge about them, as their character, behavior and treatment of people is so beautiful and attractive that true and unbiased knowledge of them simply leads to loving and attachment to them. How is it possible for a person to see and know so much inner beauty in the conduct of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and yet not to love him, unless one has lost his human conscience and defiled his pure and noble nature? This is the secret of the people's such fervent love and devotion towards Imām 'Ali (a.s.). Clearly, those who love him are of various types throughout history and unbounded by ideologies and beliefs, from all schools of thought; as beauty and the love for beauty have no boundaries, such as love for Imām 'Ali (a.s.) who is the greatest manifestation of beauty on earth.

The comportment of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) during his life was totally adherent with the truth, truth-centeredness and the spreading of truth. He (a.s.), during his brief period of reign, demonstrated the most beautiful aspect of human rule. Would it be possible to behold

Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) grace, beauty and its manifestation in his government and yet not to fall in love with it?!

Now, before we elaborate on the historical texts and traditions relating to the statesmanship of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), we intend to review the Imām's political principles in government. This review would be very brief and within our limited ability and time. In reality, restating these principles is manifesting the secret of the beauties and attractions of Imam 'Ali (a.s.) and indicating the political principles of ruling over hearts. We hope that the officials of the Islamic Republic of Iran do their best in getting to know, introducing and implementing these beauties and try to identify the reality of their political and administrative life as well as their transient responsibility with Imām 'Ali (a.s.), and hence delineating a beautiful perspective of the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) for all mankind.

One: Administrative Policies

The managerial policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in administration can be stated in the following principles:

1. Honesty in Politics

Honesty is the most fundamental principle in the administrative policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.). Throughout history, statesmen were mostly dishonest to people; what they have told people was not what they had thought about, nor acted upon accordingly. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) had set honesty and truthfulness to the people, as a steadfast principle in his sovereignty and remained faithful to it from the early days of his reign to the moment of his Martyrdom. Without doubt, honesty has been one of the most significant causes of the everlasting attractions of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) rule over the hearts throughout history and an explicit distinction between his (a.s.) politics and the Umayyad politics.

In the Umayyad culture, honesty is meaningless. All sorts of fabrication, lies and imposture are the motif of their politics. As previously mentioned and as it is evident to those having a slight familiarity with the history of politics, most statesmen of the past had no implication of politics except for inversion of reality and truth and spreading falsehood in their interactions. Narrating a memory of a true follower of Imam Ali's (as.) school of politics, the late Imām Khomeini in this respect would be very beneficial and interesting. After his first intense attack against the tyrannical monarchy he was arrested and a high government official met with him and spoke to him about politics. His account of what that person said is as follows:

"[He said:] Politics is a kind of malice, falsehood, rascality, etc, so you'd better leave it to us!"

Imām Khomeini goes on to say:

"He was right in that. If politics is such, then it is theirs."¹

As for the professional statesmen, if lying, deception and hypocrisy are eliminated from politics, nothing will be left of it for them. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) politics is in extreme contradiction with this. In his view, honesty is the primary condition of statesmanship. If honesty is left out of the statesmen's actions and relations with people, then, human rights, adherent to law, social justice, and being truth-oriented, etc..., would be meaningless and vain. In other words, all these in the absence of honesty would be mere slogans for deception of people and instruments for further violation of their rights.

In the politics of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), employing 'inverting' methods is permissible only in battles, within all its restrictions, exceptions, and frameworks which will be pointed out when mentioning the warfare policies of the Imām (a.s.).

2. Truth-Orientation

Adherence to the truth is the manifestation of political honesty in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) government, and is evident all through the short period of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) reign. He thought of nothing but truth and intended nothing but the establishing of rights. His outcry was for the restoring of rights and his silence was for preparing the grounds for safeguarding the truth. His teachings in this regard are very thought-provoking and awakening. There were many who spoke of truth and claimed to be adherent to it; but when their personal, group and sectarian interests happened to conflict with their slogans, their interpretations and justifications would come to their aid to surrender the truth. But, Alis's steadfastness and firm stance on truth and right is indeed a matter of wonder. In his view the 'Principle' is right. So it must be equally applied to everyone and practiced by all, friends, near of kin, insiders, outsiders, etc.

1. Wilayate Faqih, p. 192 - 193.

3. Adherence to the Law

Law is a strong cord that brings union and alliance among different social strata. What is addressed here is not the issue of lawlessness, as a lawless society is not a human society, rather a jungle. In fact, the position of law and the way rulers and people look at it, hold significance. The sanctity of law according to Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is something irreplaceable. This can be seen in many texts, such as "Imām 'Ali (a.s.) Encyclopedia", where it reports his interaction with people in financial matters, implementation of legal punishments, judgments, etc. Contemplating on these narrations will show that from the view of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) no one was above the law and no person or no authority could hinder the execution of Divine law. The position of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) clearly indicates that he did not regard himself as a man of authority above the law.¹ This was why he did not tolerate any compromising and struggled against flattery and hypocrisy in politics, strongly fought against falsehood, pretending rightfulness(as a show), baseless justifications and [personal] interpretations that were so prevalent in the Umayyad politics.

4. Administrative Discipline

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) frequently and emphatically enjoined orderliness in affairs and discipline in behavior. This instruction was so important that Imām, even in his deathbed –where he would naturally have stated his most significant and efficient instructions– emphasized it.²

He viewed organization in life and discipline in action as among the lofty goals of Divine Revelation:

1. See 3/3, h. 89.

2. See 3/5, h. 102.

أَلَا إِنَّ فِيهِ عِلْمَ مَا يَأْتِي وَالْحَدِيثَ عَنِ الْمَاضِي وَدَوَاءَ دَائِكُمْ وَنَظْمَ مَا بَيْنَكُمْ.....

"Verily, in it [the Qur'an] there is the knowledge of the future, the accounts of the past, the remedy to your maladies, and (what brings) order of your affairs."¹

He would continuously advise his administrators to attempt to maintain administrative discipline and not to forget orderliness in affairs, doing whatever they plan to in its due time and not wasting their time in disorder and confusion.

5. Appointment of Competent and Capable Administrators

Administrators are the executive arms of the rulers and they are the agents of establishing justice and spreading the law in society. Their competence, capability, steadfastness and behavioral soundness have doubtlessly the most effective function in organizing the society in its various dimensions. Therefore, from the perspective of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), in the appointing of administrators, competence and merits must be the criteria, rather than kinship or any kind of social relations. 'Meritocracy' is the quintessence of appointment in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) politics. Moral competence, nobility, expertise and capability should be the criteria for the appointments, and not kinship, or any kind of causal, factional, and sectarian relations, particularly if they are with political motivations(and void of truth).

The Imām maintains that, directors and officials do not have the right to grant governmental posts to people on the basis of familial or political relations. They do not have the permission to consign people's affairs to those who do not come from a noble and righteous family; they are not privileged to assign those who are far from moral virtues and good disposition. They cannot employ those who do not possess the proper expertise and necessary cheerfulness in performing executive jobs. He (a.s.) viewed the job of an administrator as a 'trust' that should not be consigned to anyone but a trustworthy person.

6. Providing the Administrators with Their Financial Needs

Imām believed that the administrators must enjoy sufficient remuneration. According to Imam 'Ali (a.s.), in preventing othe formation of any corruption and in introducing reforms, it is necessary that administrators be handsomely remunerated. In this case, on one hand, they will avoid the embezzlement of the Public Treasury, and on the other hand, the officials will have the authority to punish the mutinous and treacherous and discipline the corrupt so that they would have no excuse for violation.

7. Special Care for the Armed Forces

Armed forces are the strong fortresses for safeguarding the sovereignty of a community. Their military power is definitely very effective in maintaining security and preventing the intrusion of the enemy, and above all, in barring even the slightest temptation by the rebels to launch an invasion. Military forces according to Imām 'Ali (a.s.) must enjoy special care from the officials. They must interact with troops as fathers do with their sons.

8. Necessity for Setting up an Establishment to Monitor the Function of the Administrators

The world is a slippery place, and worldly attractions and glamour may cause one to blunder and fall. The officials are to take utmost care in selecting worthy administrators, and appointing pure-hearted, good-tempered and steadfast people for administrative tasks. Once they achieve this goal, they should not feel relieved of possible administrative corruption, violation of the law and behavioral abnormalities. Therefore, setting up an organization for supervising the administrators' behavior and watching over the administrative violations and deviations would be mandatory. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) strongly forbade prying into people's privacy in a ruling system;¹ but he always emphasized the surveillance over employees of an Islamic state and monitoring the behavior of administrators through certain intelligence establishments, lest they should neglect their duties or violate people's rights by means of their power and the authority which is at their disposal.

That section of Imām's letters in this respect and his letters to the wrongdoing administrators such as Ash'ath ibn Qays, Ziyād ibn

1. See Nahj al-Balāghah, letter 53.

Abih, 'Abdullāh ibn 'Abbās, Qudāma ibn 'Ajlān, Maṣqala ibn Haybara, and Mundhir ibn Jārūd, indicate that he (a.s.) had employed very powerful intelligence establishments in his government to monitor the administrators.

However, what is very important here is that the informants were both honest and faithful so that they would watch over carefully, follow up steadfastly and investigate honestly on one hand, and be truthful and loyal in their reports on the other.

The people that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) had selected for this extremely important task were so highly endowed with justice, truthfulness, and authority that their reports were the bases for administrative rewards and punishments. Based on the reports, those who had done good were rewarded, the treacherous were punished once proven guilty and the corrupt ones were expelled from work, in order to set an example for others.

9. Prevention of Gifts

In order to put an end to bribery in the bureaucratic system and cleanse the society of this evil and corruptive practice, he (a.s.) banned the acceptance of gifts. Nonetheless, imposters will try to penetrate into the administrative body of the government to utilize the state facilities by any possible means, Imām (a.s.), therefore, considered the acceptance of gifts by the administrators as transgression (ghulūl) and called the bribery as a kind of polytheism (shirk).

10. Decisiveness together with Tolerance

Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) behavior highly represented decisiveness and tolerance. From his point of view, administrators must practice tolerance and flexibility while being decisive. He regards extreme violence as harmful to management and he also considers too much leniency and easygoingness in administering justice in people's affairs as detrimental. According to Imām (a.s.), a successful manager would be he who can devise a midway between decisiveness and compassion, strictness and leniency. Wherever there is need for firmness, he should practice it and not back down; and if leniency is demanded for being successful, he should not avoid using it.

Decisiveness coupled with tolerance, and strictness joined with leniency is the strategy that Imām 'Alī (a.s.) employed to prevent rebels from turning more rebellious and the hopeful from becoming desperate. Pondering on factual examples of what was said here –and presented in this book– would be very instructive.

Two: Cultural Policies

Discussing the various dimensions of cultural policies demands much wider attention. Here, however briefly, we will mention certain points as an introduction to texts of history and ḥadīth:

1. Development of Education

In Imām 'Alī's (a.s.) system of government, cultural development precedes economic development, for the fact that economic development is not possible without cultural development, and also unconscious society submerged in ignorance neither enjoys the economic possibilities, facilities and blessings nor is it endowed with skills to use them or be even aware of the necessity to use them. Cultural and educational development is a true need of the human soul and mind, and economic development is the need of the body. Without doubt the needs of the soul and the intellect supersede the needs of the body.

Imām 'Alī (a.s.) considered knowledge as the origin and basis of all physical and spiritual goodness and a criterion for the evaluation of human beings. He believed that ignorance is the source of all evils and disappointments:

"The worth of every person is what he knows."¹

"Knowledge is the root of all good, and ignorance is the origin of all evils."²

1. See Science and Wisdom in the Qur'an and Ḥadīth, 1/30.

2. Ibid. h. 15 For more information on the texts denoting the precedence of cultural development over economic development, see Chapter Two of Part One of the book.

He (a.s.) also emphasized that the people's need for knowledge and acquisition of moral virtues are higher than their economic needs:

"Verily, people need righteous manners (adab) more than they need silver and gold."¹

"Verily, your need to acquire manners is more than your need to acquire silver and gold."²

By looking at this issue from another perspective, we notice that the Divine teachings have clearly stated that the philosophy of Revelation, the secret of Prophethood and the reason for government in the doctrine of Prophecy is to educate and discipline human beings, remove ignorance and motivate the intellect. Similarly, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) whose mind, tongue, and manners were the clarifiers and explainers of the Prophetic culture, has presented this reality in a very beautiful form in his sermons.³ He clearly presented in his practical way of life the necessity of attaching importance to the culture of the society, giving priority to education over daily human needs and stressing the development of culture along with other dimensions of life. How subtly he defines the "age of pagan ignorance (jahiliyya)" as a symbol of spreading ignorance and total destruction of knowledge, and without doubt a Divine Prophetic community and that of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) must be far from that.⁴

2. Reforming the Culture

Among the sublime and eminent policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is the battle against false traditions, impolite manners, unsuitable behaviors, and the emphasis on decent manners and befitting behaviors, or, in short, rectifying the culture of the public. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) would advise his administrators not to eliminate anything from the society on the pretext that it is left over from the past. He would ask them to have a thorough study of them and support the beneficial and humane traditions and fight only against evil traditions, and never tolerate their perpetuation and expansion.

1. Ghurar al-Hikam, h. 3590.

3. Criticism, Yes! Flattery, Never!

Criticism is a right by means of which other rights are restored. It prevents despotism -the most dangerous pitfall of governments-.

In a society where criticism is free and people are able to disclose the rulers' deficiencies and flaws, the statesmen can better notice their own weaknesses, fight against corruption and injustice and offer valuable services.

On the other hand, in the absence of criticism, the grounds will be paved for the emergence of flatterers, sycophants and hypocrites. The statesmen's weak points in policies, plans and steps will also remain unnoticed, and thus corruption, decadence, and injustice in governmental organizations will develop, leading to the fall of the governments.

When the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) took over the government, undue praises and exaggerated compliments about authorities were part of the general culture. The rulers did not prevent these things on the contrary they further encouraged them. It was in this way that the culture of flattery and sycophancy had developed and the cunning enemies of truth had achieved political and social positions by flattering the commanders and authorities, without being qualified for those jobs.

On the other hand, since the authorities were never criticized, they began to slowly consider themselves immaculate and flawless, to the extent that they took the constructive and compassionate criticisms as offensive and deemed it necessary to stand against them, in order to protect their position.

Of the most exciting and exhilarating measures of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) taken in rectification of the common culture, was battling against flattery and sycophancy and his stress on constructive criticism.

He (a.s.) asked his administrators to appoint their associates, consultants and companions, from among people who were more straight forward in their impartiality and their sincerity. They were told that they must treat them in a way that they would never appeal to flattery, evade any criticism or excessively praise [others]. He (a.s.) would also openly and staunchly oppose any praises [made to himself] and mordantly respond to those who praised him. He asked people neither to praise nor to flatter him for his Divine duties, but instead to criticize him benevolently if they found anything wrong with his plans or if they found his manners in need of criticism, and that they should not talk to him the way they talk to the tyrants.

Interestingly enough, the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) had brought up the issue of letting others criticize him, not only in regular circumstances but even on the most critical occasions of his government, like amid the battle of Şiffin.

It so happened that in an exciting speech, Imām (a.s.) made some remarks regarding the mutual rights of the leadership and the people. One of his companions who was very excited by these points began as usual to praise and applaud him while expressing his loyalty. Without being influenced by his praising and applause or even being concerned about the sensitive and critical current circumstances, Imām (a.s.) responded to such admiration as follows:

وَأَنَّ مِنْ أَسْخَفِ حَالَاتِ الْوُلَاةِ عِنْدَ صَالِحِ النَّاسِ أَنْ يُظَنَّ بِهِمْ حُبُّ الْفَخْرِ، وَيُوضَعَ
أَمْرُهُمْ عَلَى الْكِبَرِ. وَقَدْ كَرِهْتُ أَنْ يَكُونَ جَلَالِي فِي ظَنِّكُمْ أَنِّي أُحِبُّ الْإِطْرَاءَ وَاسْتِجَاعَ
الشَّأْنِ، وَلَسْتُ بِحَمْدِ اللَّهِ كَذَلِكَ، وَلَوْ كُنْتُ أُحِبُّ أَنْ يُقَالَ ذَلِكَ لَتَرَكْتُهُ انْحِطَاطًا لِلَّهِ

فَلَا تُكَلِّمُونِي بِمَا تُكَلِّمُ بِهِ الْجَبَابِرَةَ، وَلَا تَحْفَظُوا مِنِّي بِمَا يُتَحَفَّظُ بِهِ عِنْدَ أَهْلِ الْبَادِرَةِ،
وَلَا تُخَالِطُونِي بِالْمُصَانَعَةِ، وَلَا تُنْظِرُونِي اسْتِثْقَالَ فِي حَقِّ قِيلَ لِي، وَلَا تِلْكَ إِعْظَامَ لِنَفْسِي،
فَإِنَّهُ مَنْ اسْتِثْقَلَ الْحَقَّ أَنْ يُقَالَ لَهُ أَوْ الْعَدْلَ أَنْ يُعْرَضَ عَلَيْهِ كَانَ الْعَمَلُ بِهَا أَثْقَلَ عَلَيْهِ.

"According to righteous people, the worst trait of rulers is that it may be thought about them that they love glory, and their affairs may be taken to be based on pride. I really hate that it may occur to your mind that I love high praises or to hear eulogies. By the Grace of Allah, I am not like this. Even if I had loved to be mentioned like this, I would have quickly given it up in submissiveness before God”

“Do not address me in the same manner despots are addressed, do not evade me as the people of passion are (to be) evaded, do not meet me with flattery and do not think that I shall take it badly if a true thing is said to me or think that I wish to be admired, because the person who finds the truth said to him or justice presented to him unbearable, it would be more difficult for him to act upon them.”¹

Furthermore, he draws the following conclusion from his words:

Therefore, do not abstain from saying the truth to me or pointing out a matter of justice, because I do not regard myself being immune from mistake. I am not immune from making mistakes in my actions, unless God helps me in my affairs as He is more Powerful than I am.²

By these words, Imām ‘Ali (a.s.) clearly expressed that if it were not through God’s assistance and his Divine infallibility (‘iṣmah), he would possibly fall into mistakes too. Despite his enjoyment of this Divine immunity, he did not want people to be hindered by his political and spiritual status from criticizing him, and stressed that if they realized anything mischievous and wrong in his government, they must proceed and point it out to him.

In other words, by responding to the excessive admiration of that person, Imām (a.s.) on one hand firmly condemned the bad custom of praising the commanders and political authorities in the Muslim community, and on the other hand, he wanted to develop in people the spirit of criticizing and scrutinizing the actions of the authorities of the Islamic state, even if they were on the highest level of administration, like the infallible Imām (a.s.), and also encouraged the acceptance of constructive criticism among the high ranking authorities of the Muslim community.

1. See 4/5, ḥ. 164.

4. Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) Reaction to Destructive Criticism

One point that must be understood at the end of this discourse is Imām's (a.s.) sagacious reaction to criticism. Taking his conduct in encountering criticism and the objections of three main political opposition trends, i.e., Nakithin (covenant breakers), Qasiṭin (deviators), and Mariqin (transgressors) into consideration, indicate that although he formally and practically asked people to express their criticism, he did not allow the seekers of power, the spiteful and the plotters to tell and write whatever they wished in order to achieve their political goals on the pretext of criticism.¹

5. Adherence to Truth, rather than to Personalities

However high people soar towards the truth, the possibility of their eventual deviation can never be negated. Therefore, it is important that people, in following the personalities, to notice this fact, and never consider human beings as 'absolute'. Paying attention to this issue and other enlightening teachings of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), should be regarded as the most fundamental guidelines of that holy Imām in rectifying the general culture of the public. It is obvious that in political and social trends, most deviations that occur, originate from absolutism in regards to figures and the notion of 'personalism' in taking stances.

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) used to warn people that personalities, however great, noble, popular or trustworthy they may be, cannot be a criterion for distinguishing truth from falsehood. He tried to get the society to a stage of awareness, understanding of stances and criteria and cultural consciousness, that people would measure personalities and their stand by truth and to see the truth as a criterion for getting to know personalities, and not the other way round.

Three: Economic Policies

The people who stood up against 'Uthmān's policies proclaimed that the reasons for their uprising was economic disorder, the caliph's excessive open-handedness, unnecessary spending, negligence of people's livelihood and dishonest use of the Public Treasury.

In such an environment, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) from one side stressed on the issue of production, and from the other, gave priority to the regulation of the market, and to conclude, he paid close attention to the distribution of the Public Treasury, rejecting any kind of discrimination. Perhaps this was Imām's most difficult position.

The principles of the policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in economy can be specified as follows:

1. Promotion of Work Ethos

Paying attention to work and endeavor occupies a high status in the teachings of Imām 'Ali (a.s.). From his (a.s.) point of view, economic poverty is caused by the culture of lassitude, inactivity, laziness and incapability. A society replete with cheerfulness, full of positive movement and dominated by the culture of work will not be inflicted by poverty which is the origin of many spiritual, material, individual and social maladies. Imām therefore highly emphasized the necessity of working and striving, regarding work, as an act of worship and striving for the improvement of living condition, as taking steps towards God Almighty.

2. Agricultural Development

Land is the source of life. According to Imām 'Ali (a.s.) people who possess land and water and at the same time suffer from poverty are far from Divine Mercy and deprived of God's support. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) emphasized reviving the land and highly recommended the development of farming as a means of eliminating poverty from the society. He would ask people to engage in the prospering and developing of lands. Above all this, he regarded paying attention to the agriculture as a touchstone for evaluating the governments and their efficiency in rulership. He considered agricultural development as among the main duties of the administrators and commissioned the troop commanders to defend the farmers' rights.

3. Development of Crafts

Due to its regional conditions, the society in which Imām 'Ali (a.s.) had set up his government did not have the qualifications for the development of crafts and industry. However, according to traditions quoted from him, he (a.s.) placed great importance on crafts, using the term 'treasures' for such professions. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) enjoined his administrators to seriously support the artisans and he encouraged craftsmen to take utmost care regarding the production of well-made goods and never sacrifice a product's quality' for the sake of speed in its production.

4. Development of Trade

In early Islam and also during the time of the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) trade played the most important role in the society. As a result, from one side he would encourage the trade prosperity, and on the other side he would stress on supporting the merchants within the governmental structure. He would also explain how to practice trade, how merchants were to deal in transactions, and in what manner trading had to be performed.

5. Direct Supervision of the Market

The market presents the outcomes of the economic endeavors of a society. Transactions take place in the marketplace, and the businessmen are somehow directly associated with people. The well-being of the market would not only lead to healthy transactions, but also to people's proper use of the process of economic struggles and endeavor for daily sustenance. Without doubt, the first loss due to abnormality of improper relations in market transactions would be primarily sustained by the people.

Due to the importance of the market and its great impact on the economical situation of the people and their livelihood, Imām 'Ali

(a.s.) himself directly supervised the market and the quality of the transactions made there. He (a.s.) would go to the markets of Kūfa every morning and, as the narrator expresses, 'like a children's teacher', instruct the traders to observe piety and avoid shortchanging, defraud, lying, deceiving and oppressing the customers. The narrations that report this direct supervision are very interesting and instructive to read. The Imām (a.s.) would shout among the Muslims, enjoining them not to practice fraud and hoarding, to be fair and honest in offering the goods as they really were, not to pretend genuineness, to treat the customers in a well-disposed manner, not to humiliate the seller when they are buying goods and not to overestimate their own goods when selling them.

All of these admonitions, warnings and instructions of Imām (a.s.) that were given to the tradesmen in regards to the practice of honesty, justice, human disposition, dignity and magnanimity, are all worth paying attention.

6. Fair Levying of Taxes

Rulership according to Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is for the sake of people and the establishment of their rights. That is why a part of the government's financial needs must be met by the people who benefit from the government, and are engaged in producing and trading under its protection. It is for such reasons that taxes are levied in all ruling systems, although by different methods of collection and inclusiveness. In the view point of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), while the levying of taxes and the government's responsibility in receiving these taxes from people are stressed, the type of approach towards taxes, why they should be levied, how they must be collected are of particular importance. According to him, having trust in people, emphasis on not creating problems for them and also drawing people's attention to the status of taxes are very important.

In an instructions to one of his administrators, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) states: "Never use the whip and never put the people under pressure for collecting taxes." The administrator said, "In that case I will return the same way I had gone [to collect taxes], because the people will not give me anything." Imām (a.s.) replied, "Even if it happens so."¹

A glance at the teachings of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in this respect shows that the tax organization and its agents are bound to win the people's trust, and to observe Islamic morality and religious behavior, while they are trying to be alert and careful in safeguarding the Public Treasury and vigilantly learn about the problems of taxation.

7. Not Delaying the Distribution of Public Assets

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) never approved the blocking of public assets in the state's treasury; he would rather try to deliver them to the needy immediately. Imām's (a.s.) code of conduct indicates that he would not tolerate the delay of its distribution even for one night. He firmly believed that what rightly belonged to the people had to be delivered to them as soon as possible.

8. People's Equal Enjoyment of Public Assets

The equal allocation of the public assets among all Muslims was one of the policies in the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.). This was contrary to what had been practiced in the years previous to his reign and it was therefore very hard for the well off people and those that benefited from the government and were the influential of that time to accept it. In Imām's view, the skin color of a Muslim, his tribe, ancestors and their social status did not make any difference in their portion of the public assets. Arabs and non-Arabs, the muhājirīn (migrants) and the Anṣār (supporters), black and white and even the freed slaves and their former masters were equally treated and all enjoyed equally from the public incomes.

9. Provision of Basic Needs of Life for all

The general trend of the economic policy of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is to struggle against poverty and eradicate it from the Islamic society. His (a.s.) guidelines in this respect are very interesting and thought-provoking. He insists that the hunger and poverty of a group is caused by unlimited exploitation by another group and the squandering of the wealthy:

"A poor person would never go hungry except by that which a rich one enjoys (and he is deprived of it)."¹

The Islamic government is bound to prevent the undue accumulation of wealth in the hands of the powerful, and try to eradicate the means of any exploitation by the rich, and with constant attempts and accurate planning assist the poor to meet their basic needs of their lives. In that short period of his (a.s.) ruling and despite all the clashes, intrigues and hindrances, he made Kūfa reach such a condition about which he proclaimed:

"All in Kūfa are now enjoying ease and comfort. The most inferior in status among them has bread, can sit under shelter and drink from the water of the Euphrates."²

Imām's (a.s.) recommendations to his administrators for paying attention to the lower classes of society and the 'low-income stratum' are extremely astonishing. He does not tolerate the destitution of a Christian whom the rich benefited from and now in his old age had been abandoned³ and commanded his men to meet his needs through the Public Treasury. He (a.s.) also ordered his governors to search all corners of the society to identify the poor and needy and to save them from the claws of poverty.

10. Prohibition of Giving Gifts from the Public Assets

Governors are the trustees of the people and what they have at their disposal is a trust in their hand. Government administrators do not have the right to give away gifts from the government's assets on various occasions and for different reasons. Imām ‘Ali (a.s.) considers such treatment of the Public Treasury, as a form of tyranny:

1. See 5/11, h. 247.

2. See 5/11, h. 249.

3. See 5/14, h. 250.

جودُ الولاةِ بغيرِ المسلمين جورٌ وخيرٌ.

“The generosity of the administrators with the public assets is a tyranny and a betrayal.”¹

11. Prevention of Granting Privileges to One’s Kin

We said earlier that from the viewpoint of Imām ‘Ali (a.s.) what is at the disposal of the governors and administrators is entrusted to them and they are allowed to use these assets only for administering and rendering services. They do not have the right to allocate certain privileges or provisions to specific group of people. The children and close relatives of political and social dignitaries in Imām ‘Ali’s (a.s.) government and also his own children and relatives did not enjoy any particular privileges. Moreover, in order to set an example for others, the Imām (a.s.) showed more sensitivity towards his friends and kin and was harder and stricter on them in using the public assets.

12. Economization with Public Assets

As previously mentioned, the Imām’s policy in spending public assets, how the administrators should use them and how the Public Treasury should be spent, is very remarkable and instructive. In order to draw the attention of the administrators to maximum economization in [spending] public incomes and preventing them from extravagance, the Imām (a.s.) asked them through a decree to observe frugality, even in writing letters to him:

أوقوا أقلامكم ، و قاربوا بين سطوركُم ، واحذفوا عني فضولكم واقصدوا

قصد المعاني وإياكم والإكثار ، فإن أموال المسلمين لا تحتمل الإضرار.

“Sharpen your pens and reduce the space between lines; eliminate needless and useless things when writing to me,

1. See 5/14, h. 262.

concern yourself solely with the meaning and beware of verbosity in writing, for the Muslim public treasury does not tolerate any loss.”¹

It is clear that when an administrator hears about so much carefulness in writing letters, he would no longer give lavish banquets, ride costly horses, or try to achieve more and more welfare for himself through public assets.

Imām's personal economy and thrift in spending the public treasury is also extremely astounding. He would not even use the lantern that belongs to the public treasury when responding to those people who came to him at night for personal purposes. Along the same line is the thought-provoking and instructive story of Ṭalḥa and Zubair who went to Imām 'Ali (a.s.) to discuss their personal problems while he was taking care of affairs of the public treasury. He turned off the light which belonged to the public treasury and had another lantern brought in, unwilling to use the public belonging for personal purposes even for a few moments.²

Four: Social Policies

In social issues, the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) has also very firm and strong foundations, methods, and positions. The texts recounting the dimensions of his social policies are insightful and noteworthy. Based on these texts, Imām's principles of social policies can be recounted as follows:

1. Social Justice

Justice is the firmest, most pivotal, comprehensive and fundamental issue of the policies and rulership of Imām 'Ali (a.s.). The sacred name of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is so intertwined with justice that his name reminds us of justice and justice reminds us of him. Justice always prevailed in Imām 'Ali's life (a.s.) to the extent that he sacrificed his life dying a martyr's death in the way of establishing justice and spreading equity.

1. See 5/16, h. 282.

2. See 5/16, h. 283.

We emphasized the above point in order to ascertain that the only government that can claim to have followed the example of the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and his way of conduct (stra) is a government whose authorities attach more importance to justice than anything else and spare no efforts in spreading justice and the development of equity, not merely in words and speech—which is the top motto of many claimants today— but in action, behavior and in relations with people of all levels of society. Such justice is as rare as an elixir. Only a government that does not sacrifice justice in favor of expediency, by means of interpretation and justification, can indeed claim the establishment of justice.

In the government system of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and in the teachings of that 'manifestation of justice', there is no expedient, higher than the establishment of justice. The only ruling system that can claim to be a follower of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is that which gives priority to justice over interests and insists on implementing it, and despite the hubbub and troubles, aims at holding a permanent rule over the 'hearts' rather than a transient rule over 'bodies', which is the result of giving preference to unfounded and vain interests.

2. Safeguarding People's Rights

The psychological factors in the people's support of governments are as numerous as their different spiritual needs. One of the most important factors of public support is the safeguarding of people's rights by that government.

One of the most important factors that contributes to securing the content of the masses is how the government views them and itself, whether it regards them as its slaves or as its masters and guardians, or whether it considers the people as possessing legitimate rights and itself only as their trustee, agent and representative. In the first case, whatever service a government may render to the people is nothing more than the care an owner would take of his animal. In the second case, the service presented is like the act of a loyal trustee fulfilling his duty. Among the foremost conditions of securing the confidence and goodwill of the people is the state's acknowledgement of the genuine rights of the people and the avoidance of any kind of action that implies the negation of their right of sovereignty.¹

In a scholarly analysis, the Martyr Murtaḍā Muṭaharī (may God sanctify his soul) believes that one of the main reasons for inclination towards materialism in the recent centuries is the dangerous and misleading teachings which imply that responsibility towards God necessitates no responsibility towards the masses, and that 'God's rights' substitutes 'the rights of the masses' and the right of national sovereignty is equivalent to Godlessness:

At the dawn of the modern age a movement against religion was formed in Europe, which also more or less affected other regions outside of Christendom.

This movement was inclined towards materialism. When we examine the causes and roots of this movement, we discover that one of them was the inadequacy of the teachings of the Church from the viewpoint of political law. The Church authorities and some European philosophers developed an artificial relationship and association between belief in God on one hand and stripping the people of their political rights by despotic regimes on the other. Naturally, this led to the assumption that there is some necessary relation between democracy and atheism, and that we should either choose the belief in God and accept that the right of sovereignty was bestowed by Him upon certain individuals who have no superiority over others, or deny the existence of God so as to establish our right as masters of our own political destinies.

From the point of view of religious psychology, one of the causes of the decline of the influence of religion is the contradiction created by religious authorities between religion and a social need, especially at a time when that need expressed itself strongly at the level of public consciousness. Right at a time when despotism and repression had reached their peak in European political life and the people were thirstily, longing for the ideas of liberty and people's sovereignty, the Church and its supporters made an assertion that the people had only duties and responsibilities towards the state and had no rights. This was sufficient to turn the lovers of liberty and democracy against religion and God in general and the Church in particular.

This mode of thought, in the West as well as in the East is deeply rooted in ancient times....¹

Based on this dangerous way of thinking, people have no right against the leader; and authority and religious leadership means taking away people's socio-political rights, and in short, leaders are masters and people are servants! It is obvious that the government that is run on this basis lacks popular support and the leader who has this kind of belief about people's rights would not enjoy people's consent and support.

The Mutual Rights of the People and Leadership

From the viewpoint of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) the right of the political leader of the society within this doctrine does not conflict with the rights of the people, but in fact his right is dependent on securing their rights and the people are bound to obey and protect the leader only if their rights are secured within the system under his rule.

In this respect, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) says:

أَمَّا بَعْدُ، فَقَدْ جَعَلَ اللَّهُ سُبْحَانَهُ لِي عَلَيْكُمْ حَقًّا بِوِلَايَةِ أَمْرِكُمْ، وَلَكُمْ عَلَيَّ مِنَ
الْحَقِّ مِثْلُ الَّذِي لِي عَلَيْكُمْ، فَاحْزُقُوا أَوْسَعَ الْأَشْيَاءِ فِي التَّوَاضُّعِ وَأَضْيِقُوهَا فِي
التَّنَاضُّعِ، لَا يَجْرِي لِأَحَدٍ إِلَّا جَرَى عَلَيَّ، وَلَا يَجْرِي عَلَيَّ إِلَّا جَرَى لَهُ.

"Now, God Almighty has given me rights over you by giving me the authority over your affairs, and you too have a right over me the same as my right over you. A right is the vastest of things in description, but the narrowest in equitability of action. It does not apply in favor of any person unless it also applies against him and it does not apply against a person unless it also applies in his favor."²

1. Ibid. p. 119.

2. See, 6/2, h. 305.

In another statement he (a.s.) mentions the mutual rights of the people and the leader as follows:

حَقٌّ عَلَى الْإِمَامِ أَنْ يَحْكُمَ بِمَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ وَأَنْ يُؤَدِّيَ الْأَمَانَةَ، فَإِذَا فَعَلَ فَحَقٌّ عَلَى

"It is incumbent upon the leader (imam) to rule according to what God has ordained and to hand over the trust. Once he does so, it is incumbent on the people to accept his words, obey his commands and respond to him when they are summoned."¹

In this discourse, not only is the leader's right dependent on fulfilling the rights of the people, but the right of leadership (imamah) and authority (wilayah) is also considered as an entrusted right.

Throughout history, the safeguarding of people's rights has never passed beyond being a mere slogan; rather, it (slogan) has always been a means of violating people's rights and suppressing the truth.

Within the history of Islam, after the era of the holy Prophet (s.a.w.), the time of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was an exception in the establishment of social justice, expansion of equity and the fulfilling of people's rights. Unfortunately, people could not take the best advantage of this valuable opportunity as a result of the disturbances and turmoil. This in fact was an injustice which was done to his ruling. In this regard he (a.s.) has said:

إِنْ كَانَتْ الرِّعَايَا قَبْلِي لَتَشْكُو حَيْفَ رِعَايَاهَا وَإِنِّي الْيَوْمَ لِأَشْكُو حَيْفَ رِعَايَتِي.

"If the people prior to my era complained of the injustice of the rulers, then indeed today I complain of the injustice of my own people."²

It so happened that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) hastened to meet his Almighty Lord with a heart, burdened with sorrows. Justice also departed with his departure and once again there were governments and the oppression of the masses and violation of their rights!

2. The Encyclopedia of Amir al-Mu'minin, vol. 9, p. 408-419 h. 4748 & 4749.

It is up to us in this present time to take an example of what occurred in the past in order to prepare the ground for the establishment of social justice.

3. Development of Legitimate and Constructive Freedoms

Freedom is the first step on the path of the actualization of justice and development of respect for the rights of others. However, this freedom is to be constructive rather than destructive, like freedom from internal and external bonds, or as the Holy Qur'ān puts it, deliverance from 'heavy burdens':

ويضع عنهم اصرهم والأغلال التي كانت عليهم.

"He releases them from their heavy burdens and from yokes that are upon them."¹

The Messengers of God were the heralds of freedom and advocates of liberty. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) considered the philosophy of the Prophetic Mission (bi'tha) as a deliverance of the human beings from their bonds and their ascension to the highest peaks of glory and worshipping of God Almighty:

إِنَّ اللَّهَ - تَبَارَكَ وَتَعَالَى - بَعَثَ مُحَمَّدًا (صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَآلِهِ) بِالْحَقِّ لِيُخْرِجَ عِبَادَهُ مِنْ

God, the Blessed and the Exalted, sent forth Muḥammad (ṣ.a.w.) with the truth, to bring forth His servants from serving them to His serving...and from the authority (wilāyah) of His servants to His Authority.²

According to the teachings of the school of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) all human beings are free and should never be entrapped into slavery to anyone or take part in the enslavement of others. It is clear that what forces people to be slave to the powerful and entraps them into servitude to others, is their internal bondage to their own whims and carnal desires. Those who are internally liberated and have cut off their bondage of desires and those who have accepted servitude to

1. Qur'ān, 7:157.

2. See 6/3, h. 308.

God and have deemed their status too high to fall prey to obedience to others like themselves, would never give up their independence and do not accept slavery. It is only a person like this that deserves to be emancipated. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) says:

He who fulfills the requirements of servitude [to God] is worthy of emancipation.

The conditions of servitude includes submission to God as His servant and acceptance of Divine law, which leads to real independence, freedom and liberation, and evading this is in fact returning to slavery, even if it may appear to be freedom.

4. To Care about People

Caring about people and valuing and respecting all is a sublime manifestation of social policies in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) ruling. In his (a.s.) view, people should be treated with compassion and kindness, and rulers must respect people, their perspectives and their principles. Politicians in other governments mostly try to satisfy the 'influential' and the powerful, or in other words, the elite in the political circle, even if it leads to the dissatisfaction of the masses.

Contrary to this policy, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) has stated:

فَإِنَّ سُخْطَ الْعَامَّةِ يُجْحِفُ بِرِضَى الْخَاصَّةِ وَإِنْ سُخْطَ الْخَاصَّةِ، يَغْتَفَرُ مَعَ رِضَى الْعَامَّةِ.

Verily, the discontent of the general public harms the content of the elite, and the discontent of the elite is pardoned with the content of the masses.²

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) recommended the administrators to be kind to people, to maintain direct relations with them, have personal meetings with them and be informed of their problems. The Imām would say: "People have mainly suffered hardships, endured pains and have been oppressed. Therefore, if they ever find a chance to express their sufferings and pains, they may speak coarsely." He would hence advise his administrators to tolerate people's rough language, occasional ill-temper, bitterness and unseemly reactions, never to get angry at them and treat them with a smiling face and nice words, and if they found out that blunders were committed secretly and away from public's eyes, they should not make any enquiries about them.

1. See 6/3, h. 310.

2. See 6/4, h. 317.

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) tried to maintain the people's relationship with the state as candid, transparent and far from any ambiguity. He would therefore enjoin administrators to sincerely try to remove the grounds for people's suspicion towards the state, and if some hoodlums, would by commotion and hubbub, accuse the administrators of violating people's rights, they should try to elucidate the reasons for their actions with honesty and meet them with clear explanations and never leave any doubts about the affairs of the state in the people's minds. In reality, this is an indication of the value of people and their significance in the perspective of Imām 'Ali (a.s.).

5. Protecting the Oppressed

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) believed that restoring the rights of the oppressed from the oppressors was a 'Divine covenant'. He (a.s.) therefore stressed on helping the oppressed and insisted on fighting against the oppressors. Helping the oppressed and fighting the oppressors were among the last instructions bequeathed to Imam Ḥasan (a.s.) and Imām Ḥusayn (a.s.) and to all those who would hear the Imām's testament, throughout history.

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) seized every opportunity to promote the culture of fighting against oppression, protecting the oppressed, seeking help from people to carry out social reforms and to make social links and relations.

He (a.s.) would say:

الظَّالِمَ بِخِزَامَتِهِ .

"O People! Assist me against your desires. By Allah, I will take revenge for the oppressed from his oppressor and I will control the oppressor by holding his harness."¹

Stories of the practical assistance and support of the oppressed by such a paradigm of justice are examples to ponder on and are very instructive for those who claim to be followers of this noble figure of Islam.

6. Setting up a Complaints Box (Baytul Qiṣaṣ)

The leader of the fighters against oppression who tried in every way possible to support the oppressed and to take vengeance on their behalf, would certainly spare no efforts in this way to see into the complaints of the oppressed.

However, how should the oppressed have their complaints heard by the rulers? It is evident that subordinates are mainly not able to get near to the ruling system, let alone to bring up a case or raise a complaint. Many a time it has so happened that when the complaint of an oppressed person was expressed, it was responded reversely, i.e., the one who should have been reprimanded has been promoted and turned into a complainant against the very person who had complained against him. In order to remove such difficulties and solve the problem of directly expressing the complaints and pleading for justice, as much as possible, Imām 'Alī (a.s.) set up a station called 'baytul -qiṣaṣ' (complaints box) so that the people, the oppressed, and everyone who had a problem and was unable to bring it up, could write his complaint and place it there, to inform Imām 'Alī (a.s.) about it. Imām himself called out among the people that anyone who had a case to bring up and did not want anybody else to know about it and in order to be immune from being identified, should write down his inquiry and drop it in the complaints box. Seemingly, this is the first step in history towards connecting people to the ruling system.

1. See 5/11, h. 349.

7. Attempts to Create Empathy and Unity in the Society

The leader is the link between different sections of the society and the leadership and he is also the axis of struggles, movements and activities. The existence of various ideas, tendencies and trends in a society is natural and the concept of oneness in ideas and principles in all strata and levels of society is totally incorrect and unrealistic. Therefore, various trends, groups and possessors of different ideas must seek for unifying ways to rescue the society from disunity; and while approving the multiplicity of ideas try to hold on to convergence in sublime and transcendent principles. It is the leadership that plays the most significant role in this respect. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) strongly emphasized the necessity of unity and empathy in society.

He (a.s.) considered solidarity as a means for the survival of governments and differences as the cause of its falling, and hence he strongly emphasized the former. Parts of the sermon called (Khūḍab al-Qāṣi'a) are regarded as among the most instructive and awakening doctrines of the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.). He would himself do his best in this direction, to recognize the roots of differences and how to achieve solidarity and empathy, and he would overlook his inalienable rights so as the community would not burn in the fire of differences. He would say:

"Know that no one is more desirous and concern for the unity and concord of the community of Muḥammad (ṣ.a.w.) than I am."¹

Imām stressed the unity and regarded empathy and the removal of tension necessary to the extent that he forced his judiciary to avoid enforcing a ruling that incites disunity and might disturb the solidarity of the society. Imām had frequently warned that if the faithful were disunited and gave up unity and solidarity, falsehood would definitely dominate over them.

Five: Judiciary Policies

The Judiciary is the main pillar of a ruling system. Correct and lawful judgments play the greatest role in protecting a society's well-being and stability. Doctrines of the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) indicate that he was particularly attentive to the Judiciary. Texts and documents concerning Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) judgments as well as his recommendations and emphasis in this respect are abundant and most inspiring. What is stated here, in this volume, can also be very enlightening for judges and Judiciary officials.

The principles of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) policies for judgment can be mentioned as follows:

1. Appointment of Qualified Judges for Juridical Posts

A judge is without doubt the main element of judging and plays the most significant role in the Judiciary establishment and in restoring people's rights and battling against oppressions and irregularities. In judicial practice, the more steadfast, morally healthy, pure, stronger and the more unbending in action a judge is, the more efficient, organized, and well-founded his judgment will be. Thus, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) would enjoin Mālik to select the best judges for the act of judgment; those who would not put the people under pressure and are not obstinate and adamant in their judgment or easily fall into blunders. They must be intelligent, deeply insightful, protected from falling prey to misconceptions, patient and forbearing, so that confusions and conflicting turmoil would not affect and change them.

2. Providing for the Financial Needs of the Judges

Needs and necessities of life can neither be forgotten nor passed by negligently, even those people who are ascetic and abandon the world, have the responsibility of running a household, they will also encounter certain worldly demands in their lives. The natural needs of one's family are neither forgettable nor are to be ignored. It is in this respect that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) advises Mālik al-Ashtar to select the best judges for practicing judgment, and to provide the best and most suitable livelihood for them so that the judge in his judgment never looks to other people's hand and for worldly gains and fulfillment of his needs is not seduced into corruption, and thus, a person or a system that must safeguard the society against corruption does not fall into it.

3. Job Security for the Judges

The judge passes a judgment and obviously by his decisive judgment offends some people. There are very few people who would submit to a verdict against them and are not discontented. It is also evident that the violators and lawbreakers are not always from among the lower class of society, nor do clashes and conflicts always take place among them. In fact, it can be said that the upper class commit most of the law breaking and many conflicts do occur among them, and they are those who exert influence and are involved in the political affairs of the society. If a judge does not feel at ease while judging these people and does not see the judiciary and legal system as supporting and assisting, he might hesitate while passing a judgment and back down in restoring rights.

In the ruling system of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), qualified judges enjoy an elevated status. In his outstanding instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar, after giving him advise to select the best judges for judgment, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) enjoins him to station the judges near himself in such high position that nobody, not even his own close associates, would harbor any criticism against them to him. It is worth noting that the Imām (a.s.) then draws his attention to the evil doing of the ill-natured, to show that the selfish would often misuse their closeness to him [as a governor] against the judges, in order to reap worldly gains and escape punishment.

4. Observing the Manners of Judgment

The judge occupies a highly distinguished position and his duty is the restoring of rights and firm judgment. A judge is not himself one side of a lawsuit and what he says is most decisive in all disputes. He has to observe the rules of judgment with care. The teachings of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in this regard are highly attentive.

He (a.s.) would warn the judges against discriminating between clients, enjoining them not to be suspicious of either of the litigants, offend people with tough language and authoritarian speech, make decisions when angry, speak out of whim, underestimate the tribunal, behave in a way that the inferiors become disappointed of justly achieving their rights and that they should lay aside avarice, maintain their dignity in the court sessions. He (a.s.) discharged one of his companions from his judicial post, and when he asked for the reason his removal, the Imām replied as follows:

"I saw that you speak more loudly than your claimant does."¹

5. Close Supervision over the Actions and performances of Judges

Judges are the upholders of the society's interests and the judiciary system is responsible for its security. The interest of a society is more than anything else dependent on the Judiciary's soundness. Therefore, as the Authority of the affairs (wali al-'amr) of the Muslims, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) felt himself responsible for the Judiciary's function and did not content himself with admonishing the judges and giving lectures and merely warning them; rather, he would personally supervise their function and sometimes would even see into the way they issued their verdicts. Due to the important role of the judiciary in the welfare of a society and the correction of social problems, he (a.s.) would use any possible chance—despite his heavy responsibilities and numerous tasks—to call on the 'Platform of Judgment' (dakkatul qaḍā) in person and would practice judgment himself so as to present a right pattern for judgment to the people and the judges.

6. Unifying Judicial Procedures

Among the things that the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) would emphasize, was the consistency of judgments, or in other words, 'unity of judicial procedures' in judgments. If people notice that judges make different judgments in similar cases, their prompt reaction would without doubt be mistrust in the judiciary and disbelief in the legitimacy of the judgments. Imām insisted that difference in judgments would disrupt the establishment of justice and create disunity in the society. He enjoins then the judges to discuss and consult with each other concerning the things they disagree on, in order to achieve a consensus, or else take the issue to the leader and submit to his verdict. This means that it is in fact the responsibility of the leader to create a unity of judicial procedure in all judgments.

1. See 8/4, h. 421.

7. Equality of All before the Law

Imam 'Ali (a.s.) stressed the equality of all people in the implementation of rulings. In his (a.s.) system of ruling, all people are equal before the law, and the Judiciary enjoys such a high status and firm station that it can execute the law for all people, and people must also submit to the verdicts of the judges and the judiciary irrespective of their social status. In his doctrines, Imām stressed on this equality and, despite his greatness, reverence and lofty status in his knowledge and action, he would humbly stand before his state judiciary and answer to the questions of his own appointed judges. Doing so, he was indicating the importance of the judiciary system and safeguarding the station of judgment and practically protecting people's rights so as to set an example for all people and for future generations.

8. The Status of the Interests of the Islamic State in the Issuing of Verdicts

We previously mentioned that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) never sacrificed truth for interests and never took a stand for the sake of specific interests. He was a leader, leader of the people and a protector of the state and at the service of all. He therefore placed the highest value and significance on the most superior expedience, which was the protection of the state that belongs to the people and is at their service.

Imām emphasizes that in judgments the state's interests should be taken into consideration. In his (a.s.) system of government, nothing can hinder the carrying out of the genuine laws of Islam in the Judiciary, nevertheless the state's interests have a special status in the implementation of laws. In one case, due to certain social, cultural and political circumstances and also the people's particular notion of the Divine law, Imām identifies judgment based on genuinely fixed Islamic rules as disuniting and its execution as detrimental to the foundation of the government. Therefore, he did not permit any judgment to be made on that basis in order to prevent the society from falling prey to disunity. This is why he ordered Shurayh the following:

Judge as you have been judging (before), so that the affairs of people are set together and organized.

Six: Security Policies

An insecure and chaotic society is more like a lawless jungle than being a human society. From the perspective of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), a society devoid of peace and security is the worst place to be. Imām (a.s.) regards the restoration of peace and security to the society as among the most important reasons for his acceptance of government and he was therefore highly concerned with security. His principles and procedures for security policies and his attempts in maintaining security among his people are listed as follows:

1. Establishing an Efficient Intelligence System

Although in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) code of conduct (sīra) no reference is made to an establishment entitled 'intelligence organization', yet there are various texts concerning intelligence missions and the measures taken by him in his ruling days on the basis of reports gathered secretly. These all suggest that Imām's government enjoyed an efficient and vigilant establishment. Secret investigations and collection of various reports in relation to internal security, all sorts of military information and the behavior of administrators were the major responsibility of this organization. Unfortunately, there is nothing in hand of the details regarding the above-mentioned organizations, but through the outcomes of Imām's decisions and the way he made them, it is clear that such an establishment existed. This organization can be regarded as one or even more than one intelligence systems.

2. Détente (Removal of Tension)

Trying to create changes in the thoughts and the positions of the enemies was among the valuable doctrines of Imām 'Alī (a.s.). The antagonism of many enemies, was rooted in their unawareness and lack of knowledge of Imām's stances and the methods and the reasons behind them. Imām insisted that attempts had to be made on the correction of thoughts and then the change of positions of the opponents. In his own words the reform of the enemy (istiṣlāḥ al-'a'dā') [into friends] must be carried out as a procedure and method in the policies of the government.

Imām views conciliation with the enemy, rectifying their thoughts and correcting their positions as the utmost form of deep and far-sightedness, and stresses that it is much easier to transform the enemy's ideas and stances by means of good speech and nice treatment than by drawing the enemy to the battlefield, as the former approach will be effective in reforming the enemies [to friends] and compelling the evil doer enemies to do good. All this implies that Imām had pursued the policy of 'détente' (removal of tension), in order to transform the enemy into a friend, emphasizing the eradication of tension and an intelligent compromise with the enemy, as an effective means of establishing internal security.

3. Vigilance and Timeliness

Besides stressing the policy of "détente (removal of tension) and moving towards a peaceful life and compromising with the enemy, Imam 'Alī (a.s.) also emphasized watchfulness and prudence in the face of the enemy. He also insisted that the believers should not underestimate the enemy, and should be especially alert before those who do not openly express their enmity. They should be prepared to encounter any unprecedented event at the right time, knowing that if they ever sink into oblivion, the enemy will never remain ignorant.

4. Avoidance of Using Methods of Terrorizing and Spreading Fear

In his government, Imām 'Alī (a.s.) never resorted to the terrorization and spreading of horror against violators and opponents. He (a.s.) would not even employ the policy of terror, fear and the use of unlawful harsh actions against the violators of security. He never confronted people on the basis of suspicion and probability and never punished the accused or the suspects who were charged with actions against the security of the state.

5. Adherence to Law in Dealing with Criminals

Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) system of government relied on law, and in all aspects it was the law and not the will of a person that ruled. He therefore, strongly emphasized adherence to the law and on law-centering in his doctrines. Thus, in his ruling system, torturing the accused and suspects was forbidden, and the criminals were never tortured or even offended. If anyone was proven guilty, they would be punished only according to the law. If the executor of the law deliberately or unintentionally violated the law in enforcing a verdict, he would be punished by way of retaliation (qiṣāṣ). When Imām 'Ali (a.s.) found out that his servant Qanbar had given three extra lashes when whipping a criminal, he ordered that three lashes be given to him in return as a qiṣāṣ [retaliation].¹

6. Tolerance towards Political Dissidents

Imām (a.s.) also never treated political dissidents with harshness. Tolerance in the diplomacy of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was an inviolable principle, and this tolerance was so great that the opponents would dare to conspire. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) believed that tolerance with opponents would cut down their vehemence and divert them from creating turmoil and disorder. Accordingly, Imām did not confront the Khārijites; he tolerated their invectives and did not even cut off their rights from the public treasury, until they committed murder and jeopardized the security of the society. His confrontation with the plotters against internal security was proportionate to the extent of their intrigue and their role in the plotting. Sometimes he would exile them, at other times he would incarcerate them, and finally when other alternatives did not work, he would resolve the problem by military intervention.

Seven: Military Policies

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was a gallant and courageous warrior. His challenges in battlefields and his superiority in combats are historically well-known. Furthermore, he was a keen sighted, sagacious and prudent army general.

It is very regretful that Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) rule, as short as it was, was mostly spent in internal battles against the conspirators. However, his code of conduct in these battles was full of doctrines in warfare, truly instructive, with many dignified acts worthy of him. Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) policies in warfare can be summed as follows:

1. The Importance of Military Training and Arrangement of Troops

We previously said that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was the most gallant warrior in the battlefield. Having spent a whole lifetime in the battlefields, he doubtlessly possessed the most efficient and the highest of relevant experiences. Furthermore, he was matchless in his courage and gallantry, and also his knowledge of various tactics of warfare. Imām personally trained his troops and prior to any battle he would reiterate the major points of his training while arranging the troops and arraying the combatants. When the ambushes by Mu'āwiya mounted up and the opponents accused him of lacking knowledge in war tactics, Imām said the following while complaining towards some of his companions:

وَأَفْسَدْتُمْ عَلَيَّ رَأْيِي بِالْعَصِيَانِ وَالْخِذْلَانِ حَتَّى لَقَدْ قَالَتْ قُرَيْشٌ إِنَّ ابْنَ أَبِي طَالِبٍ
رَجُلٌ شَجَاعٌ وَلَكِنْ لَا عِلْمَ لَهُ بِالْحَرْبِ. اللَّهُ أَبَوْهُمْ! وَهَلْ أَحَدٌ مِنْهُمْ أَشَدُّ لَهَا
مِرَاسًا وَأَقْدَمُ فِيهَا مَقَامًا مِنِّي؟ لَقَدْ تَهَضُّتُ فِيهَا وَمَا بَلَغْتُ الْعِشْرِينَ، وَهِيَ أَنَا ذَا

"Through disobedience and disappointment, you ruined my opinion to the extent that the Quraysh say that the son of Abi Talib is brave but lacks knowledge of war. How strange it is! Which one of them has been in battlefields more than I have been and experienced fighting and the battlegrounds more than I did? I was still in my teens when I entered the battlefield, and now I am over sixty, but, he who is not obeyed does not have command of the situation.¹

In his military training of the troops, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was not negligent of even the smallest details, such as: the troops should not part from their weapons, should use the right chance to launch attacks on the enemy, and should not stare into the enemy's eyes, the multitude of the enemy forces should not cast fear in their hearts, and that they should know what must be done at the time of defeat and how to withdraw tactically once defeated in war, and so on.

2. Formation of Special Forces

The forces may vary in their morale, level of knowledge and the extent of ability and self-sacrifice, even though they are on one single battleground and with a shared intention. Scenes of confrontation also vary, with each scene demanding appropriate and competent fighters and warriors. Thus, one of the most outstanding features in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) military policies is the formation of 'special troops' which Imām called the Forces of Thursday (shurṭah al-khamīs).²

Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) most efficient, self-sacrificing and most accomplished warriors were recruited for the special forces. This unit was astonishingly competent, and the Imām employed them for special purposes and for specific battlefields. He (a.s.) addressed them in a sermon as follows:

أَنْتُمْ الْأَنْصَارُ عَلَى الْحَقِّ، وَ الْإِخْوَانُ فِي الدِّينِ، وَاجْتَنِبُوا يَوْمَ الْبَاسِ، وَ الْبِطَانَةُ دُونَ
النَّاسِ، بِكُمْ أَضْرِبُ الْمُدْبِرَ، وَ أَرْجُو طَاعَةَ الْمُقْبِلِ، فَأَعِينُونِي بِمُنَاصَحَةِ خَلِيَّتِي مِنَ

You are the helpers of the Truth, brothers in faith, the shields on the day of tribulations and hardships of the time, and my confidants rather than other people. With your help, I will beat those who turn their back, and I look forward to the obedience of the supporters. So, help me with benevolence devoid of fraud and free from suspicion, as I swear to God that I have a greater right to people than themselves.

The Special Forces, or those who are referred today as wise and skillful 'fundamentalists' and 'hizbullāhis' [members of the party of Allah] were next to the Imām and while criticizing and expressing their viewpoints about his policies, remained loyal to him in the most distressing situations and moments of his rule.

It seems that they were called the Forces of Thursday either because of their special features or due to their presence with the Imām (a.s.) with a special allegiance.¹ Aṣḥab ibn Nabāta was asked:

"O Aṣḥab! How were you named the 'Forces of Thursday'? He replied: "We guaranteed that we would sacrifice ourselves for him and he guaranteed victory for us."²

3. Strengthening the Troops' Morale

Without doubt, spiritual forces and mental power play a decisive and astonishing role in actions and all sorts of creativity. Imam therefore, greatly emphasized the importance of mental power, spiritual capability and increasing the chivalrous spirit in his combat forces. He tried through every possible means, to strengthen the morale of the armed forces in confrontation with the enemy and enhancing their steadfastness through uplifting their sense of chivalry. The Imām's speeches in this respect are highly thought-provoking and interesting.

The fiery speeches of Imām, his thrilling words, inspiring sermons, stimulating slogans, his attentive characteristics in that part of his life and his explanation to the combatants of their final station after life were all intended to provide and spread such elevated states of a spiritual mind.

Once having organized the combat forces, Imām would explain in a highly eloquent speech the shortness and undesirability of the worldly life in contrast to the excellence and everlastingness of the

2. Majma' al-Baḥrayn, vol. 2, p. 942.

Hereafter. The impact of this, would, in many times, remain in the troops for a very long time. That is why for many of them their lives were intermixed with enthusiasm, self-sacrifice, valor and bravery, and their actions were amalgamated with their steadfastness, being unconquerable and daring when confronting the enemy.

Creating the spirit of 'Martyrdom' among the companions of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) which was without doubt the outcome of his lofty sermons and teachings, is indeed wonderful.

Paying attention to the role of inculcation was also among the meaningful tactics of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) to strengthen the spiritual capabilities of his fighters (mujāhidin) in the battles. Concerning his own experience, the Imām said to his son Muḥammad ibn al-Ḥanafiya:

إِنِّي لَمْ أَتِقْ أَحَدًا إِلَّا حَدَّثْتُنِي نَفْسِي بِقَتْلِهِ ، فَحَدَّثَ نَفْسَكَ بِعَوْنِ اللَّهِ بِظُهُورِكَ عَلَيْهِمُ .

I did not confront anyone [in war] without inculcating in myself that I would be able to kill him, therefore tell yourself that you will have victory over them with the help of God.¹

On the other hand, Imām demonstrates that the inculcation of weakness, fear and thinking about the power of the enemy is among the causes of disorder of the troops and defeat by the enemy. Once the Imām was asked:

بِأَيِّ شَيْءٍ غَلَبْتَ الْأَقْرَانَ؟

How did you win victory over [your] rivals?

He replied:

I did not meet [confront] anyone, without him assisting me against himself [by revealing his weaknesses].²

1. See 9/4, h. 499.

2. Nahj al-Balaghah, Aphorism 318.

Describing the evil outcome of running away from the battlefield in this world and the next was another method that Imam 'Ali (a.s.) used in order to strengthen the spirit and morale of his soldiers.

Furthermore, Imām also insisted that the army generals should never disclose the reality of the current situation that could leave a bad impact on the morale of the combatants. In the heat of the battle of Şiffin and amid the direst states of war, the Imām outlined to one of his generals the perspective and outcome of the battle and explained how serious and destructive the upcoming confrontation would be serious for the forces. At the same time he (a.s.) stressed that this information should be kept as a secret and the troops should not be informed about it.

4. Employing Deceitful Tactics in Battles

In order to achieve victory, the Imām would try all kinds of rational tactics. As previously stated, he (a.s.) never appealed to 'deceit and fraud' in his statesmanship diplomacy and never practiced this in his managerial approaches. He used and emphasized it in his battles, saying:

"Rely on your tactics and crafts in the battle more than on your strength."¹

This is one of the differences between the policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and those of the Umayyads.

Imām's teachings and the practical examples indicate that 'craftiness' in warfare policies is a rational option to achieve victory and to avoid resorting to irrational actions as much as possible. 'Adi ibn Hātam is quoted as saying that, amid the clashes of the battle of Şiffin, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) said with a loud voice for his companions to hear:

1. See 9/5, h. 509.

"I swear by God that I will kill Mu'āwiya and his companions."

He then said with a low voice:

إن شاء الله!

"If God wills!"

The narrator said, "I asked: O Commander of the Faithful! You swore and then made an exception. Why is that?" Imām replied:

"War is craftiness."¹

Imām employed the same tactic when confronting 'Amr ibn 'Abda Wūd and managed to kill him with the opportunity he got by means of this tactic.

Therefore, the Imām's use of craftiness is in line with the human values and dignities, and on the other hand is an efficient and accurate tactic in warfare.

5. Ethics of War

In the school of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), resorting to war is only to defend the entity of faith and for the purpose of destroying tyranny, eliminating oppression and removing hindrances of rulership. 'Ali (a.s.) who always used the sword to safeguard the Truth, never neglected moral principles and human dispositions, even amid the direst moments of war. Observing such warfare characteristics and moral codes in a battleground in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) code of conduct, would be most instructive and enlightening. Some topics in this respect are as follows:

A. Refraining from Initiating a War

Imām never initiated a war. He would never draw his sword before his opponent and he ordered his companions not to ever initiate a war, unless the enemy had most stubbornly blocked the way for peaceful and direct negotiation. In reality, this policy of Imām is a confirmation of the importance attached to peace, human values and opposing belligerency in Ali's Islamic approach.

1. See 9/5, h. 510

Imām always emphasized the execution of this policy. Jundub Azdī has said:

إِنَّ عَلِيًّا كَانَ يَأْمُرُنَا فِي كُلِّ مَوْطِنٍ لَقِينَا فِيهِ مَعَهُ عَدُوًّا فَيَقُولُ: لَا تُقَاتِلُوا الْقَوْمَ
حَتَّى يَبْدُؤَكُمْ فَأَنْتُمْ بِحَمْدِ اللَّهِ عَلَى حُجَّةٍ وَتَرْكُكُمْ إِيَّاهُمْ حَتَّى يَبْدُؤَكُمْ حُجَّةٌ

Whenever we encountered an enemy in the company of 'Ali (a.s.), he would order us, by saying: "Do not fight them until they start; because, thanks be to God Almighty, you possess the proof (hujja), and letting them start the battle is another proof for you [against them]."

He would therefore show that in his culture, the crucial principle is 'peace and silence', rather than belligerence and warmongering.

It was for this reason that Imām would order his combat forces not to initiate the war and if the enemy started the war and they were defeated by the help of God, those who run away should not be killed, nor should the wounded be assaulted. They must not strip or dismember the corpses and so on. All these show that in Imām 'Ali's war conduct and in his policies, warfare is an exception and the main principle is emphasis on human values and their promotion.

B. Refraining from Calling to War

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) insisted that his troops should adhere to characteristics such as gallantry, steadfastness, authority in the battlefield, strong will and the spirit of defeating the enemy. He (a.s.) prepared them for the battle by all the necessary means. However, he would enjoin them never to challenge the enemy to fight, and not to call for a rival to prepare for the war, which was a way of creating terror and panic. In reality, this was also in line with his methods and policy of opposing belligerency. Imam instructed that if the enemy challenged and asked for a rival in a battle, only then, they must proceed to fight in order to stop the enemy's obstinacy.

1. Sec 9/6, h. 511.

C. Diplomatic Immunity of the Enemy's Envoys

Islam is a global religion and its doctrines are universal and apply all periods of time, hence addressing international and global policies. In Islam, political envoys of foreign countries enjoy diplomatic immunity in military and political confrontations (even though in the thick of the war). 'Ali (a.s.) had instructed this noble doctrine to the troops and wanted them to take this policy seriously, and in case some people claimed to be carrying a message from the enemy, they should not be encountered before verifying the matter through sufficient inquiries.

D. Furnishing the Argument before Starting the War

We previously said that according to Imām 'Ali (a.s.) war is a means of removing the barriers against the spread of truth and guidance of mankind. He therefore, never failed to enlighten the enemy and used every possible chance to guide them. He would even attempt to guide the enemy on the battleground and in the heat of the war, frequently presenting arguments to avert the war. In all, in the conduct of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), a war would not be waged unless when necessary.

E. Supplication at the Time of War

In the teachings of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), spiritual dimensions and advancement of spirituality in people and human society is prior to anything else. Imām never forgot to create and develop such a spirit, even during the midst of the war. With illuminating words he would speak to the troops who were mobilized and prepared to assault, trying to put out the fire of sedition, but to no avail, the obstinacy of the enemy would inevitably lead to war. At the time of war Imām would engage in supplication and worship of God, reviving His remembrance in the hearts of his soldiers and with his mystical whispers he would calm the atmosphere of his army, seeking the assistance of God Almighty. His (Jihad) and fighting was therefore a basis for Divine Love and a means of approaching to God, as well as a step in the direction of the actualizing of Divine teachings and human values. The contents of Imām's supplications and the theme of his invocations, clearly prove what has been previously said.

F. Starting War in the Afternoon

Imam would try through all possible ways and arrangement to lessen as much as possible the damages and human losses that war might inflict, in case fighting was inevitable. Imām would therefore try to get the war started in the afternoon so that by the falling of the night the fighting would stop and thus the fighters would withdraw earlier and there would be less bloodshed and also the runaways from the battleground could easily flee.

G. Good Treatment of the Survivors of the Enemy

When the battle would subside, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) would command that the defeated troops, the wounded, the captives and those of the enemy's army that were left behind, especially the women to be given the best of treatment. As previously mentioned, Imām's orders were: not to chase the runaways, not to kill the wounded, not to invade people's houses, not to take any of the spoils and never to mistreat the women, even if they insulted the troops and their army commanders.

Eight: International Policies

What has been said so far is just a glance at the policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in various aspects of governing a state.

We now intend to recount some aspects of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) global policies. We have selected particular doctrines from among the Imām's world policies that would be beneficial and practical for the governing of a state in every place and in any culture. The guidelines presented with their relevant texts in the main part of the book include political, social, cultural and governmental guidelines that the innate human nature (fiṭra) and common sense confirm its soundness and efficiency, and historical experiences testify their correctness and value. By referring to conscience and history, anyone with any kind of ideology can easily perceive these facts and confirm their efficacy in governing a state. In chapter ten of the present book, these guidelines and principles are divided into the following three categories:

1. Policies Causing the Perpetuation of Governments

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) regards certain policies necessary for the survival of governments. By observing the doctrines of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and his code of conduct we can find out that Imām (a.s.) considered the following of utmost necessity: the spreading of equality, social justice, proper management in administering people's affairs, good treatment and respect to all, awareness of political trends and safeguarding freedom, independence, dignity and all that which is related to people's individual and social rights. He considers them all, as essential for the steadfastness and perpetuity of government. His interpretation of justice is something truly interesting to contemplate.

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) compared justice with a fortress, a shield, a firm foundation and a binding string and he considered the implementing of justice as the best and the most efficient policy in ruling. He defined it as 'the adornment of politics', affirming that it is with justice that the ruler captures the hearts and attains Divine Mercy. He was also quoted as saying that once governments are based on the foundations of justice and rested on the pillars of wisdom, God Almighty will help their advocates and destroy their challengers. In addition to the spread of justice, Imām regarded proper management as a necessity for the stability and continuation of governments. He considered benevolence as the beauty of power and awareness as a sign of astuteness and correct governing.

2. Policies Causing the Decline of Governments

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) considers the outcomes of certain policies as destructive and damaging. Even though such policies are effective for a short time and may preserve the government for a while longer, they would ultimately lead to its fall and destruction. What the doctrines of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) deem destructive and damaging are: violation of people's rights, unjust bloodshed, mismanagement in handling affairs, selfishness, misappropriation, giving priority to governors, heads of government and their associates over others, neglecting fundamental tasks and issues, dealing with trivial, fruitless and unimportant issues, assigning inefficient people to critical posts and failing to employ competent individuals.

Imām asserts that oppression and injustice under any name and in any form will cause the decline of the state, and if injustice is allowed in a society, it will consequently lead to wars and the state's authority and its dignity will be marred. This is why he views oppression as the worst of policies and affirms that injustice and tyranny create instability, remove blessings and ruin communities and states.

In his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) wrote: "Never commit bloodshed when dealing with opponents and those of other ideologies, as the shedding of unlawful blood will bring Divine revenge, take away blessings and sovereignty will never be set firm by bloodshed, rather it will weaken, enfeeble and ruin its authority."

He asserted that if a government is inflicted with mismanagement and does not enjoy wise and precise policies, it will start to decline and will consequently topple. The state which provides the best facilities for the ruler and his dominance, and instead of self-sacrifice (ithbār), it proceeds with selfishness and the use of facilities for the ruler and his associates (isti'thār) will definitely be bound to decline. Imām said: "The rulers who deal with trivial, baseless, and transient issues instead of proceeding with fundamental tasks, basic policies, and principal planning, will rapidly slide to decline. Those who put aside the great tasks and excellent deeds and deal with mean and petty work will lead the government to its plight." Pondering on such teachings of the Imām is necessary and beneficial for rulers, officials, and heads of states.

3. Efficient International Policies

In addition to what has been said, Imām followed certain policies and introduced methods of interaction that should be taken into consideration by the rulers when interacting with other states, nations, and countries. The following facts and policies can be extracted from among the highly valuable words of Imām and by studying his way of life:

respecting the rights of the human beings, regardless of their ideas and ways of thinking, upholding their rights, absolute respect in dealing with others, avoiding any disrespectful and belittling relation or association with governments and nations, never submitting to derogation, stressing on removal of tension in connection with governments, moving towards the development of genuine tranquility and a peaceful life accompanied by esteem, prevention of arousing enmity, sparing no means to correct the enemy's ideas and conducts (istiṣlāḥ al-'adū); remaining loyal to various treaties and being trustworthy in fulfilling of the people's rights, benefiting from other people's knowledge and expertise in the field of culture, yet stressing on the policy of cultural independence, warning against being absorbed in polytheistic and corrupt cultures; and finally, studying various cultures and selecting what is best in them and many other things.

Furthermore, there are many issues that have been expressed in the various sayings of Imām 'Alī (a.s.) which are very illuminating in regard to international relationships. Such tenets have been presented in the 'miscellaneous' section at the end of this present volume.

A Summary of the Policies of Imām 'Alī (a.s.)

That which has been presented so far, was a glance at the contents of the chapters which have been compiled in this book to explain the different politics of Imām 'Alī (a.s.). Contemplating on what was mentioned would reveal that politics according to Imām 'Alī (a.s.) is an instrument for ruling on the basis of human rights and the real needs of the people, not for the dominance of dictators and violators of people's rights.

Based on what we mentioned, and after summing up and studying the above information, we can now respond to the questions and criticisms raised regarding the policies of Imām and analyze the causes and reasons of what is mentioned about his statesmanship and discuss their veracity or incorrectness.

Defending Imām 'Ali's Statesmanship

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) took over the caliphate in response to the public demand and insistence, and his caliphate came to an end with his Martyrdom on Ramadan 21st, 40 AH [January 29th, 661]. People had been accustomed to the rulership of the three caliphs for twenty five years, during which certain policies and procedures had been performed most of which Imām regarded as unjustifiable. Changing the views and behavior of people was as difficult for him as 'returning the water which has run downstream', and in some cases even impossible. He therefore accepted the caliphate with extreme precaution and prudence and only after several times of refusing it – so that nobody would think that he had a desire for ruling. Nonetheless, from the very beginning he stated future plans and the difficulties ahead of him very clearly.

Parts of the policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and some of his political positions have since long prompted discussions and criticisms. Those who viewed politics as a tool of power and aimed at dominance over people from a governmental position did not tolerate some of Imām's political stances. It should be first known that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) had accepted the government in order to administer justice, and he adopted politics as tools for the government to secure the human rights and fulfill the real human needs.

If we look from this angle and evaluate his rule and authority by this criterion, we will see that what the Imām did, was well-founded and meticulously organized and precisely in line with his lofty goals.

However, those who do not look from this angle do not accept Imām's position in the six-person electoral council of 'Umar for appointing the caliph, and believe that his insistence on the deposal of Mu'āwiya at the beginning of his rule, when the foundations of his sovereignty were not yet firmly set, as being far from diplomatic prudence, and say that 'Ali (a.s.) was a brave and fearless warrior but not a political ruler!

They say that if 'Ali (a.s.) had been a man of politics, why had he not accepted the proposal of 'Abdul Raḥmān in the six-person electoral council (that was appointed by 'Umar to assign a caliph after him) when he suggested that he would swear allegiance to him (a.s.) on the condition that Imām acts according to the conduct of Abū Bakr and 'Umar? Political prudence suggests that he should have accepted the condition, and after the establishment of his government, act in his own way and follow his own path. Did 'Uthmān who accepted the condition follow their (the caliphs) steps?!

If Imām had acted the way politicians do, he should not have treated the opposition the way he did, especially Ṭalḥa and Zubair who were influential figures and Mu'āwiya who was very powerful in Shām (Syria). He should have compromised for a while and fulfilled their demands, and later, after the establishment of his government, he should have begun to extirpate them. There were many similar occasions where he took such problematic stances. Imām's insistence on moral and Islamic values created problems in the establishment of his authority and dominance and made him encounter serious hardships. Before continuing, we will refer to the words of Ibn Abī al-Ḥadīd in this respect:

وَأَعْلَمَ أَنَّ قَوْمًا مِّنْ لَّمْ يَعْرِفْ حَقِيقَةَ فَضْلِ أَمِيرِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ (عليه السلام) رَعَمُوا أَنَّ عُمَرَ

Know that a group of those who do not know the real virtue of the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) claim that 'Umar was more diplomatic than he was, even though [they considered] him as being more knowledgeable than 'Umar.¹

Ibn Abī al-Ḥadīd goes on to say:

Ibn Sīnā [Avicenna] admits to this, in his book al-Shifā', and my teacher also inclines to this belief, in his book al-Ghurar, where he mentions it. Moreover, his (a.s.) enemies and

1. Sharḥ Nahj al-Balāghah, vol. 10, p. 212.

opponents assumed that Mu'āwiya was ahead of him in politics and so was his management.¹

What shortly follows here is a general response to all criticisms raised regarding Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) policies, and the detailed responses are presented in their appropriate places in the following chapters.

The most important point in response to this issue is emphasis on the way in which, politics and government is looked at. If politics is viewed as a means for ruling over the hearts or interpreted as ruling on the basis of people's rights and real needs of society, and if we look at Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) stances from such perspective, then we will realize that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is the greatest statesman throughout history, second to the Holy Prophet (s.a.w). But, if we consider politics and statesmanship as a means to achieve power and domination, or interpret it as taking advantage of the people and exploitative domination over them, then Imām's stances are not defensible indeed.

It is evident that Imām was aware of these issues and knew how to employ them, but due to his commitment to Divine laws, ethical values and his stress on the people's rights, he did not deem their use as permissible. The following narration quoted from him clearly elaborates this fact:

"If it was not that plotting and deception have their place in Hellfire, I would have been the trickiest and craftiest person!"²

"Alas! Had it not been for God wariness, I would have been the craftiest of all Arabs!"³

He also had said:

"I swear by God, that Mu'āwiya is not cleverer than I, but he practices deception and commits debauchery; and if it were not for the hideousness of deception, I would have been the shrewdest of all people! However, every kind of deception is sin, and every sin darkens (the heart) and for any deceiver, there will be a banner raised on the Day of Resurrection, by which he will be identified."¹

2. al-Kāfi, vol. 2, p. 336.

Accordingly, Imām knew well how to suppress voices; how to bring down loud cries to silence; how to deceive people with tricks; how to cast fear in their hearts by force; how to subdue the unruly greedy misers by allurements and consequently, and by violating the people's rights, massacres suppress internal oppositions and rebellions. However, he was 'Ali, the axis of truth, conscious of God and a believer in Resurrection Day, whose commitment to the truth and ethical values, and whose stressing on Divine teachings prevented him from perpetrating illegitimate policies. Imām frequently referred to these facts, by saying:

إِنِّي لَعَالِمٌ بِمَا يُصْلِحُكُمْ وَيُقِيمُ أَوْدَكُمْ وَلَكِنِّي لَا أَرَى إِصْلَاحَكُمْ بِإِفْسَادِ نَفْسِي.

I certainly know what can reform you and straighten your crookedness. But I shall not improve you by way of corrupting myself.²

He clearly states that he knows how to reform people and is familiar with the oppressive policies that suppress them for a short period of time, but he does not apply them since he views them as corrupting to the reformer.

Furthermore, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) viewed that above all, such actions lead the statesman to the dreadful domain of harassing, domination and, in his own words, corruption. This is why he calls out: "There will never be reformation at the cost of the corruption of the reformer!"

The Imām's lofty words indicate that superficial reformation will inevitably lead to corruption.

By this Imām obviously meant unlawful reformation, such as the undergoing economic reformation in contemporary world, at the cost of sacrificing social justice. Imām does not tolerate such reforms. On one hand, he knew well, how to deceive the influential political opponents and outlaws and keep them silent, by promising to fulfill their avarices and then, gradually eliminate them; and on the other hand, to promise people to restore their rights and stress on developing Divine and human values; and as soon as he would have established the foundations of his rule, he would do whatever he wished and break all promises, as politicians have always done. If he did so, he would no longer be 'Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib, but rather a politician like any other politician.

1. See, 3/1, h. 77.

2. Nahj al-Balaghah, Sermon 69. Also see 'The Encyclopedia of Amir al-Mu'minin', vol.7.

Indeed, so much love and devotion from the people towards 'Ali (a.s.) throughout history is because of his own righteousness and truth-centeredness and his emphasis on right. We should carefully study and ask ourselves where the power-centered hypocrites and imposters are now? On the other hand, we ought to see what were the reasons for the continuous remembrance of 'Ali (a.s.) in History and throughout time. Why do the hearts carry so much love for 'Ali (a.s.)? We reiterate here and repeat again and again that 'Ali (a.s.) regards politics as a means of establishing the truth and restoring people's rights, and not a means of domination over them.

Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) reformations were solely intended to revitalize the sira and sunna of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) and his method of government. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) could not have followed immoral, antireligious and antihuman policies. This was why he (a.s.) faced the same difficulties that the holy Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) did.¹

Through tolerating hardships and practicing patience towards difficulties, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) attempted to replicate once again the illuminant outlook of the Prophetic rule and the government policies of the Messenger of Allah in the history of Islam, presenting an efficient, just, and perfect way of conduct to the generations and nations to come.

Reasons for Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) Loneliness

Towards the end of this brief study, we present the following important question: if the administration of a state on the basis of the aforementioned policies are applicable and such policies are proper and competent, why then did the people distance themselves after a short time from such a truth-centered statesman as Imām 'Ali (a.s.) whom they had selected as their leader with their widespread support and left him alone and solitary during the last months of his life?

Explaining the Issue

We will now delve further into the various aspects of this topic and raise the issue more clearly. The foremost questions here are: What was the reason for people's withdrawal from 'Ali (a.s.) in such a short period of time within his ruling? Why could he not practically preserve the people's widespread support of the government? Why was the bond of relations detached between the ruler and the people in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) government, and why were the people so disunited that Imām could not create concordance and harmony even among those who had directly sworn allegiance to him and maintain any unity among them?

Why did Imām (a.s.) complain of the lack of people's support in actualizing his superior teachings and implementing his reforms during the last days of his life and would painfully say:

"Alas! It is indeed hard that I make manifest through you the codes of justice or set in place the crookedness of truth.¹

1. See, The Encyclopedia of Amir al-Mu'minin, vol. 7, p. 29.

Why did he consider them as the heart-rending pain of his political life? Saying:

أريد أن أدأوي بكم وأنتم دائي.

"I want to cure (sicknesses) through you, but you (yourselves) are my very pain."¹

And he complained of disobediences and rebellions, saying:

"I am entangled with people who do not obey."²

And he would complain of their dispersed tendencies and their fruitless crowded presence with their dissociated hearts, where he said:

"There is no richness, even though you may be big in number, when there is little unity in order to bring your hearts together."³

He yearned to have a few (sincere) companions of the battle of Badr:

"If I had companions similar in number to the people of Badr..."⁴

And:

What was the reason for such regression after that wonderful turnout for swearing allegiance?

Is it not correct to say that such a surprising loneliness after an unbelievable turnout for allegiance and support (of his rule) indicate that ruling on the basis of Imam 'Ali's (a.s.) policies and his system of government, was not practically applicable in the society of the real world and that Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) utopia was not but an image in the world of illusion?

In this discourse we will try as much as possible, to respond to these questions on the basis of historical texts and the realities of the Islamic society of those days. However, it would be worthwhile to briefly outline several points in advance:

1. Role of the Elite in Political and Social Transformations

The role of the elite and prominent personalities, in social transformations is very fundamental and extensive. They had the most influential impact on political and social developments of the society throughout history.¹

In reality, they often make decisions for the masses, and people, time and again, do not hesitate in following them. They play their roles of controlling and manipulating people in such a way that people imagine that they themselves have made the decisions and are acting on their own!

In such a time as the early period of Islam, chiefs of tribes played pivotal roles in political and social changes. In other times, the intellectual elite and party leaders played such roles and in today's society, heads of media, political establishments, managers of large cultural, educational and information organizations, chief executives of press agencies and other mass media are the main manipulators, role-creators and decision makers of societies.

2. Role of the Kūfans in Imām 'Ali's Government

In the political geography of early Islam, the territory of Iraq used to serve as a bridge, connecting the east and the west of the Islamic world and acted as a center, for supplying military power to the central authority. In this territory, Kūfa enjoyed a special status and a sensitive role.

Kūfa was constructed in 17AH/638CE for the stationing of troops. The organizers founded this city for the purpose of setting up a large camp for the troops. It is therefore clear that Kūfa was made as a military center; a place for those who knew nothing other than to fight and combat, and hence, always thinking of conquering borders and gaining spoils of war.

1. See, Mizān al-Hikma, vol. 10, p. 4614.

The people who had gathered in Kūfa were far away from Madīna which hosted most of the [Prophet's] companions. Very few companions frequented Kūfa as it was the Caliph 'Umar's policy to have them remain in Madīna.¹

The Kūfans were therefore deprived of acquiring knowledge and had very little understanding of religious laws and doctrines.

'Umar had explicitly asked the companions who intended to travel to Kūfa not to teach them any ḥadīth and not to distract them from their familiarity with the Holy Qur'ān.² The Kūfans' familiarity and preoccupation with the Qur'ān was restricted to mere recitation and nothing more and this point can also be found in the words of the Caliph. This is why, those who initially gathered in Kūfa as the 'reciters' (qurrā') later formed the original core of the Khārijites.

The important point here to take notice of is the tribal system in Kūfa and the prevalence of ethnocentrism and dominance of the clannish culture and lifestyle in the behavior and relations of the Kūfans. In this culture, the chief of the tribe was the key role player in the movements and efforts, while other people were blind followers who had no power of choice.

Thus, when we say that people left Imām 'Ali (a.s.) alone, we mean the elite, the influential and the chieftains of the Islamic community left him alone. This painful fact was more evidently seen in the people of Iraq at that time, especially among the Kūfans.

Now and after this brief explanation, we proceed to deal with the reasons for Imām 'Ali's loneliness, according to his own words and sayings.

1. al-Mustadrak 'ala al-Ṣaḥīḥayn, vol. 1, p. 193, ḥ. 374

Imām Ali's Loneliness in His Own Words

We said earlier that history is a truthful witness to the claim that the short period of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) government has been the most sublime manifestation of a rule based on human values. His ruling method was not only attractive to those committed to Islamic human values, but those uncommitted to such values were also attracted by it, and they sometimes did not fail to admit its magnificence and perfection. Therefore, the reasons for the people's distance from the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is not to be sought in the inconsistency of his method, but there are other reasons and causes to be delved into, that will be mentioned in the following pages.

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) himself explicitly and sufficiently has talked about the reason for the withdrawal of people from him and turning their backs on his government. In his sermons and responses to queries, he expressed the reasons for their initial welcome and then their eventual distancing from him. Here is a review of the background, reasons and causes of the people's withdrawal and Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) loneliness:

1. Contradictory Demands

The first reason for the people's distance from Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was the fundamental difference between two types of views about government. In reality, these two approaches had fundamental conflict between each other in their motivations and purposes.

A great majority of the participants in the uprising against 'Uthmān, especially a number of the key players of that movement such as Ṭalḥa and Zubair, did not intend to bring the community back to the Prophetic conduct (sīra) and tradition (sunna). They did not wield their swords, in order to maintain the sovereignty of genuine Islamic values. Party monopolization tendencies and tribal decision-making of the Umayyads in government which was formed through 'Uthmān's rule had exhausted them. For them, overthrowing 'Uthmān and their pledge of allegiance to 'Ali (a.s.) were in fact aimed at solving this problem, although in their slogans they stated otherwise.

Finally after much insistence by the people and his frequent refusals, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) took over the caliphate, so as to restore a right, lead the community back to the conduct (sīra) of the Prophet, revive the forgotten genuine Islamic values in the society, and to spread reforms in all bureaucratic, cultural, economic, social and judicial fields. In one of his earlier sermons, he stated among other things, the perspective of these changes.

In other words, while people were motivated by the material and worldly inclinations, 'Ali (a.s.) was motivated by truth-centrism, seeking God's pleasure and being concerned about the revival of religious values. In this regard he (a.s.) said:

لَيْسَ أَمْرِي وَأَمْرُكُمْ وَاحِدًا. إِنِّي أُرِيدُكُمْ لِلَّهِ وَأَنْتُمْ تُرِيدُونَنِي لِأَنْفُسِكُمْ.

"My concerns and yours are not the same. I want you for the sake of Allah but you want me for your own self."¹

In such a time when some people saw Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) persistence in his goals and realized that they could not be in harmony with these goals, they turned away and abandoned 'Ali (a.s.) and refused to support him. As time passed, religious concerns, Divine motives and Islamic-human orientation of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) rule were further manifested. At the same time, the distance became wider and the support of those who were seeking other than the truth slackened even more.

2. The Betrayal of the Elite and Obedience of the Masses

Through the era of the government of the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.), tribal chiefs played the main role in making decisions for most of the people. He (a.s.) tried very hard to develop the necessity of following of criterion in the minds and lives of the people so that they would choose their path and measure the others by the criterion of truth, rather than measuring truth with the criteria of prominent individuals and personalities...²

1. See, h. 15.

2. See 4/6, p. 341 Cultural Policies

The efforts of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in this respect were unfortunately of no avail. The prevalence of the aforementioned situation seriously hindered the basic reforms of 'Ali's (a.s.) rule and this was extremely painful for him as his decisions were occasionally left unfulfilled by the opposition of an individual who was backed by a large group of ignorant followers. Imām described this sorrowful situation as follows:

النَّاسُ ثَلَاثَةٌ: فَعَالِمٌ رَبَّانِيٌّ، وَمُتَعَلِّمٌ عَلَى سَبِيلِ نَجَاةٍ، وَهَمَجٌ رَعَاعٌ أَتْبَاعُ كُلِّ نَاعِقٍ.

People are divided into three groups: a Lordly (divinely inspired) knower, one seeking knowledge who moves along the path of salvation, and the riffraff and rabble, the followers of every screaming voice, those who bend with every wind, who have not sought to be illuminated by the light of knowledge and who have not had recourse to a solid support.¹

In this insightful statement, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) divides people into three groups concerning to the choosing of their way of life:

1. The learned who have found the way: 'Divine Scholars'.
2. The seekers of truth and those on the path of deliverance from darkness and corruption: 'The learners on the path of salvation'.
3. People who neither know the right and straight path nor its correct course; rather, they are prompted to move by blind following of the influential. Imām has called them the uncivilized rabble (hamaj ra'a), who are like the petty flies who sit on the faces of animals, and the foolish ignorant who are moved around, with any blowing wind and drift along any flow, without achieving any firm position.

By the Imām's (a.s.) analysis, those who neither know the right way of life nor allow themselves any wise deliberation and knowledge and blindly follow others are like flies that have gathered around those who are more ignorant than themselves and seek benefit from them. Such people neither possess a firm intellectual status nor are able to stand steady on one position. Without knowing who their leader is and whether he speaks the truth or not, they highly respect him with their body and soul, and follow him only because he has some reputation, or holds a lofty position and bears on his forehead the title of chief of the tribe or the leader of a party or for any other reasons, just like a swarm of flies which are blown to every direction without knowing why and where they are heading.

It was so painful for 'Ali (a.s.) to see that such a great number of people of his time were among the third group. He (a.s.) was faced with large masses who were neither 'people of knowledge' nor on the path of understanding.

More heart-rending and distressing was the lack of a sympathetic person who would listen to these social problems and calamities, and the lack of some intelligent ones with whom Imām 'Ali (a.s.) would share all of these. In other words, he (a.s.) could not unveil the pains and reveal the nature of the people whom he ruled upon and accompanied him. When he intended to share what he was involved in, to one of his close companions, Kumayl, he took his hand, led him to the desert and asserted the bitter reality with much sorrow and pity. What he told him was not conveyable to anyone since many were not able to tolerate listening to all these problems. According to him, every person who enjoyed a larger intellectual and spiritual capacity would become a more valuable and helpful person to listen.

Imām then revealed the reasons for not being supported by people. He announced that the root of all problems and failures concerning his reforms and reformative plans was hidden in the people's ignorance and their blind following of the treacherous elite.

More Explanation on the Roots of the Problem

On one occasion Imām 'Ali (a.s.) spoke in front of his relatives and a group of the elite about his problems, stating more openly than before the reasons of the disturbance (in Kūfa), elucidating its origins and revealing the reasons for disunity in the Islamic community of that time. He explained why people were not consistent with his reformatory planning, did not tolerate the government and sovereignty based on the Prophetic path (sīra) and tradition (sunna) and did not support his policies. Then Imām began his insightful speech with the following words of the Holy Prophet (ṣ.a.w.):

What I fear most for you are two things: the following of vain desires and extending of hopes.¹

He (a.s.) then explicitly stated that the political disturbances that had caused disunity in the Muslim community and created factions and division are rooted in moral corruptions, egoism and desires:

إِنَّمَا بَدَأَ وَقُوعَ الْفِتَنِ مِنْ أَهْوَاءِ تُتَّبَعُ وَأَحْكَامُ تُبْتَدَعُ، يُخَالَفُ فِيهَا حُكْمُ اللَّهِ وَيَتَوَلَّى فِيهَا رِجَالٌ رِجَالًا.

Surely the causes of seditions (and conspiracies) in which the Divine Law is disobeyed and men rule over other men are the following of desires and laws that are innovated.²

Imām (a.s.) indicates that egoism, desire and self-centrism bring baseless and anti-religious innovations under the cover of religion; and it is through this approach that blind factionalism is founded, moral disturbances grow into cultural turmoil, and eventually wind up in political and social seditions and rebellions. It is in such cases that the perpetrators in order to justify their goals and to spread the seditions, misuse the truth and pretend to support it. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) warns:

أَلَا إِنَّ الْحَقَّ لَوْ خَلَصَ لَمْ يَكُنْ اخْتِلَافٌ وَلَوْ أَنَّ الْبَاطِلَ خَلَصَ لَمْ يُخَفَّ عَلَى ذِي حِجَى لِكَتِّهِ يُؤْخَذُ مِنْ هَذَا ضِعْفٌ وَمِنْ هَذَا ضِعْفٌ.

Verily, if the truth becomes purified and manifest, there will be no differences and if falsehood becomes manifest, it will not be hidden from the wise. However, (what is done) is that some from this and some from that are taken (and mixed).³

1. See 2/4, h. 74.

2. Ibid.

3. Ibid.

By these words, Imām (a.s.) actually delineated the cultural features of his time and drew attention to the fact that truth and falsehood had been intertwined in the past and those who had promoted falsity pretended truthfulness to achieve their false goals. As a result, after the lapse of one generation, innovations that were presented were regarded as tradition. Now that he (a.s.) intended to expose the features of falsehood and to rightly clarify the aspects of truth, it would be extremely difficult to do so, because people did not realize the depth of the tragedy.

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) quoted as saying from the holy Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) who had predicted and mentioned that such an atmosphere will occur after him:

إِنِّي سَمِعْتُ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ يَقُولُ: كَيْفَ أَنتُمْ إِذَا لَبَسَتْكُمْ فِتْنَةٌ يَرَبُّ فِيهَا الصَّغِيرُ،
وَيَهْرُمُ فِيهَا الْكَبِيرُ، يُجْرِي النَّاسُ عَلَيْهَا وَيَتَّخِذُونَهَا سُنَّةً فَإِذَا غُيِّرَ مِنْهَا شَيْءٌ قِيلَ:

Verily, I heard the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) say: "How would you be when a sedition would encompass you? Such that the children would turn to adults and the adults would turn old. People would act according to them and adopt them as traditions to the extent that if one of them is changed, they would cry out that the tradition (sunnah) is changed!"¹

It is a wonder that the Prophetic doctrines had settled in people's minds, tongues, and beliefs so reversely that when someone like Imām 'Ali (a.s.) who was a clear manifestation of truth and was a truth-centered personality intends to reform and rectify the minds and thoughts of the people, they cry that 'the tradition has been changed!', and so on.

Were any fundamental reforms, essential changes and restoring the Muslim community back to the sunnah of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) possible in such an atmosphere? Thus, in these words and after his introductory statement, Imām (a.s.) returned to the main issue and candidly talked about innovations and stated part of these innovations imposed on the sunna. He painfully unveiled what the former statesmen and authorities had bequeathed people, asserting that he could no longer do anything else because if he would not hold on to this cultural transformation and carry on the campaign against cultural deviations, the troops would disperse and he would be left alone. Here are the Imam's painful words:

وَلَوْ خَلَّطْتُ النَّاسَ عَلَى تَرْكِهَا وَحَوَّلْتُهَا إِلَى مَوَاضِعِهَا وَإِلَى مَا كَانَتْ فِي عَهْدِ

If I force people to abandon their own customs (what they practice now) and restore the traditions to their original state and to the way they were during the Prophet's (s.a.w.) era, my troops will scatter and I will be left alone or with only a few of my followers.

Expressing Grievances, an Ultimatum to all

During the last months of Imām 'Ali's rule, his life was hard, painful and unbearable. The tribulations, rebellious, lootings and stubbornness of the enemies made his life difficult. In a lengthy and exciting speech that he delivered for relatives and closed ones, he reiterated what he had told earlier to Kumayl ibn Ziyād in the desert. By explaining the situation for them, he left no excuse for any one, the elites or the common people.

In this speech, known as the Sermon of Disparagement and Threatening (Khuṭbah al-Qāṣi'a)¹ which was delivered after the battle of Nahrawān, Imām stated very important and fundamental points as to how and why pre-Islamic religious revolutions ended in failure and he precisely predicted the future history of Islam.

With the Elite (al-Khawāṣ)

In his eloquent words, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) described the destiny of Satan that he had worshipped God for six thousand years, and with references to his high status [before his rejection], he (a.s.) points to the elite who enjoyed good accounts in their services to Islam and warns them lest they end up in a destiny similar to that of Satan:

1. Nahj al-Balaghah, Sermon 192.

فَاحْذَرُوا عِبَادَ اللَّهِ عَدُوَّ اللَّهِ أَنْ يُعَذِّبَكُمْ بِدَائِهِ وَأَنْ يَسْتَفِزَّكُمْ بِدَائِهِ....

Therefore, O servants of God, beware of Satan infecting you with his disease or leading you astray through his call.¹

He then explains that the only way to avoid this destiny is to give up groundless prejudices, factional tendencies, and vindictiveness rooted in the age of ignorance, and seeking undeserved superiority:

فَأَطِئُوا مَا كَمَنَّ فِي قُلُوبِكُمْ مِنْ نِيرَانِ الْعَصِيَّةِ وَأَحْقَادِ الْجَاهِلِيَّةِ فَإِنَّهَا تِلْكَ الْحَمِيَّةُ
تَكُونُ فِي الْمُسْلِمِ مِنْ خَطَرَاتِ الشَّيْطَانِ وَنَحْوَاتِهِ وَتَرْغَائِهِ وَتَفَنَائِهِ، وَاعْتَمِدُوا
وَضَعِ التَّذَلُّلَ عَلَى رُؤُوسِكُمْ وَإِقَاءَ التَّعَزُّزِ تَحْتَ أَقْدَامِكُمْ وَخَلَعَ التَّكَبُّرَ مِنْ

Extinguish what is hidden in your hearts of the fires of prejudice and the grudges of the age of ignorance, as this vanity and self-conceit can only exist in a Muslim by the (astute) machinations of Satan, his haughtiness, mischief and whisperings. Practice humbleness, to trample self-pride under your feet and to cast off vanity from your necks.²

Warning the Masses

When eminent figures of the community, the political and cultural manipulators, and those of ethnic, and ideological reputation get involved in prejudiced clashes, they make use of means such as enflaming disturbances within the people and the communities and thus lead the society into the fire of disunity.

As well, in his sermon, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) insistently enjoins the people to refuse obeying their dignitaries and elite, in case they would not give up their arrogance and persist on their haughtiness arrogance and sedition. They should not follow their illegitimate objectives and should be heedful of the fact that all seditions, corruptions and abnormalities are rooted in their positions:

1. Ibid.

2. Ibid.

أَلَا فَاحْذَرُوا الْخَذَرَ مِنَ طَاعَةِ سَادَاتِكُمْ وَكِبَرَانِكُمُ الَّذِينَ تَكْبَرُوا عَنْ حَسَنِهِمْ
وَتَرَفَّقُوا فَوْقَ نَسَبِهِمْ... فَإِنَّهُمْ قَوَاعِدُ أَسَاسِ الْعَصِيَّةِ وَدَعَائِمُ أَرْكَانِ الْفِتْنَةِ...
وَهُمْ أَسَاسُ الْمُسَوِّقِ وَأَحْلَاسُ الْعُقُوقِ إِخْذَهُمْ إِبْلِيسُ مَطَايَا ضَلَالٍ وَجُنْدَانَهُمْ
يَصُولُ عَلَى النَّاسِ....

Beware and avoid obeying your leaders and elders who felt proud over their lineage and boasted over their descent...they are the main sources of obstinacy and main pillars of mischief... They are the roots of vice and people of disobedience. Satan has made them as the carriers of misguidance and the troops with whom he attacks men.¹

Imām then gave an enlightening explanation of what was stated. Afterwards, he proceeded to make a very important political and ethical discussion about social interaction and behavior. He talked about the difficult Divine trials aimed at training the human beings, stressing that life's various misfortunes and difficulties are in line with the spiritual construction of man and to purify him of moral vices, particularly selfishness, arrogance and haughtiness just as God Almighty has ordained prayers, fasting and alms for such purposes.

He (a.s.) then enjoined people to delve into history, deliberate on events and take lessons from the fates of the religious revolutions to find out how they had ended, and recognize the impact of disparity and disunity on the failures in religious calls, lest the haughtiness and egoism of the elite and the influential along with the people's unaware obedience would lead the Islamic government to a destiny similar to that of previous revolutions.

In this part of his speech, Imām (a.s.) gives an explicit warning and issues an ultimatum to the elite and the influential:

أَلَا وَإِنَّكُمْ قَدْ نَفَضْتُمْ أَيْدِيَكُمْ مِنْ خَبْلِ الطَّاعَةِ، وَتَلَمَّثْتُمْ حِصْنَ اللَّهِ الْمَضْرُوبَ
عَلَيْكُمْ بِأَحْكَامِ الْجَاهِلِيَّةِ... وَاعْلَمُوا أَنَّكُمْ صِرْتُمْ بَعْدَ الْهِجْرَةِ أَعْرَابًا وَبَعْدَ الْمَوْلَاةِ
أَخْرَابًا، مَا تَتَعَلَّقُونَ مِنَ الْإِسْلَامِ إِلَّا بِأَسْوِهِ وَلَا تَعْرِفُونَ مِنَ الْإِيمَانِ إِلَّا رُسْمَهُ.

Indeed, you have shaken off your hands from the rope of obedience and broken the divine fortress around you by (resorting to) pre-Islamic laws. You should know that you have again reverted to the position of the Bedouin after the immigration (to Islam) and have become different parties after having been once united. You do not possess anything of Islam except its name and know nothing of faith other than its form.¹

1. Ibid.

The Danger of Abandoning the 'Enjoining Good and Forbidding Wrong'

From the viewpoint of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) the enjoining to do good and forbidding them from doing any wrong are among the major elements in the continuation of an Islamic revolution. The establishment of all human and Islamic values is directly related to this duty. If this obligation is forgotten, values will also be forgotten and once the Islamic community turns its back on religious values and takes refuge in other than Islam, it will lose Divine assistance and fail in its battle against foreign enemies, and a government based on the teachings of Muḥammad (ṣ.a.w.) and 'Ali (a.s.) will thereby be defeated, the devils will dominate the Islamic Community and the prayers of the pious will not be answered.

Imām (a.s.) goes on to say further in the sermon of al-Qāṣi'a regarding this same issue:

إِنكُمْ إِنْ لَجَأْتُمْ إِلَى غَيْرِهِ حَازَكُمْ أَهْلُ الْكُفْرِ، ثُمَّ لَا جَبْرَائِيلَ وَلَا مِيكَائِيلَ وَلَا مُهَاجِرُونَ وَلَا أَنْصَارٌ يَنْصُرُونَكُمْ إِلَّا الْمُقَارَعَةُ بِالسَّيْفِ حَتَّى يَحْكُمَ اللَّهُ بَيْنَكُمْ.
وَإِنْ عِنْدَكُمْ الْأَمْثَالُ مِنْ بَأْسِ اللَّهِ وَقَوَارِعِهِ وَأَيَّامِهِ وَوَقَائِعِهِ، فَلَا تَسْتَبْطِنُوا وَعِيدَهُ

فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ سُبْحَانَهُ لَمْ يَلْعَنِ الْقَرْنَ الْمَاضِي بَيْنَ أَيْدِيكُمْ إِلَّا لِتَرْكِهِمُ الْأَمْرَ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ
وَالنَّهْيِ عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ. فَلَعَنَ اللَّهُ السُّفَهَاءَ لِرُكُوبِ الْمَعَاصِي، وَالْخُلَئَاءَ لِتَرْكِ التَّوَاهِي.

Be sure that if you incline towards anything other than Islam, the disbelievers will fight against you. Then neither Gabriel nor Michael nor the Muhājirīn or Anṣār will help you, you will draw swords against each other, until Allah settles the matter for you.

1. Ibid.

Certainly, there are examples before you of God's wrath, punishment, days of tribulations and happenings. Therefore do not disregard His warnings due to ignorance of it or taking light His Wrath, or feeling immune from His punishment, for God the Glorified did not curse people of the past except because they had abandoned enjoining good and forbidding wrong. In fact, Allah cursed the foolish for committing sins and the clement because they gave up forbidding wrong.¹

The Holy Prophet (s.a.w.), prior to Imām 'Ali (a.s.), had also warned people of this danger in the following words:

فَلَا أُجِيبَ لَكُمْ، وَتَسْأَلُونِي فَلَا أُعْطِيَكُمْ، وَتَسْتَنْصِرُونِي فَلَا أَنْصُرَكُمْ.

O People! Verily God says to you: Command people to do good and forbid them from wrong, or else you will pray, but I do not answer your prayer and you ask Me but I do not grant you and you seek My assistance but I do not assist you.²

The danger of abandoning the enjoining to do good and forbidding the wrong in regard to the continuance of the Islamic revolution is so serious that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) warned people about it until the last moments of his life, saying in the last sentence of his testament:

لَا تَبْرَكُوا الْأَمْرَ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ وَالنَّهْيِ عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ، فَيُؤَلَّى عَلَيْكُمْ شِرَارُكُمْ، ثُمَّ تَدْعُونَ
فَلَا يُسْتَجَابُ لَكُمْ.

Do not abandon the enjoining of good and forbidding the wrong, or else the villains would dominate over you, then when you pray, you will not be answered.³

After drawing attention to the dangers that await the future of the nation because of abandoning the enjoining good and forbidding

1. Ibid.

3. See, The Encyclopedia of Amir al-Mu'minin, vol. 7, p. 255, h. 2961 wrong and turning away from the [Islamic] values, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) goes on to say in the sermon of al-Qāsi'a that the Islamic community is facing this problem at the present time. Therefore, if it is not cured, people must be expecting the dominance of the villains and the wicked over them:

Indeed! You have broken the ties of Islam, transgressed its limits and destroyed its rules.¹

Indeed, refraining from obeying the wise and a truth-seeking leader, breaking through the stronghold of religion by following pre-Islamic tendencies and behaviors and leaving meritocracy, solidarity, harmony and empathy by yielding to disunity and satanic pomposity, contenting oneself with grandiose titles, towing behind only the titles of truth, faith and Islam (neglecting their essence); abandoning the practice of enjoining good and forbidding wrong, not practicing Divine sanctions, annihilating religious ordinances and so forth are all causes of failure, defeat, falling into hardships, and consequently being ruined and witnessing the satanic dominance of the enemy, and so on.

3. Equality in Distribution

Human beings very often fall into the trap of material and worldly inclinations and attractions. If one gets accustomed to worldly indulgence and fills his life up with worldly provisions and concerns himself with its pleasure and comfort, then it will be difficult for him to part himself from them.

After the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) and during the reign of the [first] three caliphs, one of the wrong policies pursued was bribing and alluring the reputed figures and discrimination in favor of the related elites. In this way many who did not deserve such lofty positions were lifted high in rank and others were unrightfully degraded and tyrannized.

1. Nahj al-Balaghah, Sermon 192.

Imām (a.s.), as he stated in one of his early sermons, intended to eliminate this appalling class discrimination and disorder in enjoyment of the privileges.¹

It was evident that this policy would stimulate many people against Imām (a.s.) and they –mainly consisting of the elite and reputed figures– would in turn pull many of the common people behind them by various tricks in order to justify their opposition and to hide the secret of their parting from ‘Ali (a.s.).

It was for this reason that many of Imām ‘Ali’s (a.s.) advocates frequently asked him to give up this policy and forget about the chieftains, influential political figures and pompous persons who enjoyed special economic privileges for a time and temporarily and that he should not confront them and their indulgence. Nonetheless, he (a.s.) found the suggestions in conflict with the principles and fundamentals of his government and therefore rejected them. He regarded these suggestions as somehow abandoning the goals and ideals of an Islamic state and so he refused them.

Here are some examples of such suggestions and the Imām’s responses to them:

1. It is reported in the book al-Ghārāt that:

‘Ali (a.s.) was complaining to Mālīk al-Ashtar of the people’s flight toward Mu‘āwiya. Al-Ashtar said: “O Commander of the Faithful! We fought against the people of the Battle of Jamal in the company of Baṣrans and Kūfans who were all unanimous in their opinions, but then they differed, bred enmity and their intentions slackened and justice failed. And you call them to justice, treat them righteously, and take back the rights of the weak from the wealthy who in your views have no superiority over the weak.

Many of them, who were with you when they were treated as such, began to grieve and became sad with this justice. As for Mu‘āwiya, his gifts were with the opulent. People’s soul yearned towards the worldly gains. Those who are not infatuated with the world are very few; many of them are the ones who discard the truth, go along with falsehood and prefer the worldly gains. If you are munificent toward them, they will be drawn toward you and become benevolent to you and their friendship will purely belong to you. May God settle your affair (O Commander of the Faithful) and terminate your enemy, disperse their assembly, nullify their plots and slacken their efforts, as He knows what He does."

In response to him, 'Ali (a.s.) thanked God and praised him, and said: "As for what you said that my manners and character are based on justice, verily, God says: 'Whoever acts righteously, it is for his own soul, and whoever does evil, it is to its detriment, and your Lord is not tyrannical to the servants'"¹ and I am more fearful that I may have been negligent in what you said.

As for what you said that they found the truth too heavy and thus turned away from us, God knows that they did not turn away from us due to our tyranny. When they did turn away, they were not called forth to justice; [rather] they sought nothing but the transient world that they had been parted from it; and on the Resurrection Day, they will be called to account whether they sought worldly gains or acted for the sake of God.

As for being munificent to men and buying them off, actually we are not able to give away out of public assets to people beyond what they deserve, as God has rightfully said: *"How many a small party has overcome a large party by Allah's will!"*²

He Almighty chose Muḥammad (s.a.w.) as a Prophet and he was alone and after a while he turned his few followers into multitudes and raised his party to power after being humiliated. If God wishes to assign us to a task, He would smooth out the difficulties and would ease the hardships (for us too). I approve all that of your ideas in which there is the pleasure of God; you are the most trustworthy of my companions, and the most trusted, the most benevolent, and the most discerning of them to me.

2. Qur'ān, 2: 249.

2. In the same book, Rabī'a and 'Ammāra are quoted as saying:

A group of 'Ali's (a.s.) companions went to him and said: "O Commander of the Faithful, give these riches away, and give the noble and the dignitaries of the Arabs and Quraysh superiority over the non-Arab liberated ones and also [give preference and advantage] to those opposition you fear their harm."

Rabī'a Said: "They said this because Mu'āwiya treated those who went to him in this way". 'Ali (a.s.) said to them: "Do you order me to seek victory by means of tyranny? By God, I would not do that as long as the sun keeps rising, and a star is shining in the sky. By God, if these riches belonged to me, I would treat them equally, how is it possible when they are the public properties."¹

3. Sahl ibn Hunayf, Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) governor in Madina sent him a letter reporting that a group of Madīnans had joined Mu'āwiya. Imām wrote in reply:

"Now, I have come to know that certain persons from your side are stealthily going over to Mu'āwiya. You should not worry if the number of your men is reduced and their help is lost. Indeed they have joined misguidance and you have been relieved of them. They are running away from guidance and truth and advancing towards blindness and ignorance. They are seekers of this world and are proceeding to it and are leaping towards it. They have known justice, seen it, heard it and appreciated it. They have realized that here, to us, all men are equal in the matter of right. Therefore, they ran away to selfishness and partiality. Let them remain remote and far away from the mercy of Allah. By Allah, surely they have not gone away from oppression and have not joined justice. In this matter, we only beseech Allah to resolve for us the hardships and to level for us its unevenness, if Allah wills; Wassalām!"²

4. Avoidance of Using Unlawful Means in the Enforcement of Commands

An ideal human society, as it must be, is a society full with human values. It is a society in which law and justice create relations or break

1. See 5/10, h. 229.

2. See The Encyclopedia of Amir al-Mu'minīn, vol. 7, p. 171 (Nahj al-Balāghab, Letter 70) them, extinguish rebellions and rectify abnormalities. However, it is evident that achieving such a stage in human society is very difficult. What was the kind of society that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) ruled over? What were people's tendencies at its public level? How were the inclinations and efforts of people basically determined?

The community during those days had been ruled by others for 25 years. Those governments faced, towards the final years, rebellions, criticisms and confrontations, and in return reacted with violence, severe confrontations, punishments, and occasional imprisonments, tortures and atrocities.

The general public was not rightly familiar with the law and its significance so the rulers ruled over people in this milieu. The rulers, whenever encountered with people's wrongdoing, right from the beginning practiced force, violence and dominance instead of resorting to them as a final solution.

In the Umayyad policy, ends justify the means and the politicians use any tools, even illegitimate ones for implementing their policies, plans and orders. The leader of such policy speaks to some in a language of allurement and to others through threatening and still to some others by means of deception. Mu'āwiya did rule over Shām by means of such policies and perhaps the maintenance of the interests of Shām demanded doing so!!

What should Imām 'Ali (a.s.) do when in his doctrines, the use of illegitimate means to implement his policies is not permissible and the people's leader speaks solely by means of explanation, elucidation and instruction, does not use words of allurement deception, threat, or violence; and how should he bring the people who had been accustomed to these methods, back to the right way?

Surprisingly, the public masses of Shām indisputably used to obey Mu'āwiya without receiving anything from him simply and just because he used the means of the policy of imposture, allurement and threat. The public masses of Kūfa however, did not obey the Imām, even though they were not deprived of material interests. In this regard Imām said:

أَوْ لَيْسَ عَجَبًا أَنْ مُعَاوِيَةَ يَدْعُو الْجُمُعَةَ الطَّغَامَ فَيَتَّبِعُونَهُ عَلَى غَيْرِ مَعُونَةٍ وَلَا عَطَاءٍ، وَأَنَا أَدْعُوكُمْ - وَأَنْتُمْ تَرِيكَهُ الْإِسْلَامَ، وَبَقِيَّةَ النَّاسِ - إِلَى الْمَعُونَةِ أَوْ طَائِفَةٍ مِنْ الْعَطَاءِ، فَتَفَرَّقُونَ عَنِّي وَتُخَالِفُونَ عَلَيَّ؟!

Is it not strange that Mu'āwiya calls out to some rude, low people and they follow him without receiving any support or grant, but when I call you, although you are the successors of Islam and the (worthy) survivors of the people, to help and grant you, you scatter away from me and oppose me?¹

Imām (a.s.) knew well that the society was not at a level of understanding to grasp his heart-rending and suspicion-free words. He knew that he could make many, including some dignitaries, obey him through violence and threat and put things in order even though temporarily, but he refused to do so and said:

أَلَا إِنِّي كُنْتُ أَمِيرُ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ، فَأَصْبَحْتُ الْيَوْمَ تَامُورًا وَكُنْتُ نَاهِيًا فَأَصْبَحْتُ مَنِيهًا وَقَدْ أَحْبَبْتُمُ الْبَقَاءَ وَلَيْسَ لِي أَنْ أَجْلِكُمْ عَلَى مَا تَكْرَهُونَ.

Indeed, yesterday I was the Commander of the Faithful, but today I am commanded and until yesterday I was dissuading people (from wrong acts), but today I am being dissuaded. You have now shown that you only love to live in this world and it is not for me to force you to what you dislike.²

In the policy of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), achieving goals is rightful only when people think freely and accept the reform plans and submit to them without any obligation. Imām (a.s.) never deemed it right to make people accept what he viewed as truthful and proper by resorting to the sword, violence and to force them to obey him. At the end, it is people who would finally choose a way which they are attached to.

In other words, if Imām 'Ali (a.s.) had been asked why people had left him alone, he would have answered: "I was not willing to force them to obedience by the language of the sword. And they were regretfully not in a position to appreciate this path [my rule] and submit to it for some cultural reasons and due to the social structure that has been imposed on them and they have been accustomed to."

1. See 5/10, h. 245 (Nahj al-Balaghah, Sermon 180)

2. The Encyclopedia of Amir al-Mu'minin, vol. 6, p. 191, h. 2577

Imām (a.s.) believed that problems of a government could be temporarily solved by violence, but such sovereignty and rule would no longer be that of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.). He has frequently stated this fact as follows:

يَا أَهْلَ الْكُوفَةِ! أَتُرَوْنِي لَا أَعْلَمُ مَا يُصْلِحُكُمْ، بَلَى، وَلَكِنِّي أَكْرَهُ أَنْ أَصْلِحُكُمْ

O People of Kūfa! Do you think I do not know what can rectify you? Yes indeed. But I do not like to rectify you by corrupting myself.¹

And then he said:

وَلَقَدْ عَلِمْتُ أَنَّ الَّذِي يُصْلِحُكُمْ هُوَ السَّيْفُ، وَمَا كُنْتُ مُتَحَرِّياً صَلَاحَكُمْ بِفَسَادِ

I know that what rectifies you is the sword, but I do not seek to rectify you by corrupting myself. After me, however, a tough authority will dominate over you.²

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) asserted that he knew how to confront people and subjugate them by means of violence and sword and was able to straighten their crookedness with a sword and to force the rebels to obedience, but he refused to do so. He said: "Correcting you by resorting to violence would cost a price, (i.e., ruining the moral values) and I am not willing to pay such a price. This would neither be compatible with my disposition nor with my philosophy of governing. But you should know that after me a hard time will be awaiting you. With such manners and acts, you pave the way for the rule of those who would not have mercy on you and would not talk to you except by the language of the sword:

You will not be rectified (O people of Iraq!) except by he who shall humiliate you, and God will humiliate him too."³

Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) Predictions Coming True

Finally, Imām (a.s.) departed people while having been unjustly treated by them and complaining about them:

إِنْ كَانَتْ الرُّعَايَا قَلِيلًا لَتَشْكُرُو حَيْفَ رُعَايَاهَا وَإِنِّي الْيَوْمَ لَا شَكُو حَيْفَ رَعِيَّتِي.

People before me used to complain of the oppression of their rulers but now I have to complain of the wrongful actions of my subjects....¹

He had told people that their wrongdoing towards the just leader would be as dangerous to the community as the wrongdoing of an oppressive leader, and a community that does not observe the rights of a just leader and refuses obedience, solidarity and empathy to him—who is most deservedly entitled to such rights—will be entangled in commotion and burn in the fire of decline:

... وَإِذَا غَلَبَتِ الرَّعِيَّةُ وَالْيَهَا أَوْ أَجَحَفَ الْوَلِيَّ بِرَعِيَّتِهِ اخْتَلَفَتْ هُنَالِكَ الْكَلِمَةُ

وَوَظْهَرَتْ مَعَالِمُ الْجَوْرِ وَكَثُرَ الْإِدْعَالُ فِي الدِّينِ، وَثُرِكَتْ تَحَايُ السُّنَنِ فَعَمِلَ بِأَهْوَى

وَعُظِّلَتِ الْأَحْكَامُ وَكَثُرَتْ عِلَلُ النُّفُوسِ. فَلَا يُسَوِّحُ لِعَظِيمٍ حَقَّ عَظْلٍ وَلَا لِعَظِيمٍ

بَاطِلٍ فُعِلَ فَمِنْ أَلَيْكَ تَذَلُّ الْأَبْرَارِ وَتَعِزُّ الْأَشْرَارِ وَتَعْظُمُ تَبَاعُثُ اللَّهِ سُبْحَانَهُ عِنْدَ الْعِبَادِ.

And if the subjects come to dominate over the ruler, or the ruler oppresses the subjects, differences will arise among them, signs of oppression will appear, mischief will enter religion and the tradition will be forgotten. Then desires are acted upon, the religious commands are discarded, diseases of the spirit become numerous, great rights will remain idle, falsehood will be practiced. In such circumstances, the virtuous are humiliated, the wicked are honored and the chastisements of God Almighty towards people will be severe.²

Thirty four years after the martyrdom of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), his prediction about the Kūfāns came true. In the caliphate of 'Abdul Malik ibn Marwān, a group of Khārijites called "Azāriqa" rose up in the Ahwāz region against the central government. The only place that could dispatch military troops to the fronts was Kūfa, but the people did not comply and refused to go to battle. In an inciting sermon, 'Abdul Malik sought a solution from his dignitaries and close companions, by asking them:

فمن يتدب لهم بسيف قاطع وسنان لامع؟

Who will volunteer against them with a cutting sword and a piercing spear?¹

All remained silent. Hajjāj ibn Yūsuf who had recently suppressed 'Abdullah ibn Zubair in Mecca stood up and declared his readiness, but 'Abdul Malik did not accept. Referring to the difficulty of dispatching troops to the Ahwāz front, he asked them to choose volunteers from among their most powerful troops to Iraq for the battle against the Azāriqa army. Here again, the only one who volunteered was Hajjāj ibn Yūsuf.

Interestingly, 'Abdul Malik wonders how Hajjāj wants to have such rebellious and unsteady people to obey, and thus asked him:

إن لكل أمير آلة وقلاند، فما آلتك وقلاندي؟

Every commander has instruments and leashes. What are your instruments and leashes?²

And Hajjāj replied, "The tongue of the sword and the instruments of violence!" He would talk to them with the language of the sword and would raise whips of violence. He said that he would spread the policy of threat and allurement and by doing this he would uproot the opposition:

فمن نازعني قصمته ومن دنا مني أكرمته، ومن نأى عني طلبته ومن ثبت لي طاعته ومن ولي عني لحقته ومن أدركته قتله... إن آلتني... أزرع بذرهمك من يواليك، واحصد بسيفك من يعاديك.

I will destroy anyone who fights against me and honor anyone who shall approach me. I will chase anyone who runs away from me, harm anyone who resists me and trace those who turn their back on me, so when I find them, I will kill them.

2. al-Futūḥ, vol. 7, p. 4, ḥ. 3.

These are indeed my instruments. Saw your friend with your dirhams (gold coins) and reap those who are hostile to you with your sword.¹

‘Abdul Malik approved this policy and in 74 AH /887 CE he appointed Hajjāj as the governor of Kūfa and Baṣra. In his first encounter with them and in a warning sermon to the people Hajjāj said:

“Verily I see heads ripe enough to be plucked and I am undertaking this task. It seems as if I am looking at blood gushing out of the turbans and the beards...

Know that I will not promise anything, unless I carry it out to full term; I do not utter anything unless I fulfill it; I will not come close unless I find out and will not stay far unless I hear. Therefore, avoid shouting, gatherings, demonstrations, playing champions and listening to every individual! What is happening to you, O people of Iraq? O separatists? O people of hypocrisy and vulgar morals? Verily you are inhabitants of a town that [God said] was secure and peaceful. Its provision came abundantly from every place, but it was ungrateful toward God’s blessings, so He made it taste hunger and fear because of what they used to do.²

Know that my sword will soon be satiated by your blood and it will peel off your skin. Therefore, whoever wishes, should preserve his blood!”³

2. Qur’ān, 16:112.

3. al-Futūḥ, vol. 7 & 8, p. 8-10. Mas’ūdī has said:

Hajjāj died at the age of 54 in the region of Wāsiṭ, Iraq in 95 AH/713 CE. He ruled for twenty years and the number of people who were killed [during his reign] in battles or due to their being tortured, were up to 120000. At the time of his death, 50000 men and 300000 women, including 16000 girls, were in his prisons.

He used to keep men and women in the same place. His prisons did not have roofs, so the prisoners could not keep away from the heat of the sun in summer time and the rain and cold in winter time. His other methods of tortures are described in my [i.e. Mas’ūdī’s] other books. It is reported that one day he mounted his horse to go to the Friday prayer. He heard moans, so he asked what it was. He was told: “The prisoners are moaning and complaining of their hardships.” He went towards them and said: Be gone in it, and do not speak to Me! [Qur’ān, 23:108]

It is said that Hajjāj died on this same Friday, and he never again mounted a horse after this. (Muruj al-Dhahab: vol. 3, p. 175).

From the very first time, Ḥajjāj showed in his speech that death would be flowing out of his eyes and blood shall be shed from his sword. He talked to the Kufans with the harshest words and the most degrading epithets and revealed the ending of rebellions, openly stating that he would quench his sword with the blood of those disobeying him and intending to be haughty towards him. After this horrifying speech, characterized with blood dripping from his every word, he issued a statement, which was announced to the public in every quarter and district:

فَعقوبته ضرب عنقه.

"Be informed that we gave the companions of Muhlab a respite of three days, whomever we catch after that, his punishment will be the decapitation of his head."¹

In order to show that the statement would definitely be implemented, he quickly ordered his disciplinary commander and doorman Ziyād ibn 'Urwa to have a number of his troops patrol around town, recruiting people to be dispatched to the war front and to kill those who hesitated or refused.

In this way, all the troops who had abandoned Muhlab ibn Maqra - the commander of the troops against Azāraqa - returned to the battle front and not even one person lagged behind.²

'Abdul Malik was able to suppress all the opponents of the central government by implementing the policy of threat and allurement throughout the society and then set out for Ḥajj pilgrimage with a peaceful mind in 75 Ah/694 CE. al-Ya'qūbī wrote:

ولما استقامت الأمور لعبد الملك وصلحت البلدان! ولم تبق ناحية تحتاج إلى
صلاحها والإهتمام بها، خرج حاجاً سنة 75.

When things were settled in favor of 'Abdul Malik and the cities were controlled and calm and there was no place in need of control or being taken care of, he left for Ḥajj pilgrimage in the year 75 AH.³

This kind of reform, which was based on subjugating the people and creating peace under the glittering of swords, was the kind of reform whose price in Imām 'Ali's view was the corruption of the reformer and he was not willing to approve such 'reformation' of the society. He could not yield to a policy that would solve the problems of the state to the cost of ruining human values.

What is the need for messengers, divine leaders and a person like Ali, in a society which resorts to this type of solution for the problem? What need do they have for Divine leaders and what need is there for 'Ali (a.s.)? In such politics, the government of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) is meaningless. Anyone who possesses power and impudence in action, puts aside compassion, discards human wisdom, abandons moral virtues and appeals to whatever enforces his dominance, can rule.

However, in Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) government it is values that are fundamental. He is not willing by any means to sacrifice human and Islamic values. A government in which values are sacrificed and human values and criteria are beheaded in the slaughterhouse of statesmanship is a Satanic and Umayyad government. These kinds of governments will not be an Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) government, even though it might carry behind it the name of 'Ali (a.s.) and Islam.

It must also be added that in today's world the policy of sword, force and violence is no longer efficient. Military equipment is gradually losing its efficacy and statesmen are basing their systems of governments on new foundations. Human values are now being wiped away in a different way in such modern policies. The policy of eradicating social justice through economic reforms and crushing the feeble is an example.

5. Peripheral Factors

What we enumerated so far are the major factors of the people's lassitude and weariness and Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) loneliness in the last days of his government. Other factors can also be mentioned for the people's withdrawal from him. Although they were not as effective as the aforementioned factors, they had a conspicuous role in humiliating the people. Such factors which we have called 'peripheral factors' are listed below:

A. War against the People of the Qibla

In the first days of the establishment of his government, Imām 'Ali (a.s.) unfortunately plunged into war; civil war and war against the people of the Qibla. The previous wars were entirely against the disbelievers. The wars against the disbelievers were unambiguous and free of any misconception. But the wars during Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) government which were fought to suppress seditions, reform the society and bring it back to the conduct (sīra) and tradition (sunna) of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) were wars against the people of the Qibla, against those who were called Muslims and in cases had good reputations with high ranking socio-political profiles.

That was how the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) –who had seen these events in the mirror of time and had predicted how they would happen– regarded these battles as wars based on the interpretation (ta'wīl) of the Qur'an and confirmed their difficulties.¹

War against the people of the Qibla was creating lots of trepidation in faith for the narrow-minded. They could not correctly make up their minds, so they refused to stay with him (a.s.). This way the cunning statesmen who had problems with Imām (a.s.) justified their refusal and raised doubts among the common people. Thus from the very beginning the so-called influential personalities such as Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ, Usāma ibn Zaid and 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar refused to support 'Ali (a.s.). When he (a.s.) asked them about the reason for their refusal, Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ said:

إِنِّي أَكْرَهُ الْخُرُوجَ فِي هَذَا الْحَرْبِ؛ لَيْتَلَا أُصِيبَ مُؤْمِنًا فَإِنِ اعْطَيْتَنِي سَيْفًا يَعْرِفُ

"I hate to go out to this battle lest I kill a believer. So, if you give me a sword that distinguishes a believer from a disbeliever, I will fight along with you!"²

Usāma said:

أَنْتَ أَعَزُّ الْحَقِّ عَلَى وَلِيِّي وَلَكِنِّي عَاهَدْتُ اللَّهَ أَنْ لَا أَقَاتِلَ أَهْلَ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا اللَّهُ.

1. See The Encyclopedia of Amīr al-Mu'minin: vol. 5, p. 25

2. See 1/9, h. 44.

"You are the dearest of people to me, but I have made a pledge to God not to fight against the people of 'lā ilāha illa Allah' (those who say, There is no god but Allah)."¹

And 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar said:

"I do not know anything about (the nature of) this battle and I ask you not to make me do that which I do not know."²

Mental readiness of people in accepting such an unjustified doubt concerning the prohibition of fighting against the people of the Qibla on one hand, and the raising of doubts by those who opposed the reform plans of Imām (a.s.), particularly by the propaganda network of Mu'āwiyah on the other hand, had made the recruiting and mobilization of the military forces extremely difficult. Therefore, Imām was often forced to explain to the people the grounds, causes and motives of his stance. In the beginning of the emergence of disturbances and when he was forced to fight against the perpetrators, Imām said:

وَقَدْ فُتِحَ بَابُ الْحَرْبِ بَيْنَكُمْ وَبَيْنَ أَهْلِ الْقِبْلَةِ، وَلَا يَحْمِلُ هَذَا الْعِلْمَ إِلَّا أَهْلُ

الْبَصِيرِ وَالصَّبْرِ وَالْعِلْمِ بِمَوَاضِعِ الْحَقِّ، فَاْمْضُوا لِمَا تُوْمَرُونَ بِهِ، وَفَقُوا عِنْدَ مَا

تُهَوَّنُ عَنْهُ وَلَا تَعْجَلُوا فِي أَمْرِ حَتَّى تَتَبَّعْتُمَا، فَإِنَّ لَنَا مَعَ كُلِّ أَمْرٍ تُنْكِرُونَهُ غَيْرًا.

"The door of war has been opened between you and the people of the Qibla [other Muslims]. This banner will be borne only by him who is a man of insight, endurance and knowledge of the position of truth. Therefore, go ahead with what you are ordered and desist from what you are forbidden.

Do not make haste in any matter until you have clear knowledge of it. For in every matter you dislike, we have another solution for it."³

Although Imām spared no effort in explaining to people the reasons for his stances and the causes of events, it was difficult for many to accept that 'Ali (a.s.) was always right, that he had a resolute position, and that Ṭalḥa, Zubair and 'Ā'yisha were always wrong and on the false path.¹

B. Soldiers being tired of War without Spoils

The people of that time, even though they were Muslims and ready to set out for battle, by the order of their Divine leaders, but they were not on such a high level of culture and predisposition that they could be solely God-seeking and practice sincerity and devotion. Collecting spoils in wars was a strong motivation, especially for those who for years had been accustomed to this practice. Now they had to remain in the battlefield for days and months, without being able to enjoy what they seized [as spoils of war].

During the reign of former rulers, they were accustomed to gaining spoils in wars and using them. Now, Imām (a.s.) from the very beginning of the battle wanted them to keep their hand off people's property and to know that they had no right to keep what they seized at the height of the battle. Participating in a battle without gaining any spoils was very difficult for the people.

Most of those who accompanied Imām 'Ali (a.s.) did not have that deep faith and strong insight to think only of God and 'to wield their sword for His sake' and to have no desire except for God's pleasure in their battle against the wicked. In the war, the majority were only thinking of their own interests rather than righteousness, faith or putting an end to the disturbances. Historical facts state that among the most frequent and numerous complaints that were brought up in the battles of Nahrawān and Jamal were concerning the booties of wars. People were asking why the enemies women were not taken as captives and their properties were not divided among the soldiers. Ibn Abī al-Hadīd has quoted this historical event based on the consensus of the reporters:

وعملوك ومنايع وعروض، فقسمه بين أصحابه، وأنهم قالوا له: اقسم بيننا أهل

1. See The Encyclopedia of Amīr al-Mu'minīn, vol. 5, p. 142.

البصرة فاجعلهم رقيقاً، فقال: لا، فقالوا: فكيف نحل لنا دماهم وتحرم علينا

It is a consensus among the narrators that what 'Ali (a.s.) found in [the Battle of] Jamal, including weapons, riding animals, slaves and other things, he divided them among his companions. They said to him: "Divide the people of Baṣra between us as slaves." He (a.s.) said: "No." Then they said: "How can the shedding of their blood be lawful to us, but taking them as captives cannot?"¹

When the physical and mental fatigue of the troops who had fought for two years without receiving any spoils and financial benefits is accompanied with the misconception of the illegitimacy of the war against people of the Qibla, along with other factors of the Imām's (a.s.) loneliness, the result would obviously be nothing but disobedience. Thus, Imām (a.s.) faced serious problems in controlling and mobilizing his troops towards the end of his government.

C. Losing Eminent Companions

He who manages a society and leads the people is in dire need of competent staff and loyal companions among his administrators in order to enable him to overcome problems and resolve complicated social intricacies. The presence of self-sacrificing talented and dedicated wise men that support the leader by making sacrifices in challenging situations is greatly effective in the managing of the society. The role of such people in removing ambiguities, delivering messages, explaining situations and motivating the forces, those who could indirectly actualize the strategies of the leader in society is extremely significant. Amid the battle of Ṣiffin, the impact of the sermons and valorous speeches delivered by such companions like Malik al-Ashtar, Hāshim ibn Mirqāl and others is evident and attests to this.

1. See The Encyclopedia of Amīr al-Mu'minīn, vol. 5, p. 147.

It is unfortunate that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) did not enjoy the company of such persons toward the end of his government. The most outstanding of his (a.s.) companions who were eloquent explainers and advocates of his path were no longer present. The absence of Mālik al-Ashtar, 'Ammār, Hāshim ibn Mīrqāl, Muḥammad ibn Abī Bakr, 'Abdullah ibn Badīl, Zaid ibn Ṣuḥān and others who were among the companions of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was sadly felt. No longer was it possible to hear those passionate, encouraging and stimulating sermons among the troops. On the other hand, there were many evil-minded, misleading and ill-hearted individuals who raised difficulties and spread apathy.

It is due to such an atmosphere of chaos, sedition and insubordination that Imām (a.s.) remembers with sorrow those vigilant, insightful 'worshippers in the night and fighting lions in the day', who were pioneers in the fields of action and warriors on the battlefields, saying:

Where are those who were invited to Islam and accepted it wholeheartedly? Those who read the Qur'an, acted according to it and established it in their hearts. Those who were exhorted to fight and leapt towards it as a she-camel leaping towards its young, drew their swords out of their sheaths and went out and took control of lands in groups and ranks. Some of them passed away and some survived. The good news of their survival did not please them nor did they condole the dead (living in this world would not make them happy as departing this transient life could not sadden them). Their eyes turned white from weeping, their bellies were emaciated because of fasting, their lips were dry because of constant praying, their color was pale because of staying awake and their faces bore the dust of God-fearing humility. They were my comrades who have departed. Therefore, it behooves that we long for them (and desire their presence) and bite our hands (out of sorrow) from being separated from them.¹

In the end of his painful words, uttered in the last days of his life, he said:

1. Nahj al-Balāghah, Sermon 121.

Where are my brothers who took the true path and departed from the world with righteousness? Where is 'Ammār? Where is Ibn al-Tayyḥān?¹ Where is Dhūl-Shahādātayn?² Where are those who were like them from among their comrades and had pledged themselves to death and whose severed heads were gifted to the corrupt [enemies]?³

It must be further added that some of the companions and soldiers of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) became members of the Khawārij who stood up against him after the battle of Šiffin. Some of them were killed in the Battle of Nahrawān and others retreated from society. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was therefore left totally alone with no combatant companions, eloquent speakers and intelligent intellectuals and brave indefatigable heroes of the battlefields.

The Peak of the Power of Leadership during Loneliness

Now, and at the end of this brief analysis, we find it necessary to draw the attention of the esteemed readers to a significant point regarding the policies of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and his leadership approach, which I have not seen to be noticed and raised by any one. This point is the authority, power of management and extraordinary capability and steadfastness of Imām (a.s.) in leadership, in such a time and conditions, and despite all those circumstances as have all been explained.

Historical documents show that 'Ali (a.s.) has displayed the most sublime, the most powerful and the most significant characteristics of leadership during the days of his loneliness. Therefore, when we say 'Ali (a.s.) was alone, it must not be presumed that, due to so much disobedience and difficulties that he faced and which can be realized through his lamentation and complaints, he went into retreat or left the society. Nor could it be said that during the final months of his government he lost the power of leadership and management of the society, and until his martyrdom he contented himself only with grieving and complaining about the people's disobedience and lack of support and the weakness of the elite. Never!

1. Mālik ibn Tayyḥān al-Anṣārī was one of the companions (ṣaḥāba) in the Battle of Badr and was martyred in the battle of Šiffin.
 2. Khuzayma ibn Thābit al-Anṣārī, who was present in the Battle of Badr and other battles and was martyred in Šiffin. The Holy Prophet (s.a.w.) considered his testimony as equal to that of two persons.

Historical texts and abundant statements reporting about the code of conduct of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) show that, the most hard-working and diligent period of his (a.s.) government, was during the time of his loneliness. Never did despair overwhelm the matchless hero of the battlefields and the most sagacious figure of resistance in the onslaught of hardships and difficulties. All alone he made reforms, delivered great sermons, created enthusiasm and continued with the path he had delineated at the very outset of his government to the end of his life and never kept quiet or remained idle for even a moment.

In a society where a great part of the elite and influential people did not support 'Ali (a.s.); and the masses who followed them, in an atmosphere of misconception and ambiguity about fighting against the people of the Qibla and renowned and eminent personalities, turned to disobedience and lassitude, the soldiers were exhausted from fighting three severe battles without gaining any spoils, and at the time when Imām had lost the best of his companions, and when the frequent ambushes by the ignorant, wicked and inhumane troops of Mu'awiya and their plundering had wearied the people, Imām nevertheless, stood firm. He bravely and persistently pursued the mobilization of people against Mu'awiya's iniquities and criminalities. In such surroundings, fraught with disappointment, lassitude, and horror, he controlled the people—without resorting to violence—and brought them again to the battlefield of war against Mu'awiya. How much power in leadership, how much strength in management and charisma in leadership, 'Ali (a.s.) must have had to be able to stand up in such an environment and to mobilize the troops to such an extent...?

The last fervent and heroic sermon of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) delivered before re-dispatching the troops to Şiffin attests to the above claim.

Nawf Būkālī described the outer appearance of Imām at the time of delivering his exciting sermon along with the way he arrayed the troops:

The Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) delivered this sermon to us in Kūfa while standing on a rock set up by Ja'da son of Hubayra al-Makhzūmī. He was wearing a woolen garment, his sword-belt was made of palm tree filaments and so were the slippers he was wearing. The trace of prostration on his forehead was like the callus on the camel's knees.

Nawf goes on to say that in the end of his speech, Imām (a.s.) shouted with a loud voice:

الْجِهَادَ، الْجِهَادَ، عِبَادَ اللَّهِ... وَإِنِّي مُعَسِّكِرٌ فِي يَوْمِي هَذَا؛ فَمَنْ أَرَادَ الرُّوَاخَ إِلَى اللَّهِ فَلْيَخْرُجْ.

Jihād, Jihād (struggle, struggle), O servants of Allah! By Allah, I am preparing the army today. He who desires to proceed towards Allah, let him go forth.

Then, concerning the organization and arraying of the troops he reports:

The Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) then allocated Ḥusain (a.s.) over (a force of) ten thousand; Qays ibn Sa'd over ten thousand; Abū Ayyub al-Anṣārī over ten thousand and others with different numbers. He was ready to return to Ṣiffīn, but it was before the Friday when Ibn Muljam carried out his fatal strike. As a result, the armies came back and we were left like sheep that had lost their shepherd, while wolves were snatching them away from all sides.¹

According to what was said, the painful utterances of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and his frequent complaints about his companions were not due to his weakness, failure in leadership and managing people, rather instead of using the language of violence and sword for gaining authority over people, he used this language to motivate them.

As explained above, the mobilization of a great numbers of troops in less than a week (the same week before his martyrdom) indicates his superb capability in mobilizing masses on one hand, and the success of his (a.s.) policies on the other.

What was presented here was a glimpse at the background, reasons and causes of the people's lassitude in such a period of time, as well as a delineation of Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) way of conduct in administering a state.

In conclusion, we beseech Almighty Allah to grant us success to derive benefit from 'Ali's (a.s.) radiating Divine knowledge and the everlasting doctrines of the Ahlul Bayt (a.s.).

Allegiance of Light

The Date of Allegiance to the Imām

Historians and hagiographers have differed in determining the accurate date of the people's pledge of allegiance to Imām 'Ali (a.s.). Some hold that on the same day which 'Uthmān was killed people swore allegiance to the Imām (a.s.).¹ Others believe that the allegiance to the Imām took place several days after the murder of 'Uthmān. This interval, varying from one to five days, is a matter of disagreement among the historians.²

It is reported in some historical sources that the allegiance to 'Ali (a.s.) was sworn on Friday 25th of Dhil Hījja, which people is supposed to be the same day that 'Uthmān was killed.³

Finally, according to what⁴ Ibn Abi al-Ḥadīd quoted his teacher Abū Ja'far Iskāfī⁵ and based on what is reported in Tārikh Dimashq

It is narrated in the above volumes that: "People presumed that allegiance to the Imām took place the day 'Uthmān was killed." al-Mustadrak 'ala al-Ṣaḥīḥayn, vol. 3, p. 123, h. 4594. It is reported in this volume that, "It is said that the allegiance to Imām took place after 'Uthmān was killed".

2. It is reported in some sources that the allegiance took place one day after the killing of 'Uthmān. Cf., Ansāb al-Ashraf, vol. 3, p. 7. Other sources state that the allegiance was sworn three days later. Cf. al-Mustadrak 'ala al-Ṣaḥīḥayn, vol. 3, p. 123, h. 4594, al-Akhhār al-Fawā'id, p. 140. جاء في تاريخ دمشق وتذكرة الخواص،^١ أن بيعة الناس كانت يوم الثامن عشر من ذي الحجة سنة (35 هـ).

and *Tadhkirat al-Khawāṣṣ*¹, people swore allegiance to the Imām on Friday Dhil Hījja 18, 35 AH/June 12, 656 CE.

In my opinion, this last view is closer to reality; for besides being asserted by the foregoing sources, it is compatible with the view of those who identify the date of allegiance to the Imām with the date of the murder of 'Uthmān, since according to the most authentic traditions, 'Uthmān was murdered on the 18th of Dhil Hījja.²

On the other hand, considering the political circumstances of the Islamic society of that time and the exclusive situation of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), to claim that there was an interval of time between 'Uthmān's murder and the appointing of a new leader is far from reality.

People's Freedom in Electing the Imām

1. Imām 'Ali (a.s.), in a letter to the Kūfans while leaving Madīna for Baṣra: "People swore allegiance to me, not by force or compulsion, but willingly and with free choice."³
2. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "The Messenger of God departed and I saw myself the most worthy among the people for this affair [of leadership]. But people agreed upon Abū Bakr for ruling. So I listened and obeyed.

Then came the death of Abū Bakr and I presumed that it [the government] would be handed over to no one but me, but he appointed 'Umar as ruler. Again I listened and obeyed. Then 'Umar was injured and I presumed that it would not be given to someone other than me, but 'Umar turned it over to six persons

In fact both of you were among those who wanted me and swore allegiance to me. Indeed, the masses did not swear allegiance to me under any force or for any money given to them."²
4. al-Futūḥ: 'Ammār ibn Yasir came to 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭalib (a.s.) and said: "O Commander of the Faithful, now that people have sworn allegiance to you obediently and not out of compulsion, send for Usāma ibn Zaid, 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar, Muḥammad ibn Maslama, Ḥassān ibn Thābit, and Ka'b ibn Mālīk and invite them to what the Muhājirīn and Anṣār have taken part in." 'Ali (a.s.) said: "We are not in need of those who are reluctant and unwilling toward us."³

The Imām's Reluctance to Rulership

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) in his speech after the people's allegiance (bai'ah): "[After praising God] Verily, as God in His heavens and over His Throne knows I was reluctant to assume authority over the community of Muḥammad (ṣ.a.w.) until you (people) agreed upon this (my ruling) and I then accepted it."⁴

The Imām said: "I have no need in ruling over you. I am with you and I will accept whomever you chose. So choose (you)." But they said: "By God we choose nobody other than you."

He [Abū Bashīr] said: "They used to visit the Imām after 'Uthmān was killed and in the last meeting they said: "The people's affairs will not be settled except under a rulership and this [your acceptance of caliphate] has taken too long."

He said to them: "Verily, you have come to me many times and my reply to you is that if you accept what I say I will accept ruling and if not, I have no need of it."

They said: "We will accept whatever you say, if God wills."

The Imām came and ascended the pulpit where the people gathered around him and he said: "I was reluctant to rule over you, but you refused everything other than me ruling over you. Indeed, I have nothing to hide from you, but the keys of your wealth are with me. Indeed, I have no right to take one dirham from it without your consent. Do you agree with this?" They said: "Yes."

Imām 'Alī (a.s.) said: "Leave me and seek someone else. We are facing a matter which has multiple faces and colors, which neither hearts can endure nor can intellects accept."

The people said: "We implore you by God. Do you not see what we see? Do you not see [the problems that] Islam [faces]? Do you not see the disturbance? Do you not fear God?"

He (a.s.) then said: "I answered you according to what I view. Know that if I accept your request I will act on the basis of what I know, and if you leave me I shall be one like you, except that I will be the most submissive and obedient among you towards the one to whom you surrender as your ruler."²

My father said: “Do not do this, for I am better for you as a counselor than I am as a commander.”

An Analysis of the Reasons for Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) Reluctance to Accept Rulership

The general uprising against 'Uthmān by all the masses took place because of his method of ruling. The expansion of the revolt against 'Uthmān and the people's attention towards an eminent figure to become the caliph had practically taken the caliphate out of the clutches of political trends. Thus, it was the people who were deciding on their political leader. In such a critical situation, almost all hearts were directed towards Imām 'Ali (a.s.) without the slightest doubt, as he was the most appropriate successor to the Holy Prophet (ṣ.a.w.), whose name is mentioned again by all after twenty five years of seclusion.

The general inclination of the people was so strong and to the extent that nobody could oppose this public movement. Therefore, the claimants who had assumed themselves as equal to 'Ali (a.s.) and had been beside him in 'Umar's electoral council of six people were feeling that it was politically reasonable to precede others in swearing allegiance to Imam (a.s.).

People from all walks of life crowded the way towards Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) house to pledge their allegiance. The Imām strongly resisted and refused to accept, explicitly asked them to go to someone else, saying: "I am better for you as a counselor than being a commander."

How surprising! Someone who regarded himself as the immediate successor to the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) and during his long period of seclusion used to speak of his oppressed state on every occasion and in any appropriate situation, and prove his worthiness of caliphate and that his rights have been usurped, is now clearly pronouncing his unwillingness to accept the responsibility of caliphate and ruling which was then so strongly and whole-heartedly and in a free and direct election demanded and approved of by such great multitudes of followers.

Why was this so?! Did the Imām not like to accept rulership and he was inclined towards the ruling of another person?! Or was he playing a political maneuver by taking such a stance in order to attract more popular support?! Or there are other reasons for these two approaches in his life.

Any slight familiarity with the viewpoints and behavior of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) leaves no doubt that he was far from any political maneuvering and had a true aversion to the very government itself. 'Ali (a.s.) was neither seeking to rule nor intending to dominate over people. He considered government as an instrument for the establishment of rights, spreading justice and implementing equality. Were the political, social and cultural circumstances of those days prepared for achieving such goals of a government? Now, after twenty five years of political, social and intellectuals vicissitudes and other spiritual and mental changes, the companions had also undergone changes with different ideas and criterions and views for life, and so on.

The present generation who are leading the political arena and are engaged in the current challenges are neither familiar with the firm criterions and standards of religion, nor with the conditions of the era of the Prophetic revelation, nor with the sīra (conduct) of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.), or are they truly aware of Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and his high position in religion and his great virtue. What befell the religion in that quarter of a century was because of (false) explanations and interpretations of religious texts along with distortions that were made in the Divine laws.

All of these things created an image of religion in the minds and sayings of people which made it extremely difficult to act according to the Book of God and the traditions (sunna) far from courtesy and flattery. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) knew well that trying to reverse the situation would be tantamount to prompting all kinds of disturbance and that the implementing of truthfulness would urge the wrongdoers and deceivers to rise up! He therefore persistently refused to submit, in order that the rebellions would not have any excuses in future. This is why he said in a sermon:

القلوب ولا تثبت عليه العقول. وإن الآفاق قد أغامت، والمحجة قد تنكرت،
واعلموا أي إن أجيبتكم ركبتم بكم ما أعلم، ولم أضغ إلى قول القائل وعتب
العائب، وإن تركتموني فأننا كأحدكم، ولعلي أسمعكم وأطوعكم لمن وليتموه
أمركم، وأنا لكم وزيراً، خير لكم مني أميراً.

Leave me and seek someone else, for we are facing a matter which has multiple faces and colors, which neither hearts can endure nor can intellects accept. The horizons have been covered by clouds and the right path is not discernable. Know that if I accept your request I will lead you according to what I know, and I will not care about whatever one may say or any admonishing of an admonisher. If you leave me I will be like one of you, and I might be the most listening and obedient among you to whom you put to rule over your affairs. I am better for you as a counselor than being a commander."¹

Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) words are so precise, illuminating and profound: "What we are facing will be of several aspects and layers: The torrents that are ahead of us, the storms that will begin, the justice that I will insist on, the shouts that will follow it, etc."

The Imām wanted to prepare the ground for sharing with people the criteria and standards of interaction and to restate the principal lines of the government and clarify the future so that the people would make conscious decisions and take wise stances.

The Imam's words in the above sermon and in his other sayings in regard to his refusal and then accepting the rulership include the following matters:

1. Asserting that he is not enamored or fascinated by leadership. If he has talked of himself, complained of deviations following the death of the Messenger of God, (s.a.w.) or if he has stressed on his right of 'Imāmate' and leadership, it was all for the sake of clarifying the truths and emphasizing the interests (of the Ummah). Now that he is taking charge and accepting the caliphate, it is for implementing rights and laying the foundation for a government that he approves and cares for, so that no one in future would lay any claims or intend to impose any demands on him.
2. Asserting that certain changes had taken place in religious doctrines. After the passing away of the Prophet (s.a.w.), the Divine doctrines underwent vicissitudes. Therefore, if he takes over the government, he will fight against the distortions and will make attempts toward revealing the genuine aspects of the religion and remove the dusts of distortion, which would inevitably lead to a lot of political and social tensions.

3. A careful study of the Imām's (a.s.) meticulous sociology, and psychology is bearing witness to the fact that he was not enamored by the people welcoming his allegiance in that particular political condition. He clearly saw the future of his government and knew that the ground was not prepared for his reforms and bringing the Islamic nation back to the sīra (conducts) and sunna of the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.). He was also well-aware that the people's uprising against 'Uthmān was not to return the community back to Islamic values. Rather, some opportunists like 'A'isha, Talḥa, and Zubair engaged in this uprising with specific political and economic motivations. Therefore, their motivation for allegiance was not compatible with the Imām's (a.s.) government goals and any time they realized that 'Ali (a.s.) would not accompany them and would refuse to grant them unlawful and unfair privileges, they would stand up against his reforms and lead the community to disunity and confusion.

4. Pledging allegiance to him is pledging allegiance to Imām 'Ali's (a.s.) values. He who joins hands with 'Ali (a.s.) and swears allegiance to him must be ready to be at his side in the removing of distortions, spiritual reforming of the society, reinforcement of the real laws of religion, revival of what people have forgotten, clarifying the realities that have gone through changes, and so on.

Thus the Imām (a.s.) gives an ultimatum to the massive multitudes who clamorously demanded him to take over the caliphate, that by accepting caliphate he intends to spread justice, implement the truth and revive the Divine doctrines, and this is the (right) way and nothing else.

The Imām's Motives in Accepting the Rulership

12. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): Behold! By Him who split the grain (to grow) and created living beings, if people had not come to me and the argument had not been furnished through the presence of supporters, and if there had been no pledge taken from the learned to the effect that they should not acquiesce in the gluttony of the oppressor or the hunger of the oppressed, I would have cast its rope [of caliphate] on its own shoulders, and would have given the drink to the last one with the same cup as to the first one [have treated the last one the same treatment as the first one i.e. abandon it. And you would have seen that this world of yours for me is no better than the sneezing of a goat.¹
13. Imām 'Ali (a.s.)—explaining the reasons for his acceptance of the ruling: "O differing souls and divided hearts whose bodies are present but whose intellects are absent. I am leading you towards the truth, but you run away from it like sheep running away from the roaring of a lion. How hard it is for me to establish with you the foundations of justice or to correct the curves created in truthfulness.

O God! You know that what we did was neither to seek power nor to acquire anything from the vanities of the world. We rather wanted to restore the foundations of Your religion and to bring reform in Your land so that the oppressed among Your servants may be safe and Your forsaken commands might be established.²

The First Person to Swear Allegiance

19. al-Kāmil fī al-Tārikh: "When 'Uthmān was killed, the companions of the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) from among the Muhājirīn and Anṣār, including Ṭalḥa and Zubair got together and went to 'Alī (a.s.) and said to him: "People must have a leader." 'Alī (a.s.) said: "I have no need to rule over you, so whoever you choose I will accept." They said: "We will not choose anybody other than you."

They would frequently go to him and in the last of their visits they said to him: "We know nobody more deserving of it [ruling] than you; someone who is more pioneering [in Islam] and closest in kinship to the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.)."

The Imām then said: "Do not ask for this! I am better to you as a counselor than as a commander."

They said: "By God, we shall do nothing until we swear allegiance to you."

The Imām said: "So, let it be done in the mosque, as my allegiance will not be in secret, and would not be accomplished except in the mosque."

At this time, the Imām was at his home, and it is also said that he was in the garden of Banī 'Amr ibn Maḍdhul.

He then set out towards the mosque, wearing a robe over a long shirt, a fur turban on his head, holding his shoes in his hand and leaning on a bow. It was then that people swore allegiance to him.

The first person who swore allegiance was Ṭalḥa ibn 'Ubaydullah. Ḥabīb ibn Dhu'ayb looked at him and said: "We belong to God! The first to swear allegiance is a feeble hand. This affair will not be settled!" Then Zubair swore allegiance.

'Alī (a.s.) said to the two: "If you wish you may swear allegiance to me, or if you wish, I will swear allegiance to you?"

They said: "We will swear allegiance to you."¹

20. al-Jamal—quoting from Zaid ibn Aslam: "Ṭalḥa and Zubair came to 'Alī (a.s.) who had then retreated to the outskirts of Madīna. They approached him and said: "Hold out your hand so that we swear allegiance to you, for the people do not accept anyone other than you." The Imām said to them: "I have no need for this. I am better to you as a counselor than as being your commander. So, whoever of you holds out his hand I will swear allegiance to him."

The two of them replied: "People prefer nobody other than you nor will they turn away from you; hold out your hand so that we can be the first of people to pledge allegiance to you."

The Imām said: "My allegiance would not be in secret. Give me some time to go forth to the mosque."

They said: "Rather, we will swear allegiance to you right here and then we will swear allegiance to you again in the mosque." They were the first of people to swear allegiance to him, and then the rest of the people swore allegiance to him on the pulpit. The first of them was Ṭalḥa ibn 'Ubaydullah who had a feeble hand. He went up the pulpit and shook hands with 'Ali (a.s.).

A man from Banī Asad who used to spell bad omen was standing there watching them. When he noticed that the first person to swear allegiance to the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) was Ṭalḥa whose hand was limping, he said: "Indeed we belong to God, and to Him do we indeed return! The first hand swearing allegiance was a limping hand. It is likely that this affair will not be fulfilled."

Ṭalḥa and Zubair then came down from the pulpit, and after them the rest of the people swore allegiance to him.¹

and Anṣār swore allegiance, and after them the rest of the people. This took place on Friday, Dhil Hijja 13, 35 AH/June 12, 656 CE.

The first person who swore allegiance was Ṭalḥa. His fingers were limping. 'Ali (a.s.) took it as a bad omen and said: "How befitting is it for it to be broken!"¹

23. al-Manāqib –quoting from Sa'īd ibn al-Musayyib: 'Ali (a.s.) left and went back home. People rushed towards him and the companions of the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) were saying: "'Ali is the Commander of the Faithful", until they entered his house and said: "We swear allegiance to you, so extend your hand because there is no other choice but to have a commander."

At this moment 'Ali (a.s.) said: "This is not up to you. It is the right of the people of Badr. Whomever the people of Badr agree upon will be appointed as the caliph." All of the people of Badr came to 'Ali (a.s.) and said: "We do not know anyone more rightful for it than you. Hold out your hand to us to swear allegiance to you."

Then 'Ali (a.s.) said: "Where are Ṭalḥa and Zubair?" The first one who swore allegiance was Ṭalḥa who did so by shaking his hand, and his [Ṭalḥa's] fingers were limping then 'Ali (a.s.) took it as a bad omen, saying: "How befitting is it for it [caliphate] to be broken!" After that, Zubair, Sa'd and other companions of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) swore their allegiance to him.²

Attributing the Expectation of 'Bad Omen' to Imām 'Ali

As previously mentioned, Ṭalḥa was the first to give his pledge of allegiance to 'Ali (a.s.). Ṭalḥa's hand was limping and it was thus taken as a bad omen (taṭayyur/tafa'ul) that the allegiance would not last long. There are different views as to the person who uttered the bad omen. Some have attributed it to a person called Ḥabīb ibn Dhu'ayb, while others say it was a man from Banī Asad who made the comment of bad omen, saying:

"The first person who initiated the allegiance was a limping hand. [So] This affair will not be settled."

Some other traditions have attributed this statement of 'evil augury' to Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and reported that at the time of allegiance he (a.s.) had said:

"How befitting it is for it [the allegiance] to be broken!"

However, it appears that such an attribution is not correct and this can be proven by the intellect and traditions.

There is no doubt that on such an occasion with all the multitude of people who came to pledge allegiance, no intellect would allow to expect bad omen [talk about failure]; no wise person would then do so. How would 'Ali (a.s.), an unrivaled person in his wisdom proclaim the breaking of allegiance from one of the most eminent political figures in front of the public and on the first day of allegiance, especially by resorting to augury and considering it as a bad omen?!

On one hand, such utterances would add fuel to the rumors that can lead to the weakening of the foundations of the government, and on the other hand, it would encourage the breaking of allegiance.

Moreover, there are many traditions that discourage the expectation of bad omen, and people have been prohibited from it. It is clearly stated that the Ahlul Bayt (a.s.) never see anything as a bad omen, and ...¹

Therefore, it is extremely unlikely that the Imām might have uttered such inappropriate words or acted in such a way.

30. شرح نهج البلاغة لابن أبي الحديد عن ابن عباس: لَمَّا دَخَلَ عَلِيٌّ الْمَسْجِدَ وَجَاءَ النَّاسُ لِيُبَايَعُوهُ، خَفْتُ أَنْ يَتَكَلَّمُ بَعْضُ أَهْلِ الشَّنَانِ لِغِيٍّ، يَمْنُ قَتْلَ أَبَاهُ أَوْ أَخَاهُ أَوْ ذَا قَرَابَتِهِ فِي حَيَاةِ رَسُولِ اللَّهِ ﷺ، فَبَزَهَدَ عَلِيٌّ فِي الْأَمْرِ وَيَتْرُكُهُ، فَكُنْتُ أَرُصُّ ذَلِكَ

27. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –on Ṭalḥa and Zubair breaking their allegiance: "You came to me and told me to accept your pledge of allegiance and I refused. You said: "Yes [you will]." I said no, and pulled back my hand, but you pulled it towards you. I drew back my hand, but you dragged it. You leapt upon me as the camels leap upon each other on their arrival for drinking water to the extent that I thought you would either kill me or some will kill others. Then I extended out my hand and you swore allegiance to me willingly. The first among you was Ṭalḥa and Zubair who swore their allegiance to me willingly, but without any compulsion."¹
28. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –on his pledge of allegiance: "You opened my hand, but I closed it and you stretched it, but I pulled it to myself. Then you crowded over me as thirsty camels crowd on the watering pond when taken there, to the extent that shoes were torn, robes fell off and the weak got trampled. The happiness of people on their allegiance to me was so much that small children felt joyful, the old staggered for it, the sick reached towards it and the young girls ran for it without their veils."²
29. Waq'at Ṣiffīn –quoting from Khafāf ibn 'Abdullah: "People gathered around 'Ali (a.s.), like moths, to swear allegiance, to the extent that shoes got lost, robes fell off and the old men got trampled."³

Allegiance of the General Public

30. Sharḥ Nahj al-Balāghah –narrating from Ibn 'Abbās: "When 'Ali (a.s.) entered the mosque and the people came forward to swear allegiance to him, I feared that some of 'Ali's enemies whose father, brother or relatives had been killed by him during the life time of the Prophet (s.a.w.) might say something that would cause 'Ali to turn his face away from ruling and abandon it. I was constantly observing the situation while being apprehensive

 وَقَرَابَتَهُ وَمَنْزِلَتَهُ مِنَ النَّبِيِّ ﷺ، مَعَ عِلْمِهِ بِحِلَالِكُمْ وَحَرَامِكُمْ، وَحَاجَتِكُمْ إِلَيْهِ مِنْ

فَقَالَ هُمْ عَلِيٌّ: أَخْبِرُونِي عَنْ قَوْلِكُمْ هَذَا: «رَضِينَا بِهِ طَائِعِينَ غَيْرَ كَارِهِينَ»، أَحَقُّ

 قالوا: بَلْ هُوَ وَاجِبٌ أَوْجَبَهُ اللَّهُ عَزَّ وَجَلَّ لَكَ عَلَيْنَا.^٢

 وَسَمِعَتْ أُذُنَايَ!! لَمَّا التَقَى النَّاسُ عِنْدَ بَيْتِ الْمَالِ قَالَ عَلِيٌّ لِبُطْلَحَةَ: أَبْسُطْ يَدَكَ
 أَبَايَعُكَ. فَقَالَ بُطْلَحَةُ: أَنْتَ أَحَقُّ بِهَذَا الْأَمْرِ مِنِّي، وَقَدْ اجْتَمَعَ لَكَ مِنْ أَهْوَاءِ النَّاسِ مَا
 لَمْ يَجْتَمِعْ لِي. فَقَالَ لَهُ: مَا حَسِينَا غَيْرَكَ! فَقَالَ بُطْلَحَةُ: لَا تَخْشَ، فَوَاللَّهِ لَا تُؤْتِي مِنْ

وَقَامَ عَمَّارُ بْنُ يَاسِرٍ، وَأَبُو الْهَيْثَمِ بْنُ التَّيَّهَانِ، وَرَفَاعَةُ بْنُ رَافِعٍ بْنِ مَالِكِ بْنِ
 الْعَجْلَانِ، وَأَبُو أَيُّوبَ خَالِدُ بْنُ زَيْدٍ، فَقَالُوا لِعَلِيٍّ: إِنَّ هَذَا الْأَمْرَ قَدْ فَسَدَ، وَقَدْ رَأَيْتَ
 مَا صَنَعَ عُثْمَانُ، وَمَا أَتَاهُ مِنْ خِلَافِ الْكِتَابِ وَالسُّنَّةِ، فَابْسُطْ يَدَكَ ثُبَايَعُكَ؛ لِيُصْلِحَ

about it, but nobody said anything until all people swore allegiance to him, willingly, without any compulsion."¹

31. al-Futūḥ: The Anṣār told the people: "You all know the excellence of 'Ali ibn Abū Ṭālib, his precedence, kinship and his status with the Prophet (s.a.w.), his knowledge about what is permissible and prohibited, and your need for him from among the companions. He has never stopped giving advice to you. If we were to know someone better than him and more appropriate for this affair, we would lead you to that person."

The people unanimously said: "We accept him willingly, without any compulsion."

'Ali (a.s.) then told them: "Tell me that when you say: 'We swear allegiance to him willingly, without any compulsion', is it a right incumbent upon you by God or is it your own opinion."

They replied: "It is incumbent enjoined upon us by God the Glorious."²

32. al-Jamal –quoting from 'Abd al-Ḥamīd ibn 'Abd al-Raḥmān from Ibn Abzī: "Shall I tell you what I saw by my own eyes and heard by my own ears? When people gathered near the Public Treasury, 'Ali (a.s.) said to Ṭalḥa: "Extend your hand so that I can swear allegiance to you." Then Ṭalḥa said: "You are more deserving for this affair [of ruling] than I am, since the people are gathered more in your favor than in mine."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "We do not fear anyone other than you."

Ṭalḥa said: "Have no fear, for by God no harm will come to you from me."

After that, 'Ammār ibn Yāsir, Abū al-Haytham ibn al-Tayyāhān, Rifā'ah ibn Rāfi', and Abū Ayyub Khālīd ibn Zaid stood up and addressed 'Ali (a.s.), saying: "This affair [the government] has become corrupt and you yourself saw 'Uthmān's actions which were contrary to the Book and the Traditions (sunna). Extend your hand, that we may pledge allegiance to you and you will correct from the affairs of the nation whatever has been corrupted."

1. Sharḥ Nahj al-Balaghah, vol. 4, p. 10. There is hesitance in the acceptance of this narration, as 'Abdullah ibn 'Abbās was 'Uthmān's agent in Hajj and when he reached Medina, the allegiance to 'Ali had been accomplished. See Tārīkh al-Ṭabari, vol. 4, p. 439. The narrator may have been 'Abdullah or Qutham –the sons of 'Abbās.

فَأَقْبَلُوا عَلَى الْأَنْصَارِ فَقَالُوا: يَا مَعْاشِرَ الْأَنْصَارِ، أَنْتُمْ أَنْصَارُ اللَّهِ وَأَنْصَارُ رَسُولِهِ، وَبِرَّ سُوْلِهِ أَكْرَمَكُمْ اللَّهُ تَعَالَى، وَقَدْ عَلِمْتُمْ فَضْلَ عَلِيٍّ وَسَابِقَتَهُ فِي الْإِسْلَامِ، وَقَرَابَتَهُ وَمَكَانَتَهُ الَّتِي كَانَتْ لَهُ مِنَ النَّبِيِّ ﷺ، وَإِنْ وَلِيَ أُنَا لَكُمْ خَيْرًا. فَقَالَ الْقَوْمُ: نَحْنُ أَرْضَى النَّاسِ بِهِ، مَا نُرِيدُ بِهِ بَدَلًا.

'Ali (a.s.) turned it down and said: "You saw how I was treated and you know the opinion of the group. I have no need for them."

They then went to the Anṣār and said: "O Group of Anṣār! You are the supporters of God and His Messenger. God Almighty has graced you because of His Messenger and you know the excellence of 'Ali (a.s.), his precedence in Islam, his kinship and status that he had with the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) and if he was to rule he will bring goodness to you.

Therefore, those who were present had no choice to consider, and he who was absent had no right to reject (what was decided by the council). Indeed the council is confined to the Muhājirin and the Anṣār. If they agree on one person and call him the leader (imam), it would be deemed to mean Allah's content. If anyone keeps out by way of objection or innovation, he must be brought back to the position from where he left, and if he refuses they must fight him for following a path other than that of the believers, and God will put him with those he deserves."²

Statements of a Group of the Imām's Companions after the Pledge of Allegiance

37. Tārīkh al-Ya'qūbī –after mentioning the people's allegiance to 'Ali (a.s.): "A group of the Anṣār stood up and spoke. The first one to speak was Thābit ibn Qays ibn Shammās al-Anṣārī who was the orator of the Anṣār. He said: "By God, O Commander of the Faithful, if they preceded you in the rule (wilāya), they did not precede you in religion, and if they went before you yesterday, you have caught up to them today. They and you were not unaware of your status and they were not ignorant of your position. They were in need of you in what they did not know, and you with all your knowledge are in no need of anyone."

Khuzayma ibn Thābit al-Anṣārī who was also known as Dhul Shahādātayn³ then stood up and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! We find nobody for this affair other than you, and the affairs of the state will not settle except by you. If we are to be truthful to ourselves, about you, you are the most precedent of people in faith, the most knowledgeable among people about God and the closest among all believers to the Messenger of God. What they possess you possess, but they do not have what you have."

(Mu'jam Rijāl al-Ḥadīth, vol. 8, p. 52).

وَقَامَ صَعَصَعَةُ بْنُ صُوحَانَ فَقَالَ: وَاللَّهِ، يَا أَمِيرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ، لَقَدْ زَيْنْتَ الْخِلَافَةَ وَمَا زَانَتْكَ، وَرَفَعْتَهَا وَمَا رَفَعَتْكَ، وَلِيَّيَ إِلَيْكَ أَحْرَجُ مِنْكَ إِلَيْهَا.

ثُمَّ قَامَ عُقْبَةُ بْنُ عَمْرٍو فَقَالَ: مَنْ لَهُ يَوْمَ كَيَوْمِ الْعَقَبَةِ، وَبَيْعَةُ كَبَيْعَةِ الرِّضْوَانِ، وَالْإِمَامِ الْأَهْدَى الَّذِي لَا يُخَافُ جَوْرَهُ، وَالْعَالَمُ الَّذِي لَا يُخَافُ جَهْلَهُ^٢.

Then Mālīk ibn al-Ḥārith al-Ashtar stood up and said: "O People! This is the successor of the successors, the heir of the knowledge of the Prophets, he who has undergone great tests and possesses immense forbearance. The Book of God testifies to his faith and His Messenger testifies for him to be in the Heaven. All virtues have been perfected in him and no one of the past and the future has doubted his precedence, knowledge and virtue."

'Uqba ibn 'Amr also stood up and said: "Who has one day like the day of 'Aqaba and an allegiance like the allegiance of Ridwan [Good Pleasure]; who is the most guiding leader with no fear of his tyranny and a learned person with no fear of his ignorance."¹

Those Who Did not Pledge Allegiance to the Imām

The allegiance to Imām 'Ali (a.s.) was widespread and inclusive where all the Muhājirīn and *Anṣār*² participated in it along with everyone else that was in Madīna. Everyone swore allegiance by complete choice and absolute freedom, and then the people of Mecca, Hijāz and Kūfa pledged their allegiance.³

وفي تخلف هؤلاء عن البيعة نظريتان:

الأولى: إن هؤلاء تخلفوا عن بيعة الإمام، بل كانوا مخالفين لبيعته واقعاً.
الثانية: إنهم لم يخالفوا أصل البيعة، وأن ما ورد في النصوص مشعراً بذلك فهو بمعنى عدم مسيرتهم للإمام في حروبه الداخلية.

وقد ارتضى هذا الرأي ابن أبي الحديد، ونسبه إلى المعتزلة في كتابه شرح نهج البلاغة.^٥

The Imām (a.s.) clearly stated that the allegiance to him was public and inclusive¹. Many historical sources have also asserted this gathering of all the Muhājirīn and Anṣār for pledging allegiance to the Imām.²

However, some sources quote reports which state that some of the companions did not pledge their allegiance to 'Ali (a.s.), such as: 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar, Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ, Muḥammad ibn Maslima, Usāma ibn Zaid, Ḥassān ibn Thābit, Ka'b ibn Malik, 'Abdullah ibn Salām, Marwān ibn al-Ḥakam, Sa'id ibn al-'Āṣ and Walīd ibn 'Uqba.³

There are two views about the refusal of these people to give allegiance to the Imām:

The first: They were against the pledge of allegiance to the Imam and hence did not participate in it.

The second: They did not oppose to the allegiance itself. What has been mentioned in the sources regarding their refusal of allegiance to the Imām is taken to mean that they did not participate with the Imām in his civil wars.

Al-Ḥākim al-Nayshabūrī after stating the traditions concerning the peoples pledging of allegiance to the Imām says:

مُوسَى الْأَشْعَرِيِّ وَمُحَمَّدَ بْنَ مُسْلِمَةَ الْأَنْصَارِيِّ وَأُسَامَةَ بْنَ زَيْدٍ قَعَنُوا عَنْ يَمِينِهِ فَإِنَّ هَذَا قَوْلُ

As for the view of those who claim that 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar, Abū Mas'ūd al-Anṣārī, Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ, Abū Mūsā al-Ash'arī, Muḥammad ibn Maslima al-Anṣārī and Usāma ibn Zaid refused to swear allegiance to the Imām, it is in fact a view of those who have no knowledge of the realities of those conditions.

He goes on to explain that they did swear allegiance to the Imām, but for some reasons they refused to keep his company in war. Their refusal to participate in war led some people to presume that they have opposed pledging the allegiance to him (a.s.).⁴

The Mu'tazilite Ibn Abī al-Ḥadīd adopts this opinion and in his commentary on Nahj al-Balāghah has attributed it to the Mu'tazilites.⁵

ويؤيد ذلك أن مروان بن الحكم والوليد بن عقبة وسعيد بن العاص جاؤوا إلى الإمام - بعد انتهاء البيعة العامة - فبايعوه بعد نقاش.

كما يشهد له اعتراف عبد الله بن عمر وأسامة بن زيد وسعد بن أبي وقاص ببيعة الإمام علي عليه السلام، كما ورد في بعض النصوص.

38. الإمام علي عليه السلام - من كلامه حين تخلف عن بيعته عبد الله بن عمر، وسعد بن أبي وقاص، ومحمد بن مسلمة، وحسان بن ثابت، وأسامة بن زيد: - أيها الناس! إنكم بايعتموني على ما يوقع عليه من كان قبلي، وإنما الخيار إلى الناس قبل أن يبايعوا، فإذا بايعوا فلا

١. أراد مروان أن يبايع الإمام بعد الانكسار في حرب الجمل، لكن الإمام رد ذلك، وقال في رده: «أولم يبايعني بعد قتل عثمان؟ لا حاجة لي في بيعته، إنها كف يهودية» (نهج البلاغة: الخطبة 73، الخرائج والجرائع: ج 1 ص 197 ح 35).

If we contemplate on the sources in this chapter, we will find that the majority of those who are known for their refusal to swear allegiance to the Imām did in fact swear allegiance. However, the allegiance of some of them, like 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar and Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ did not mean that they were loyal to the Imām's leadership, as they openly announced that they would not accompany him in his wars. The allegiance of another group, such as Marwān ibn al-Ḥakam, Sa'id ibn al-'Āṣ and al-Walīd ibn 'Uqbah was for political motives.¹ Since the allegiance of this group was not true and complete, therefore, this group in a way can be considered as deviators from the allegiance to the Imām, but they can still be ranked among those who pledged allegiance to the Imām, as they performed the formal rite of pledging allegiance, and hence combining the two views is possible.

A third possibility is that they refused to participate in the public allegiance which took place in the mosque and made excuses for justifying their refusal; however, after the rite of allegiance was over and the caliphate of 'Alī (a.s.) was firmly established, they became inclined to the allegiance.

This claim is confirmed by the presence of Marwān ibn al-Ḥakam, al-Walīd ibn 'Uqbah, and Sa'id ibn al-'Āṣ who visited the Imām at the end of the public allegiance and pledge of allegiance to him after some discussions. The confessions made by 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar, Usāma ibn Zaid and Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ of their allegiance to 'Alī (a.s.), as is mentioned in some sources, also confirms this claim.

38. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) –from his speech when 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar, Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ, Muḥammad ibn Maslima, Ḥassān ibn Thābit and Usāma refused to pledge allegiance: "O people! You swore allegiance to me on what you did to those before me. Verily, people have options before they swear allegiance; but after

1. After being defeated in the battle of Jamal, Marwān proposed to swear allegiance to Imām 'Alī (a.s.). In rejecting his allegiance, the Imām said: "Did he not swear allegiance after the killing of 'Uthmān? I have no need for his allegiance, because his is the hand of a Jew." Nahj al-Balāghah, Sermon 73, al-Kharā'ij wa al-Jarā'ih, vol. 1, p. 197, h. 35.

This is a public allegiance, so whoever turns away from it is turning away from the religion of Islam and is following a path other than that of the Muslims. Quraysh, and as for Marwān, you insulted his father and mocked 'Uthmān when he brought his father close to him. We have therefore taken an oath between ourselves that [we swear allegiance to you on the condition that] you forgive the punishment of what we have done, leave us with what is in our possession and kill the murderers of our friend ('Uthmān)."

'Ali (a.s.) got angry and said: "As for what you said that I have cut you from your kin, it was the Truth that has cut you. As for me forgiving what you have done [of wrong doings], I have no right to forgive the right of God Almighty, as for me disregarding what is in your possession, justice will apply to you in that which belongs to God and the Muslims."

"As for killing the murderers of 'Uthmān, if I must kill them today, I must fight against them tomorrow. However, it is to your benefit that I force you to accept the Book of Allah and tradition of his Prophet. He who feels confined by the truth, then falsehood will be more confining, and if you wish you may join along with your predecessors"

Marwān then said: "Rather, we swear allegiance to you and will stay with you until you see and we see [what will happen]."¹

They were the followers of 'Uthmān."

Then a man said to 'Abdullah ibn Ḥasan: "How could they refuse to swear allegiance to 'Ali (a.s.) and (when we know that) they were followers of 'Uthmān?"

He replied: "As for Hassān, he is a poet who does not care what he does; as for Zaid ibn Thābit, 'Uthmān had appointed him as the head of the state council and Public Treasury and when 'Uthmān was besieged, he said: "O group of Anṣār, assist God Almighty", repeating it twice. تُعِينُوا مَنْ أَمَرَ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ وَنَهَى عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ، وَقَدْ ظَلَمْتُمْ إِذْ لَمْ تَقُومُوا بَيْنَنَا وَبَيْنَ عَدُوِّنَا give them their share of the spoils, even though they did not take part in the battles of Şiffin and Jamal.
بِمَا أَمَرَكُمُ اللَّهُ بِهِ، فَإِنَّهُ قَالَ: ﴿فَاتِلُوا الَّتِي تَبْغِي حَتَّى تَفِيءَ إِلَى أَمْرِ اللَّهِ﴾.

‘Ali (a.s.) said to them: “What made you keep away from me?”

They said: “‘Uthmān was killed and we do not know whether his blood was shed rightfully or not. He had committed some things and you made him repent and he did so. Then at the time of his killing, you contributed to it, so we do not know whether you acted rightfully or went wrong, even though we know of your excellence, O Commander of the Faithful, and your precedence [in Islam] and your migration (hijra).”

‘Ali (a.s.) then said: “Do you not know that God Almighty has commanded you to enjoin the good and forbid the wrong. He said: *“If two groups of the faithful fight one another, make peace between them. But if one party of them aggresses against the other, fight the one which aggresses until it returns to Allah’s ordinance.”*¹

Sa’d said: “O ‘Ali! Give me a sword that distinguishes the unbeliever from the believer. I fear that I may kill a believer and be taken to Hellfire.”

‘Ali (a.s.) told them: “Do you not know that ‘Uthmān was a leader to whom you swore allegiance to out of obedience? If he was righteous, why did you let him down? And if he was a wrongdoer, why did you not fight against him? If he was righteous, you did wrong since you did not help your leader, and if he was a wrongdoer, still you did wrong, as you did not help the person who asked others to practice good acts and refrained them from committing bad; and you did wrong, for you did not act between us and our enemy according to what you were commanded by God, as He said: *“fight the one [party] which aggresses until it returns to Allah ordinances.”*² He then turned the group away and gave them nothing

Usāma said: "You are the noblest of Allah's creation to me, but I have pledged to Allah not to fight against the faithful...."

And 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar said: "I know nothing about this war and I request from you not to force me to do something I have no knowledge about."

They said: "Yes."

He said: "Go back, God Almighty shall make me needless of you."²

45. Tārīkh al-Ṭabarī –narrating from Abū Malīḥ reporting some of the events that took place at the time of allegiance to the Imām: “‘Ali (a.s.) went to the mosque and went up the pulpit, wearing a long robe and garment, a turban made of fur and holding his sandals in his hand. The people swore allegiance to him while he was leaning on a bow.

Sa’d was brought in and ‘Ali (a.s.) said to him: “Swear allegiance.”

He said: “I will not swear allegiance until the people swear their allegiance. By God, I will bring you no harm.”

‘Ali (a.s.) said: “Let him go.”

Ibn ‘Umar was brought in and the Imām said: “Swear allegiance!”

Ibn ‘Umar replied: “I will not swear allegiance until the people swear their allegiance.

He said: “Bring a guarantor.”

He replied: “I do not see a guarantor around here.”

[Malik] al-Ashtar said: “Let me cut off his head.”

‘Ali (a.s.) said: “Let him go. I will be his guarantor myself.”

And then said to Abdullah: “As much as I know, you have been indeed an ill-mannered person when you were young and now that you are old.”¹

‘Ammār, Abū Haytham, Rafā‘a ibn Rāfi‘, Mālīk ibn ‘Ajlan, and Abū Ayyūb Khālīd ibn Zaid agreed to persuade the Commander of the Faithful to accept the caliphate, and ‘Ammār was more insistent than the others, addressing the people and saying: “O group of Anṣār! You saw how ‘Uthmān treated you yesterday, and now you are about to see it repeated if you do not assist yourselves. In truth, ‘Ali (a.s.) is the most deserving person for leadership on account of his excellence and precedence.”

The people said: “Therefore, we now consent to him.”

All of them then said to the rest of the Muhājirīn and Anṣār: “O people! We spare no efforts in doing good to you and

فَقَالَ النَّاسُ بِأَجْمَعِهِمْ: قَدْ رَضِينَا، وَهُوَ عِنْدَنَا مَا ذَكَرْتُمْ وَأَفْضَلُ. وَقَامُوا كُلُّهُمْ، فَأَتَوْا عَلِيًّا، فَاسْتَخَرَجُوهُ مِنْ دَارِهِ، وَسَلَّوْهُ بَسْطَ يَدِهِ، فَقَبَضُوهَا، فَتَدَاكَوْا عَلَيْهِ تَدَاكَ الْإِبِلِ الْهَيْمِ عَلَى وَرْدِهَا، حَتَّى كَادَ بَعْضُهُمْ يَقْتُلُ بَعْضًا، فَلَمَّا رَأَى مِنْهُمْ مَا رَأَى سَأَلَهُمْ أَنْ تَكُونَ بَيْعَتُهُ فِي الْمَسْجِدِ ظَاهِرَةً لِلنَّاسِ، وَقَالَ: إِنْ كَرِهَنِي رَجُلٌ وَاحِدٌ مِنَ النَّاسِ لَمْ أَدْخُلْ فِي هَذَا الْأَمْرِ.

ourselves, God Willing. Indeed, 'Ali is the one whom you know, and we do not know anyone more capable and competent than him to take charge of this affair."

Then all the people said: "We consent. He is to us as you have described and even better."

They all stood up, went to 'Ali (a.s.) and called him out of his house and asked him to hold out his hand for the pledge of allegiance. 'Ali (a.s.) held his hand back. Then the people crowded around him like thirsty camels flocking around a watering pond, to the extent that some were about to kill others. When he saw this, he asked the allegiance to be pledged in front of the people in the mosque, and said: "Even if a single person does not consent, I will not get involved in this affair."

People accompanied him into the mosque. The first person who swore allegiance was Ṭalḥa. Qabīṣa ibn Dhū'ayb al-Asadī said: "I fear that his affair may not be settled, since the first hand that pledged allegiance to him was limping."

After Ṭalḥa, Zubair swore allegiance and so did all the Muslims of Madīna except Muḥammad ibn Maslīm, 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar, Usama ibn Zaid, Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ, Ka'b ibn Mālīk, Ḥassan ibn Thābit and 'Abdullah ibn Salam.

'Ali (a.s.) commanded 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar to be brought to him. He told him to swear allegiance. He said: "I will not swear allegiance until all the people swear their allegiance." He (a.s.) then said: "Bring a guarantor [to secure] that you will not disobey. He said: "I will not bring a guarantor."

[Mālīk] Ashtar said: "O Commander of the Faithful! He sees himself secure of your whip and sword. Let me cut off his head."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "I do not want his allegiance by force. Let him go."

When 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar went away, the Commander of the Faithful said: "When he was a child he was ill-mannered and now in his old age he is more ill-mannered."

Then Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ was brought in and the Imām said: "Swear allegiance."

He said: "O Abu al-Ḥasan, Let me be free! When there shall be no one left but me, then I will swear allegiance. By God, I will bring no harm to you."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "He is telling the truth. Let him go."

Then he sent for Muḥammad ibn Maslīm. When they brought him in, the Imām said: "Swear allegiance!"

He replied: "Indeed, the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) commanded me that whenever people disagree and become like this –interlocking his fingers– I must go forth with my sword and strike it across mount Uhūd, then if it breaks into pieces, I must go back home and not leave until the hand of a wrong-doer comes to me or I will be taken by death."

'Ali (a.s.) said to him: "Then go and do as you have been ordered."

ثُمَّ بَعَثَ إِلَى أَسَامَةَ بْنِ زَيْدٍ، فَلَمَّا جَاءَ قَالَ لَهُ: بَايِعْ. فَقَالَ: إِنِّي مَوْلَاكَ، وَلَا خِلَافَ مِنِّي عَلَيْكَ، وَسَتَأْتِيكَ بِيَعْتِي إِذَا سَكَنَ النَّاسُ. فَأَمَرَهُ بِالْإِنْصِرَافِ، وَلَمْ يَبْعَثْ إِلَى أَحَدٍ غَيْرِهِ.
 وَقِيلَ لَهُ: أَلَا تَبْعَثُ إِلَى حَسَّانَ بْنِ ثَابِتٍ، وَكَعْبِ بْنِ مَالِكٍ، وَعَبْدِ اللَّهِ بْنِ سَلَامٍ؟ فَقَالَ: لَا حَاجَةَ لَنَا فِيْمَنْ لَا حَاجَةَ لَهُ فِينَا.
 فَأَمَّا أَصْحَابُنَا فَإِنَّهُمْ يَذْكُرُونَ فِي كُتُبِهِمْ أَنَّ هَؤُلَاءِ الرَّهْطِ إِنَّمَا اعْتَذَرُوا بِهَا اعْتَذَرُوا بِهِ لَمَّا نَذَبَهُمْ إِلَى الشُّخُوصِ مَعَهُ لِحَرْبِ أَصْحَابِ الْجَمَلِ، وَأَنْتُمْ لَمْ يَتَخَلَّفُوا عَنِ الْبَيْعَةِ، وَإِنَّمَا تَخَلَّفُوا عَنِ الْحَرْبِ.
 وَرَوَى شَيْخُنَا أَبُو الْحُسَيْنِ فِي كِتَابِ الْغُرَرِ أَنََّّهُمْ لَمَّا اعْتَذَرُوا إِلَيْهِ بِهَذِهِ الْأَعْدَارِ، قَالَ لَهُمْ: مَا كُلُّ مَفْتُونٍ يُعَاتِبُ، أَعِنْدَكُمْ شَكٌّ فِي بِيَعْتِي؟ قَالُوا: لَا. قَالَ: فَإِذَا بَايَعْتُمْ فَقَدْ قَاتَلْتُمْ، وَأَعَفَاكُمْ مِنْ حُضُورِ الْحَرْبِ.^١

Then he sent for Usāma ibn Zaid. When he arrived, the Imām said: "Swear allegiance."

He said: "I am your supporter, and there will be no opposition from me to you. Once the people calm down, I will swear allegiance to you."

He commanded him to go back and sent for no one else.

They asked the Imām: "Will you not send for Ḥassān ibn Thābit, Ka'b ibn Mālik, and 'Abdullah ibn Salām?"

He said: "We are in no need of those who do not need us."

[Ibn Abī al-Ḥadīd says:] Our followers (the Mu'tazilites) mention in their books that this group gave excuses when they were called to fight in the battle of the Camel (al-Jamal), and refused to participate in the war they did not refuse to swear allegiance.

Our master Abū al-Husain narrates in his book 'al-Ghurar' that when this group expressed their excuses, 'Ali (a.s.) told them: "Not everyone who is deceived will be reproached. Do you have doubt in your allegiance to me?"

They said: "No."

He said: "If you have sworn allegiance, then [it is as if] you are present in war." And he exempted them from being present in the war.¹

'Abdullah ibn 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb

'Abdullah was born two years after the Bi'tha [beginning of Prophethood] of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.).² He embraced Islam together with his father in Mecca in his childhood¹, and migrated to Madīna prior to his father² or along with him.³ He did not participate in the battles of Badr and Uhud⁴ due to his young age,⁵ but from the battle of Khandaq onward he accompanied the troops of Islam.⁶ Many reports mentioned in Sunni books of traditions have been narrated from him.⁷

إلى المدينة المنورة قبل أبيه^١ أو معه^٢.

When 'Umar was on his deathbed, he was consulted to allocate his son as one of the members of the electoral council, but 'Umar objected to the proposal, saying: "He does not deserve caliphate. He is not even able to divorce his own wife."⁸

It is mentioned in some narrations that 'Abdullah became a member of the council by the order of 'Umar on the condition that he would not have the right to be elected [as a caliph].⁹

During the reign of 'Uthmān, he kept away from political issues and did not partake in the ruling political trends. In the caliphate of Imām 'Alī (a.s.), he also isolated himself and did not participate in any of them rather he chose this isolation as the cornerstone of his social policy.

In the battles during the government of 'Alī (a.s.), 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar also secluded himself from politics and kept withdrawn, not participating in any of the Imām's battles during his caliphate.

ومن الواضح أن هذه السيرة كانت قائمة على أسس واهية لا على أساس متين، ولهذا لم يتخذها منهجاً إلا هذه البرهة من حياته؛ فلم يعتزل الساحة أيام الخلفاء الثلاث، كما لم يعتمد هذه السياسة زمن الحكام الذين تقلدوا زمام الأمور بعد أمير المؤمنين^١؛ حيث بايع معاوية^٢ ويزيد^٣ مع تحلف عدد كبير من الصحابة والوجوه البارزة من الأمة - ومنهم الحسين بن علي^٤ - عن بيعته. وكذا بايع عبد الملك^٥، بل حث محمد ابن الحنفية على البيعة له لما امتنع منها وشرط لها بيعة جميع الناس^٦. والعجب أنه ذهب ليلاً إلى الحجاج بن يوسف ليمد له يد البيعة لعبد الملك؛ لئلا يبقى ليلة بلا إمام، لأنه روى عن رسول الله^٧: «مَنْ مَاتَ وَلَا إِمَامَ لَهُ مَاتَ مِيتَةً جَاهِلِيَّةً»، فاحتقره الحجاج - ذلك الحاكم المتكبر الظالم - ومدّ له رجله من تحت الفراش ليصفق عليها يد البيعة؛ لعلمه بأن منشأ هذه البيعة هو الخوف والضعف والعجز^٨. مع أنه لم يصحب الإمام في شيء من حروبه أيام خلافته^٩. نعم لم يكن من المعادين له أيضاً، بل كان من جملة الذين وصفهم الإمام^{١٠} بأنهم «خَذَلُوا الْحَقَّ، وَلَمْ يَنْصُرُوا الْبَاطِلَ»^{١١}.

نعم أشارت بعض النصوص التاريخية إلى أنه تأسف نهاية عمره أسفاً عميقاً على تساهله وعدم نصرته للإمام^{١٢}، وكان يقول: «مَا آسَى عَلَى شَيْءٍ إِلَّا أَنِّي لَمْ أَقَاتِلْ مَعَ

It is evident that such a kind of an attitude throughout the life of 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar was based on weak foundations, and this is why he did not act so during the time of the previous caliphs nor did he do so in the time of rulers after 'Ali (a.s.). He swore allegiance to Mu'āwiyah¹ and Yazid² (whom a great number of eminent figures among the nation and the companions, including Husain ibn 'Ali (a.s.) refused to pledge allegiance to). He also swore allegiance to 'Abd al-Malik.³ Moreover, when Muḥammad ibn Ḥanīfa refused to swear allegiance to 'Abd al-Malik, saying that he would swear allegiance only on the condition that all people do the same,⁴ 'Abdullah Ibn 'Umar pledged allegiance to 'Abd al-Malik and encouraged Muḥammad to follow in doing so.

It is indeed strange that it was during the night that 'Abdullah went to Ḥajjāj Ibn Yūsuf to give his hand for allegiance to 'Abd al-Malik lest he might not remain without allegiance even for a single night, as he had heard that the Messenger of God (s.a.w.) has been quoted as saying: "He who dies while having no leader (imām) dies the death of the period of ignorance." He was humiliated by Ḥajjāj [the arrogant tyrannical ruler] who stretched out his foot from his bed for 'Abdullah to swear his allegiance to, because he knew that the reason for this allegiance was based on fear, weakness and incompetence.⁵

Even though he did not partake with the Imam in any of his battles during his caliphate,⁶ he was not one of the Imām's enemies either. He was described by Imām 'Ali (a.s.) as one of those who:

*"They abandoned the truth and did not support the falsehood."*⁷

Some historical documents indicate that towards the end of his life, 'Abdullah deeply regretted his negligence and failing to help 'Ali (a.s.), saying:

I do not regret anything except that I did not fight along with 'Ali (a.s.) against the 'rebel group'.⁸

عليّ الفئة الباغية»^١.

وكان يقول: كلّ من يدعوني إلى الصلاة أقتدي به؛ من أيّ فرقة كان، ولا أتبع من يدعوني إلى القتال^٥.

«لا أجبر أحداً على طاعتي» تخلف عن بيعته، ولم يتخلف عن البيعة ليزيد بن معاوية!

وقد عرّف انتفاضة أهل المدينة - حين اشتهر فسق يزيد وفجوره وعدم تورّعه

عن فعل أيّ محرم، وبعد قتله أبا عبد الله الحسين عليه السلام - بأنّها غدر للبيعة، ولذا منع أهله عن الاشتراك فيها^٧.

Of course, some sources have interpreted 'the rebel group' in his words as the Khārijīs,¹ or Ḥajjāj² or Ibn Zubair.³ If we consider the expression 'with 'Ali' in the statement, then there would be no room for other possibilities (Mu'āwiya is meant).

He used to say: "Whoever calls me to prayer, I will follow him whosoever he may be, but I do not follow the one who calls me to war."⁴

Similarly, he believed that the government and obedience to the ruler are based on the foundation of 'the law of dominance'. He used to say: "The right is for him who overcomes and has power over the people and dominates them."⁵

That was why when 'Ali (a.s.) stressed on the people's freedom and their choice in the pledge of allegiance, saying, "I do not compel anyone to obey me", 'Abdullah refused to obey him, but he did not refuse to pledge allegiance to Yazīd ibn Mu'āwiya.

When the corruption, debauchery and crimes of Yazīd who did not refrain from committing any forbidden act were disclosed – following the murder of Imām Ḥusain – (a.s), he called the uprising of the people of Madīna as a betrayal to the allegiance and therefore prevented his family from participating in it.⁶

47. تاريخ الطبري: بَعَثَ [عَلِيٌّ] عليه السلام إِلَى عَبْدِ اللَّهِ بْنِ عُمَرَ كَمِيلاً النَّحْيِيَّ، فَجَاءَ بِهِ، فَقَالَ: ائْهَضْ مَعِي. فَقَالَ: أَنَا مَعَ أَهْلِ الْمَدِينَةِ؛ إِنَّمَا أَنَا رَجُلٌ مِنْهُمْ، وَقَدْ دَخَلُوا فِي هَذَا الْأَمْرِ فَدَخَلْتُ مَعَهُمْ لَا أَفَارِقُهُمْ، فَإِنْ يَخْرُجُوا أَخْرَجْ، وَإِنْ يَقْعُدُوا أَقْعُد. قَالَ: فَأَعْطَنِي رَعِيماً بَأَن لَا تَخْرُجَ. قَالَ: وَلَا أُعْطِيكَ رَعِيماً. قَالَ: لَوْلَا مَا أَعْرِفُ مِنْ سُوءِ خُلُقِكَ صَغِيراً وَكَبِيراً لَأَنْكَرْتَنِي، دَعَوُهُ؛ فَأَنَا بِهِ رَعِيمٌ.²

48. تاريخ الطبري عن محمد وطلحة: خَرَجَ الزُّبَيْرُ وَطَلْحَةُ حَتَّى لَقِيَا ابْنَ عُمَرَ، وَدَعَوَاهُ إِلَى الْخُفُوفِ، فَقَالَ: إِنِّي أَمْرٌ مِنْ أَهْلِ الْمَدِينَةِ، فَإِنْ يَجْتَمِعُوا عَلَى النَّهْضِ أَنْهَضُ، وَإِنْ يَجْتَمِعُوا عَلَى الْقُعُودِ أَقْعُد. فَتَرَكَاهُ وَرَجَعَا.³

49. الطبقات الكبرى عن أبي حصين: إِنَّ مُعَاوِيَةَ قَالَ: وَمَنْ أَحَقُّ بِهَذَا الْأَمْرِ مِنَّا؟ فَقَالَ عَبْدُ اللَّهِ بْنُ عُمَرَ: فَأَرَدْتُ أَنْ أَقُولَ: أَحَقُّ مِنْكَ مَنْ صَرَبَكَ وَأَبَاكَ عَلَيْهِ!! ثُمَّ ذَكَرْتُ مَا فِي الْجَنَانِ، فَخَشِيتُ أَنْ يَكُونَ فِي ذَاكَ فُسَادٌ!⁴

Finally, even though 'Abdullah narrated many traditions and is regarded as one of the great narrators of the Sunni School, but he was weak in knowledge, short sighted and dogmatic, not able to give a strong analysis of the political and social currents existing during that time. This weak personality and desire for a worldly life helped him to take such a vile position. 'Abdullah died in 74 AH/ 703 CE at the age of eighty four.¹

47. Tārīkh al-Ṭabarī: "Ali (a.s.) sent Kumayl al-Nakha'i for 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar. He brought him. 'Ali (a.s.) said to him: "Rise with me." 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar said: "I am with the people of Madina. I am but only one man from among them. When they enter into this affair I will also enter with them and I will not separate from them, so if they leave [for war] I will leave and if they stay, I will stay."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "Then give me someone to guarantee that you will not rise [against me]." He said: "I will not give you anyone."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "If I did not know of your bad manners when you were young and at your old age, I would not have accepted. Let him go. I myself will vouch for him."²

48. Tārīkh al-Ṭabarī –narrating from Muḥammad and Ṭalḥa: "Zubair and Ṭalḥa went out and met 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar and discouraged him [in accompanying 'Ali (a.s.)]. 'Abdullah said: "I am one of the people of Madīna. If they agree to rise, I will rise and if they stay I will stay." So, they [Zubair and Ṭalḥa] left him and returned."³
49. al-Ṭabaqāt al-Kubrā –narrating from Abū Ḥaṣīn: "Mu'āwiya said: "Who is more deserving than we are for this affair [of ruling]?" 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar said: "I wanted to say: "The more deserving than you is the person who fought against you and your father over it", but I remembered what I had in mind, so I feared that this might create a problem."⁴

Sa’d ibn Abī Waqqās

He embraced Islam at the age of nineteen² and he was present in the battles of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.)³ The Sunnīs consider him as one of ‘the ten promised to enter paradise’.⁴ He was chosen as the commander of the Qādisiyya army during the caliphate of ‘Umar,⁵ and it was here that he became famous in the history of Islam. He then became the governor of Kūfa,⁶ and when the people of Kūfa complained about him, ‘Umar discharged him.⁷

Sa'd was a member of the six member council (to elect the Caliph)¹ who then left it in favor of 'Abd al-Rahman ibn 'Awf.² In the caliphate of 'Uthmān, he once again took office as the governor of Kūfa for a while.³ After some time, 'Uthmān dismissed him and designated Walid ibn 'Uqaba in his place.⁴

After the caliphate of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), Sa'd in the beginning did not swear allegiance to the Imām⁵ and he secluded himself from the battles led by 'Ali (a.s.) and did not support him.⁶

He admired Imām 'Ali (a.s.) and enumerated his excellence during the reign of Mu'āwiya and in his presence.⁷ It was too heavy for Mu'āwiya, so he insulted him and said to him: "If you admit to all this, why didn't you help him?"⁸ [Later on] He admitted to his own failure in observing the rights of Imām 'Ali (a.s.), swearing allegiance to him, and accompanying him.⁹

Sa'd died in 55 AH/ 674 CE.¹⁰ His son, 'Umar ibn Sa'd was the commander of the 'Umayyad army that fought against Husain (a.s.) in Karbalā.¹¹

59. al-Mustadrak 'alā al-Ṣaḥīḥayn –narrating from Khaythama ibn 'Abd al-Rahmān: "I heard someone say to Sa'd ibn Mālik: "Truly, 'Ali (a.s.) will reprimand you. Why did you shun allegiance to him?" Sa'd replied: "By God, that was what I concluded and [I admit that] I made a mistake. Truly, 'Ali (a.s.) possesses three features that if one of them belonged to me, it was more favorable to me than the whole world and what it contains."¹
60. Murūj al-Dhahab –narrating from Ibn 'A'isha and others: "After Sa'd praised 'Ali (a.s.), mentioned some of his virtues and wished that he had one of them, Mu'āwiya told him: 'Be seated in order to listen to the reply to what you have said. You have never been more reproachable to me than you are now. Why didn't you help him then? Why did you refuse to swear allegiance to him? For indeed if I had heard from the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) what you have heard about 'Ali (a.s.), I would have been a servant to him as long as I lived."

Sa'd said: "By God, I deserve this position [serving 'Ali (a.s.)] more than you." Then Mu'āwiya went on to say: "The people of the Banī 'Udhra tribe would not accept this from you (Sa'd is said to belong to the Banī 'Udhra tribe)."²

He was in charge of inspecting state administrators during the government of 'Umar and whenever a complaint was brought against one of the administrators, 'Umar would dispatch him to investigate.¹

After the assassination of 'Uthmān, [Muḥammad] refused to swear allegiance to 'Ali (a.s.) and called it a 'sedition'. Therefore he secluded himself and took up a wooden sword [remained indifferent].²

He was killed by a man from Jordan due to his disobedience to 'Ali (a.s.) and Mu'āwiya.³

Usāma ibn Zaid

Usāma⁴ was a mawla of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.),⁵ and his mother, Umm Ayman, was one of the Prophet's nursemaids.⁶

In the last days of his life, the Holy Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) appointed him as the commander of the army⁷ while he was only eighteen years of age and there were people like Abū Bakr, 'Umar and Abū 'Ubayda in his army.

He was highly respected and honored during the time of the caliphs. 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb allocated a salary of five thousand dinars for him, while his own son would receive only two thousand dinars.⁸

He refused to swear allegiance to 'Ali (a.s.) and gave excuses,⁹ and in some historical sources it is mentioned that Imām 'Ali (a.s.) accepted his excuses.¹⁰

It is mentioned that Imām al-Bāqir (a.s.) has said: "He had repented, so do not speak but well about him."¹¹

Ḥassān ibn Thābit

Ḥassān was a companion of the great Messenger (ṣ.a.w.) and his poet² about whom the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) said : "O Ḥassān! You will continue to be assisted by the Holy Spirit as long as you give assistance to us by your tongue." He was a poet from among the *Anṣār*s who used to satire the polytheists of Quraysh. He was also the one who versified the event of Ghadīr al-Khumm in a poem.³

Ḥassān was a very coward, so he did not attend any of the battles of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.).⁴ He was a follower of 'Uthmān and deviated away from Imām 'Alī (a.s.).⁵ He did not participate in the pledge of allegiance to 'Alī (a.s.) nor did he participate in any of the Imām's battles, and he did not write any poems in honor of Imām 'Alī (a.s.) after his caliphate.

Ḥassān lived for sixty years in the pre-Islamic era (al-jāhiliyya) and sixty years after the advent of Islam.⁶

Chapter Two

The Reforms of Imām 'Ali (a.s.)

The Voice of Justice and Its Reverberation

62. Sharḥ Nahj al-Balāghah –narrating from Abū Ja'far al-Iskāfi: "On the second day of his allegiance, which was Monday 19th of Dhil Hajj, he [Imām 'Ali (a.s.)] ascended the pulpit, praised and glorified God Almighty and mentioned Muḥammad (ṣ.a.w.) and sent blessings to him. He then enumerated the bounties of God Almighty over the Muslims and mentioned this world and called people to be ascetic [adopt a life of asceticism], and he mentioned the Hereafter and encouraged people towards it. He then said:

'Verily when the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) passed away, people elected Abū Bakr as their caliph; and then Abu Bakr appointed 'Umar as the caliph [after himself], he followed the way of Abū Bakr. Then he consigned the caliphate to the six person council which led to the election of 'Uthmān. He committed things that you disapproved of and you knew so. Then he was besieged and murdered. After that you came to me willingly and asked me to accept your leadership. I am one of you whose benefit and loss are the same as yours; and God has opened up the door between you and the people of the Qibla [the Muslims]. Evils have assailed like the pieces of a dark night; and the weight of the government cannot be borne except by a man of forbearance, insight and aware of the affairs of this matter. If you stay straight by my side, I will carry you on the path of your Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) and will implement among you what I am assigned to provided you remain steadfast, and God is the Helper.

Let it be known that my position in relation to the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) after his death is the same as my position during his lifetime. So be committed to what you are commanded to and stop what you are forbidden to do. Do not make haste in anything until I clarify it for you, for we have reasons to present for whatever you do not like.

ألا لا يقولنَّ رجالٌ منكم غداً قد عمرتهم الدنيا فاتخذوا العِقَارَ، وفجروا الأنهار، وركبوا الخيول الفارحة، واتخذوا الوصائف الروقة فصار ذلك عليهم عاراً وشناراً، إذا ما منعهم ما كانوا يتحوضون فيه وأصرتهم إلى حقوقهم التي يعلمون، فينقمون ذلك ويستكبرون ويقولون: حرمانا ابن أبي طالب حقوقنا.

ألا وأيها رجل من المهاجرين والأنصار من أصحاب رسول الله ﷺ يرى أن الفضل له على من سواه لصحبته، فإن الفضل النير غداً عند الله، وثوابه وأجره على الله، وأيها رجل استجاب لله ولرسوله فصدق ملتنا ودخل في ديننا واستقبل قبلتنا، فقد استوجب حقوق الإسلام وحدوده، فأنتم عباد الله، والمال ما الله يقسم بينكم بالسوية، لا فضل فيه لأحد على أحد، وللمتقين عند الله غداً أحسن الجزاء وأفضل الثواب، لم يجعل الله الدنيا للمتقين أجراً ولا ثواباً وما عند الله خير للأبرار.

وإذا كان غداً إن شاء الله فاغدوا علينا فإن عندنا ما لا نقسمه فيكم، ولا يتخلفن أحد منكم عربياً ولا عجمياً، كان من أهل العطاء أو لم يكن إلا حضر إذا كان مسلماً حراً. أقول قولي هذا وأستغفر الله لي ولكم. ثم نزل.

God from above His heavens and Throne knows that I was reluctant to rule over the nation of Muḥammad (ṣ.a.w.) until you all agreed unanimously upon it, because I heard the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) say: "Any ruler who rules the government after me will be stopped at the edge of the Path (ṣirāṭ) and the angels will open his book of deeds. If he is a just ruler, God will save him for his justice, and if he was a tyrant the Path will shake him so violently that his joints will break apart and he will fall down to Hellfire. The first thing that will hit the fire will be his nose and then the scorching of his face." But now that you have agreed upon my rule, I cannot leave you."

"Be aware, tomorrow, when your men are enticed by the world, acquire gardens, make rivers gush out, ride on light-footed horses, and take their own fair looking maids, if I prevent them from what they are involved in and make them observe their rights that they know well, no men of yours should disapprove, criticize, take it as shame and disgrace upon himself and say: "The son of Abū Ṭālib has deprived us of our rights".

Anyone of the Muhajirīn and the Anṣār among the companions of the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) who thinks that he has merit and virtue more than anyone else because of his companionship must know that the real virtue tomorrow is with God and his reward will be by God. Anyone who responds to the call of God and His Messenger, confirms our doctrine, enters our religion and faces towards our qibla will enjoy the rights of Islam and its laws.

You are the servants of Allah, and wealth belongs to God, and it will be equally divided among you. Nobody has superiority in it over others, and God will reward the virtuous tomorrow with the best of rewards and greatest of blessings. God has not put the world as rewards for the pious, and what is with God is best for the good doers.

By the will of God, when tomorrow comes, you must come to us so that we can divide among you the wealth that is with us, and no Muslim should fail in showing up, Arab or non-Arab, rich or poor. This was what I had to say. I ask God's forgiveness for myself and you."

He then descended the pulpit.

قَالَ شَيْخُنَا أَبُو جَعْفَرٍ: وَكَانَ هَذَا أَوَّلَ مَا أَنْكَرُوهُ مِنْ كَلَامِهِ عليه السلام، وَأَوْرَثَهُمُ الضُّغْنَ عَلَيْهِ، وَكَرِهُوا إِعْطَاءَهُ وَقَسَمَهُ بِالسُّوِّيَّةِ. فَلَمَّا كَانَ مِنَ الْغَدِ غَدًا وَغَدًا النَّاسُ لِقَبْضِ الْمَالِ، فَقَالَ لِعُبَيْدِ اللَّهِ بْنِ أَبِي رَافِعٍ كَاتِبِهِ: ائِدْ بِالْمُهَاجِرِينَ فَنَادِهِمْ وَأَعْطِ كُلَّ رَجُلٍ مِنْهُمْ خَصْرَ ثَلَاثَةِ دَنَانِيرَ، ثُمَّ ثَنِّ بِالْأَنْصَارِ فَافْعَلْ مَعَهُمْ مِثْلَ ذَلِكَ، وَمَنْ يَحْضُرُ مِنَ النَّاسِ كُلِّهِمُ الْأَحْمَرُ وَالْأَسْوَدُ فَاصْنَعْ بِهِ مِثْلَ ذَلِكَ.

قَالَ: فَبَيْنَا النَّاسُ فِي الْمَسْجِدِ بَعْدَ الصُّبْحِ إِذْ طَلَعَ الزُّبَيْرُ وَطَلْحَةُ فَجَلَسَا نَاجِيَةً عَنْ عَلِيٍّ عليه السلام، ثُمَّ طَلَعَ مُرْوَانُ وَسَعِيدُ وَعَبْدُ اللَّهِ بْنُ الزُّبَيْرِ فَجَلَسُوا إِلَيْهِمَا، ثُمَّ جَاءَ قَوْمٌ مِنْ قُرَيْشٍ فَأَنْصَمُوا إِلَيْهِمْ، فَتَحَدَّثُوا نَحِيًّا سَاعَةً، ثُمَّ قَامَ الْوَلِيدُ بْنُ عُقْبَةَ بْنِ أَبِي مُعَيْطٍ

[Ibn Abī al-Ḥadīd says:] "Our master Abū Ja'far says: "This was the first speech of his (a.s.) that some did not like and they started to hate him and disapproved of distributing the wealth in equal shares.

The next day, 'Ali (a.s.) came and the people gathered to receive their portion. He then said to his secretary 'Ubaydullah ibn Abī Rāfi': "Begin with the Muhājirīn. Call them and give three dīnārs to each person, then call the Anṣār and give them the same amount. After that, call all the present people, Arabs and non-Arabs and give them their portion."

Sahl ibn Ḥunayf said: "O Commander of the Faithful! This man was my servant yesterday and I freed him just today." 'Ali said: "We will give him the same portion as yours." And he gave everyone three dīnārs and did not give anyone superiority over another. Ṭalḥa, Zubair, 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar, Sa'd ibn al-'Āṣ, Marwān ibn Ḥakam and some men from Quraysh and other tribes refused [to accept] such division.

Abū Ja'far said: "'Ubaydullah ibn Abī Rāfi' heard 'Abdullah ibn Zubair say to his father, Ṭalḥa, Marwān and Sa'id: "We know what 'Ali meant by his words yesterday." Sa'id ibn al-'Āṣ turned toward Zaid ibn Thābit and quoting the proverb: "It is you I am speaking to, but listen O neighbor!"¹ Then 'Ubaydullah ibn Abī Rāfi' said to Sa'id and 'Abdullah ibn Zubair: "God said in His Book: *"But most of you were averse to the truth."*²

Then 'Ubaydullah ibn Abī Rāfi' reported the event to 'Ali (a.s.). He said: "By God, if I remain safe and sound I will take them to the bright path. May God kill ibn al-'Āṣ! He found out from the words I said yesterday that I meant him and his companions—the ones who are among the perished."

He [Abū Ja'far] said: "While people gathered in the mosque after dawn, Ṭalḥa and Zubair entered and sat in a corner away from 'Ali (a.s.). Then Marwān, Sa'id and Ibn Zubair arrived and sat next to the two. Later on, a group of Quraysh joined them, and they whispered together for a while.

2. Qur'ān, 43:78.

فَجَاءَ إِلَى عَلِيٍّ فَقَالَ: يَا أَبَا الْحَسَنِ، إِنَّكَ قَدْ وَثَرْتَنَا جَمِيعاً، أَمَا أَنَا فَقَتَلْتَ أَبِي يَوْمَ بَدْرٍ صَبْرًا، وَخَذَلْتَ أَخِي يَوْمَ الدَّارِ بِالْأَمْسِ، وَأَمَا سَعِيدٌ فَقَتَلْتَ أَبَاهُ يَوْمَ بَدْرٍ فِي الْحَرْبِ وَكَانَ ثَوْرَ قُرَيْشٍ، وَأَمَا عَمْرُو بْنُ فَرْخَانَ فَسَخَفْتَ أَبَاهُ عِنْدَ عُثْمَانَ إِذْ ضَمَّهُ إِلَيْهِ، وَنَحْنُ إِخْوَتُكَ وَنُظَرَاؤُكَ مِنْ بَنِي عَبْدِ مَنَافٍ، وَنَحْنُ تُبَايَعُكَ الْيَوْمَ عَلَى أَنْ تَضَعَ عَنَّا مَا أَصَبَانَاهُ مِنَ الْمَالِ فِي أَيَّامِ عُثْمَانَ، وَأَنْ تَقْتُلَ قَتْلَتَهُ، وَإِنَّا إِنْ خِفْنَاكَ تَرَكْنَاكَ فَالْتَحَقْنَا بِالشَّامِ.

فَقَامَ الْوَلِيدُ إِلَى أَصْحَابِهِ فَحَدَّثَهُمْ، وَافْتَرَقُوا عَلَى إظهارِ الْعَدَاوَةِ وَإِسَاعَةِ الْخِلَافِ. فَلَمَّا ظَهَرَ ذَلِكَ مِنْ أَمْرِهِمْ، قَالَ عَمَّارُ بْنُ يَاسِرٍ لِأَصْحَابِهِ: قَوْمُوا بِنَا إِلَى هَؤُلَاءِ النَّفَرِ مِنْ إِخْوَانِكُمْ فَإِنَّهُ قَدْ بَلَغَنَا عَنْهُمْ وَرَأَيْنَا مِنْهُمْ مَا نَكْرَهُ مِنَ الْخِلَافِ وَالطَّعْنِ عَلَى إِمَامِهِمْ، وَقَدْ دَخَلَ أَهْلُ الْجَفَاءِ بَيْنَهُمْ وَبَيْنَ الزُّبَيْرِ وَالْأَعْسَرِ الْعَاقِ - يَعْنِي طَلْحَةَ -.

فَقَامَ أَبُو الْهَيْثَمِ وَعَمَّارٌ وَأَبُو أَيُّوبَ وَسَهْلُ بْنُ حُنَيْفٍ وَجَمَاعَةٌ مَعَهُمْ، فَدَخَلُوا عَلَى عَلِيٍّ فَقَالُوا: يَا أَمِيرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ انْظُرْ فِي أَمْرِكَ وَعَاتِبْ قَوْمَكَ هَذَا الْحَيَّ مِنْ قُرَيْشٍ، فَإِنَّهُمْ قَدْ نَقَضُوا عَهْدَكَ وَأَخْلَفُوا وَعْدَكَ، وَقَدْ دَعَوْنَا فِي السِّرِّ إِلَى رَفْضِكَ، هَذَاكَ اللَّهُ لِرُشْدِكَ، وَذَلِكَ لِأَنَّهُمْ كَرِهُوا الْأُسُوءَةَ وَفَقَدُوا الْأَثَرَةَ، وَلَمَّا أَسَيَّتْ بَيْنَهُمْ وَبَيْنَ الْأَعَاجِمِ أَنْكَرُوا وَاسْتَشَارُوا عَدُوَّكَ وَعَظَمُوهُ، وَأَظْهَرُوا الطَّلَبَ بِدَمِ عُثْمَانَ فُرْقَةً لِلْجَمَاعَةِ وَتَأْلُفًا لِأَهْلِ الضَّلَالَةِ، فَرَأَيْتُكَ!

١. وَثَرَتِ الرَّجُلُ: إِذَا قَتَلْتَ لَهُ قَتِيلًا وَأَخَذْتَ لَهُ مَالًا (لسان العرب: ج 5 ص 274).

After that, Walīd ibn 'Aqaba stood up, went close to 'Ali (a.s.) and said: "O Abū al-Ḥasan! You cut us from our near of kin (ruined us all). As for me, you killed my father in the battle of Badr so painfully and humiliated my brother in the event of Yawm al-Dār. As for Sa'id, you killed his father in the battle of Badr while he was a warrior of the tribe of Quraysh. As for Marwān, you humiliated his father in front of 'Uthmān when 'Uthmān called and joined him to himself, even though we are your brothers and peers from among the children of 'Abd Manāf. Today, we swear allegiance to you on the condition that you let us keep the possessions left to us from the time of 'Uthmān and that you kill the murderers of 'Uthmān. In truth, if we fear you, we will abandon you and join the people of Shām."

Then 'Ali (a.s.) said: "As for your saying that I have killed your near of kin (ruined you all), the Truth [God] did so to you (you deserved it); as for letting you keep your possessions, it is not permissible for me to dispense to you and others with the rights of God; as for killing the murderers of 'Uthmān, if it were incumbent on me to do it, I would kill them yesterday. However, it is your right upon me that if you fear me I will provide you with security, and if I fear you I should send you away."

Walīd stood up and talked to his companions. Then they scattered around with the intention to express their hostility and to spread opposition. Once their hostility became evident, 'Ammār ibn Yāsir said to his companions: "Make a move to go to these few brothers of yours, as we heard their opposition and accusations toward their leader. Verily, the tyrants have penetrated among them and Zubair and the left-handed rebel, i.e., Ṭalḥa."

Abū Haytham, 'Ammār, Abū Ayyūb, Ṣahl ibn Hunaif and another group with them stood up and went to 'Ali (a.s.) and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! See into your affair and reprimand this group from Quraysh, since they have broken up their allegiance and promise to you and they have secretly called us to abandon you—may God make you successful on your path. The reason is that they do not like leadership and have no longer the spirit of following. When you treated the Arabs and the non-Arabs equally, they turned their back on you, maintained a liaison with your enemy and revered him, bringing up the vengeance for the murder of 'Uthmān in order to create disunity among Muslims and coalition among the misguided. Now, whatever you say!"

فَخَرَجَ عَلَيَّ ۞ فَدَخَلَ الْمَسْجِدَ وَصَعِدَ الْمِنْبَرَ مُرْتَدِيًا بِطَاقٍ مُؤْتَرَرًا بِبُرْدٍ قَطْرِيٍّ،

٢. إشارة إلى الآية 32 من سورة آل عمران.

'Ali (a.s.) came out [of his house] and ascended the pulpit, wearing a colorless shirt, clad in a Qatari coverlet with a sword fastened on his waist and leaning on a bow. He said: "We praise God, our Lord, our God, our Protector, and our Benefactor; the One who granted us His apparent and unseen blessings as His favor to us without our power and ability, in order to test us [to see] whether we are grateful or ungrateful. He who is grateful will receive more [blessings], and the one who is ungrateful will be punished. [Thus] The best of people in the sight of Allah in status and the closest of them to Him through their deeds are the most submissive to His commands, the most committed to obeying Him, the most obedient to the sunna of His Messenger, and the most active in reviving the Qur'ān. Nobody is superior in our view except by obedience to God and His Messenger. Here is the Book of God among us, and the covenant and the sira [conduct and teachings] of the Messenger of God before us. No one is unaware of this fact but the ignorant defiant and denier of Truth. God Almighty says: "O mankind! Indeed we created you from a male and a female, and made you nations and tribes that you may identify with one another. Indeed the noblest of you in the sight of Allah is the most Godwary among you."¹

He then called out in a loud voice: "Obey Allah and the Apostle, but if they turn away, indeed Allah does not like the faithless."²

He then said: "O group of Muhājirin and Anṣār! Do you count it as a favor to Allah that you have embraced Islam. Say, 'Do not count it as a favor to me your embracing of Islam. Rather it is Allah who has done you a favor in that He has guided you to faith, should you be truthful.'"³

After that he said "I am Abū al-Hasan!" (He would utter this statement when in a fury.) Then he said: "Let it be known that this world that you desire and seek after and is the cause of your anger and happiness is not your home or your station for which you were created. So let it not deceive you! I have warned you against it. Seek the completion of God's favor on you by exercising endurance in His obedience and humility before His commands, glorified be His praise."

"In these assets, there is no superiority for any person over the other. These are the assets of God who has commanded to be divided and you are Muslims the servants of God, and this is the قَالَا: أَعْطَيْنَاكَ بَيْعَتَنَا عَلَى أَلَّا تَقْضِيَ الْأُمُورَ وَلَا تَقْطَعَها دُونَنَا، وَأَنْ تَسْتَشِيرَنَا فِي كُلِّ أَمْرٍ، وَلَا تَسْتَبِدَّ بِذَلِكَ عَلَيْنَا، وَلَنَا مِنَ الْفَضْلِ عَلَى غَيْرِنَا مَا قَدْ عَلِمْتَ، فَأَنْتَ تَقْسِمُ الْقِسْمَ وَتَقْطَعُ الْأَمْرَ، وَتَمْضِي الْحُكْمَ بِغَيْرِ مُشَاوَرَتِنَا وَلَا عَلْمِنَا.

Book of God to which we have admitted and surrendered. It is the covenant of our Prophet among us. Whoever is not content with it then let him go to wherever he wishes, for there is no fear for him who practices obedience to God and who judges according to God's commands."

He then descended from the pulpit and performed two rak'as of prayers. He then sent 'Ammār ibn Yāsir and 'Abd al-Raḥmān ibn Hishl al-Qurashī for Ṭalḥa and Zubair who were sitting in a corner of the mosque. They went to Ṭalḥa and Zubair and called them to 'Ali (a.s.). They rose, went to 'Ali (a.s.) and sat next to him.

'Ali (a.s.) told them: "I swear you by God, did you not come to me obediently for allegiance and asked me for it, whereas I was reluctant towards it?"

They said: "Yes."

He said: "Wasn't it that you swore your allegiance to me and entrusted your covenant to me without force and compulsion?"

They said: "Yes."

He said: "So what has made you to do such things?"

They said: "We swore allegiance to you on the condition that you do not do anything without our view, consult with us in all affairs and do not rule over us arbitrarily. Our superiority over others is evident to you. Then why do you divide properties, make decisions and do all these without consulting and informing us?"

'Ali (a.s.) said: "You protested against minor things but left out many other things. Seek God's forgiveness and He will forgive you. Tell me whether I prevented you from a right that was yours and wronged you thereby?"

They said: "God forbid!"

He said: "Did I choose anything for myself from these assets?"

They said: "God forbid!"

He said: "Has anything happened concerning the rights of any of the Muslims or a precept [of the Faith] that I am unaware of or failed in?"

They said: "God forbid!"

He said: "So what work of mine do you dislike that made you decide to oppose me?"

قالا: خِلافُكَ عُمَرُ بْنُ الْخَطَّابِ فِي الْقَسَمِ، إِنَّكَ جَعَلْتَ حَقَّنَا فِي الْقَسَمِ كَحَقِّ غَيْرِنَا، وَسَوَّيْتَ بَيْنَنَا وَبَيْنَ مَنْ لَا يُمِائِلُنَا فِيمَا أَفَاءَ اللَّهُ تَعَالَى عَلَيْنَا بِأَسْيَافِنَا وَرِمَاحِنَا، وَأَوْجَفْنَا عَلَيْهِ بِخَيْلِنَا وَرَجُلِنَا، وَظَهَرَتْ عَلَيْهِ دَعْوَتُنَا، وَأَخَذْنَاهُ قَسْرًا قَهْرًا مِمَّنْ لَا يَرَى الْإِسْلَامَ إِلَّا كَرَهًا.

وَأَمَّا قَوْلُكُمَا: جَعَلْتَ فَيْنَا وَمَا أَفَاءَتْهُ سُيُوفُنَا وَرِمَاحُنَا سِوَاءَ بَيْنِنَا وَبَيْنَ غَيْرِنَا، فَقَدِيمًا سَبَقَ إِلَى الْإِسْلَامِ قَوْمٌ وَنَصَرُوهُ بِسُيُوفِهِمْ وَرِمَاحِهِمْ فَلَمْ يُفْضَلْهُمْ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ ﷺ فِي الْقَسَمِ وَلَا أَثَرُهُمْ بِالسَّبْقِ، وَاللَّهُ سُبْحَانَهُ مُوفٍ السَّابِقِ وَالْمُجَاهِدِ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ أَعْمَاهُمْ، وَلَيْسَ لَكُمَا وَاللَّهُ عِنْدِي وَلَا لِغَيْرِكُمَا إِلَّا هَذَا، أَخَذَ اللَّهُ بِقُلُوبِنَا وَقُلُوبِكُمْ إِلَى الْحَقِّ وَالْهَمْنَا وَإِيَّاكُمُ الصَّبْرَ. ثُمَّ قَالَ: رَجِمَ اللَّهُ أَمْرًا رَأَى حَقًّا فَأَعَانَ عَلَيْهِ، وَرَأَى جَوْرًا فَرَدَّهُ، وَكَانَ عَوْنًا لِلْحَقِّ عَلَى مَنْ خَالَفَهُ.

قَالَ شَيْخُنَا أَبُو جَعْفَرٍ: وَقَدْ رُوِيَ أَنَّهَا قَالَا لَهُ وَقْتُ الْبَيْعَةِ: تُبَايِعُكَ عَلَى أَنَّا شُرَكَاءُكَ فِي هَذَا الْأَمْرِ. فَقَالَ هُمَا: لَا، وَلَكِنَّكُمَا شَرِيكَايَ فِي الْفَيْءِ، لَا أَسْتَأْثِرُ عَلَيْكُمَا

They said: "You divide the property in a different way from that of 'Umar ibn Khattāb; you allotted the same portion to us as others, treating us and those who are not like us as equal in the spoils that God granted to us under the protection of our swords and our lances, and we laid our hand on them, on foot and on horseback and took them back by force and compulsion from those who did not surrender to Islam except by force."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "As regards what you said about consulting with you, I swear by God that I was not inclined to rule. You called me to it and appointed me therein. I feared that if I would refuse your proposal, disunity would arise among the nation. So when the government came to me, I looked through the Book of God and the traditions of his Messenger and did what they guided me to do. I followed that [guidance] and I did not need your opinions or any other's. If something happens that is not stated in the Book of God and whose proof is not present in the traditions and requires consultation, I will of course consult you."

"As for dividing [property] and not acting according to the way of the caliphs, verily, it is not something I have initially passed a ruling about; but you and I saw that the Messenger of God did so and the Book of God to which falsehood has no access from neither front (now) nor back (in future) and is sent by God the Most Wise and the Most Praised also orders such."

"As for my dividing the spoils gained by swords and lances among you and others equally, in the past there were also a group who were precedent over others in Islam who contributed to it by their swords and lances, but the Messenger of God did not give them priority in dividing the spoils and did not grant them any advantages for their precedence in faith. Of course, God Almighty will reward the pioneers and the fighters on the Day of Resurrection. By God, you and others do not have anything beyond this with me. May God guide our hearts and yours toward the Truth and inspire patience and forbearance in all of us!"

Then he said, "May God have mercy on the person who sees the truth and supports it, and when he sees the wrong, rejects it and he who helps the truth against who is on the wrong."

[Ibn Abī al-Hadīd says,] Our master Abū Ja'far said: "It is reported that Ṭalḥa and Zubair have said at the time of allegiance: "We swear allegiance to you on the condition that we participate in the government with you." But 'Ali (a.s.) replied to them: "No, but you will share the spoils with me. I shall not prefer anyone of you over the others or over a slave for a dirham or anything less than that. Neither I nor these two children of mine will do that. If you insist on participation, you will be my companions at the time of [my] weakness and need, not at the time of strength and resistance."

Abū Ja'far says: "They put conditions that were not legitimate in the 'agreement of trusteeship' ('aqd al-Amāna)¹, and he set conditions that were necessary in religion and law.

It is reported that Zubair shouted from among the crowd: "This is our reward from 'Ali! In the event of 'Uthmān, we rose up in his favor until he was killed and when he attained his goal with our help, he placed our inferiors above us."

Talḥa said: "We deserve reproach. We were in a council of three people; one of us, being Sa'd, disagreed, but we two swore allegiance to him. What we had we left at his disposal and he withheld from us what he had in his possession. Today, we see yesterday's hopes gone with the wind and hold out no hope of tomorrow because of today's faults."

[Ibn Abī al-Hadīd goes on to say] "If you say: "Abū Bakr also made divisions equally but nobody objected to him as they did in the time of the Commander of the Faithful, then what is the difference between these two eras?" I would answer: "Abū Bakr divided the assets equally following the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.). When 'Umar became a caliph and preferred one group to another, this turned into a habit and previous manners were forgotten, and 'Umar's government lasted too long. Avarice and extravagance overwhelmed people's hearts and the oppressed began to practice contentedness and they got used to it. There was no assumption for any of the two classes that this situation would change. When 'Uthmān took over the caliphate, he followed the footsteps of 'Umar in running the state. Thus people's trust in this way of ruling increased and it is hard to change what people are accustomed to.

So, when the Commander of the Faithful took up the government, he was determined to bring the way of government back to the way it was during the time of the Messenger of God and Abū Bakr, a way which had remained forgotten and unpracticed

63. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –in his first sermon after the people's allegiance to him following the assassination of 'Uthmān: "Now, be aware, nobody should care about anyone else except himself; one before whose eyes is the fire of Hell is distracted from Paradise [by thinking of the Hell]. There are three groups [of people]: the hard-working struggler, the hopeful seeker, and the neglectful whose place is in the Fire. There are two other groups: the angel who flies by two wings and a prophet whom God supports. There is no sixth."

"Perished is he who claims, and he who plunges into (doubts) will tumble; both the right and the left are misleading and the middle way is the [right] Path; the Path on which are the Qur'an, the sunna and the traces of Prophethood."

"God has cured [the pains of] this nation by two medicines: the whip and the sword. The imām is to have no leniency [towards wrong-doings],² so hide in your houses and improve yourselves. Repentance is behind you. The one who rises to battle against the truth will be destroyed."

"There were things that took place wherein you are not excused for in my view and if I wanted to state them, I would. May God forgive what has occurred! Those two men left and the third one rose like a raven whose only concern is its belly. Woe on him! It would be better for him if his wings were clipped and his head cut off.

"Look (and listen carefully)! If you have not believed then deny, but if you recognize, then take action. There is right and wrong and there are followers for each. If wrong dominates, it has always happened so in the past, and if truth goes down, that may one day gain power even though insignificant. It seldom happens that a thing that lags behind comes forward. If you return to

If you follow our signs, you will be guided by our insight; otherwise Allah will destroy you with our hands. The banner of Truth is with us. Those who follow it will reach [us] and those who turn their back on it will perish."

"Let it be known that through us the failings of the faithful will be made up for and through us the loop of humiliation will be removed from your necks. It [Guidance] begins by us, rather than by you and it ends by us, rather than by you."¹

64. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from what he said when he was sworn allegiance to in Madina: "I take the responsibility for what I say and I am answerable for it. He who takes lessons from (God's) punishments that afflicted the people in the past is prevented by piety from falling into doubts."

"Be aware that the same test and trouble which existed when the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) was first sent has returned. By Him who sent the Prophet with truth you will be severely tested, bitterly sieved as a thing that is sieved, and fully mixed as by spooning in a cooking pot until your low persons become high and high ones become low and those who were ahead shall remain behind."

"By God, I have neither concealed a single word nor spoken any lie, and I had been informed of this event and of this time. Beware that sins are like unruly horses on which their riders have been placed and their reins have been let loose so that they would jump with them into Hell. Indeed, piety is like trained horses on which the riders have been placed with the reins in their hands to take them to the Heaven."

"There is right and there is wrong and there are followers for each. If wrong dominates, it has always been so in the past and if truth goes down, that too has often occurred. It seldom happens that a thing that is gone should return."¹

65. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from what he said after being sworn allegiance to for the caliphate. Some people from among the companions of the Prophet (s.a.w.) said to him: "You should punish the people who assaulted 'Uthmān." He (a.s.) answered: "O My brothers! I am not ignorant of what you know, but how do I have the power for it while those who assaulted him are in the height of their power? They have power over us and we do not have power over them."

They are those with whom your slaves have risen and the Bedouins have joined. They are now among you and harming you as they like. Do you see that you have any power to gain what you want? This is certainly an act of the pre-Islamic period (al-jāhiliyya) and these people have still roots in that period. When the matter is taken up, people will have different views about it. One group will see as you do, but another will see what you do not see and there will be still another group who will be neither this way nor that way. Be patient till the people calm down and hearts settle in their places so that rights can be easily achieved for the people. Let me be calm, and see what comes to you from me [wait for my order]. Do not do anything that can shatter your power, weaken your strength and create feebleness and disgrace. I shall control this affair as far as possible [not resorting to a war], but if I find it necessary, the last treatment will of course be branding with a hot iron [through war]."²

It is quoted in al-Kāfi narrating from 'Ali ibn Ri'āb and Ya'qūb al-Sarrāj who have quoted this sermon from Imām al-Šādiq on the authority of 'Ali (a.s.), however, this book contains the additional statement as follows: "Doors of paradise were opened up to them and they scented its fragrance. It was said to them, 'Enter you here in peace and security! Let it be known that he has preceded me in this affair whom I have not shared therein, to whom I have not given it (caliphate), and for whom there is no way to gain save through a prophet to be sent forth. However, there will be no Prophet after Muḥammad (s.a.w.) (He got the position by usurpation) – [for that reason] he was placed on the brink of a collapsing bank, which collapses with him into the fire of hell. Sayyid al-Sharīf al-Raḍī says: "In this small speech there is more beauty than can be appreciated, and excellence aroused by it is more than the appreciation accorded to it. Despite what we have stated it has so many aspects of eloquence that cannot be expressed nor can anyone reach its depth and no one can understand what I am saying unless one has attained this art and known its details." Dismissing 'Uthmān's Administrators

66. Tārīkh al-Ya'qūbī: "Ali (a.s.) dismissed 'Uthmān's administrators from the cities, except Abū Mūsā al-Ash'arī whom Mālik al-Ashtar recommended, so he was kept in office."¹
67. al-Ikhtisās: "People gathered around 'Ali (a.s.) and said to him: "Appoint your opponents as governors and then dismiss them." 'Ali (a.s.) said: "Cheating, deception and treachery are in Fire."²
68. Al-Amālī –narrating from Saḥīm: "When allegiance was sworn to the Commander of the Faithful 'Ali ibn Abī Ṭalīb (a.s.), he was informed that Mu'āwiya had refused to pledge allegiance and had said: "If he reinstalls me as governor of Shām and gives me back the responsibilities that 'Uthmān had assigned to me, I will swear allegiance to him."

After this, al-Mughayra came to the Commander of the Faithful and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! You know Mu'āwiya very well and that the ruler before you appointed him as the governor of Shām. Appoint him with the same post so that the situation will not lose order, then if you happen to change your mind, dismiss him."

The Commander of the Faithful said: "O Mughayra! Do you guarantee my life in between his appointment and his dismissal?"

He said, "No."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "Would not God Almighty ever ask me how I installed him over two Muslims in the darkness of the night?" "...Nor do I take those who mislead as assistants."³ However, I will send for him and call him to what is with me from the Truth. If he complies, he is considered as a Muslim who has rights and duties like those of others, and if he refuses, I will complain of him to God."

Mughayra returned while saying: "Then complain of him", and recited:

69. Tārīkh al-Ṭabarī—narrating from Ibn 'Abbās: "'Uthmān summoned me and appointed me in charge of Ḥajj pilgrimage. I left for Mecca and prepared the people's affairs for the Ḥajj pilgrimage and read 'Uthmān's letter to them. I then returned to Madīna and 'Ali (a.s.) was sworn allegiance to, so I went to his house and I found al-Mughayra ibn Shu'ba who was meeting him privately. I was kept at the door until al-Mughayra came out and I asked him: 'What did this person [al-Mughayra] say to you?'

The Imām said: "He has said to me more than once before: 'Send letters to 'Abdullah ibn 'Āmir, Mu'awiya and to the agents of 'Uthmān and reinstall them to their previous posts so that they would be able to let people swear allegiance to you. They can convince the people and calm down the towns.'" I rejected his proposal from that day and said: "By God, if there is only one hour left of my life, I will make attempt to maintain my notions and I will never give authority to these people or let anyone like them to enter the government."²

He ['Ali] (a.s.) then said: "So, he [al-Mughayra] then left me and I knew that he believed that I was wrong, until he came to me again this time and said: 'I gave advice to you the previous time and you rejected it, now I have come with another proposition that you do as you wish and dismiss them and seek the help of your trusted figures. Sufficient is God and these people have become weaker than ever before.'"

قَالَ لَهُ عَلِيٌّ: وَلِمَ نَصَحَنِي؟

قَالَ ابْنُ عَبَّاسٍ: لِأَنَّكَ تَعْلَمُ أَنَّ مُعَاوِيَةَ وَأَصْحَابَهُ أَهْلُ دُنْيَا فَمَتَى تُثَبِّتُهُمْ لَا يُبَالُوا بِمَنْ وَلِيَ هَذَا الْأَمْرَ، وَمَتَى تَعْرِضُهُمْ يَقُولُوا: أَخَذَ هَذَا الْأَمْرَ بِغَيْرِ شُورَى وَهُوَ قَتْلُ صَاحِبِنَا، وَيُؤَلَّبُونَ عَلَيْكَ فَيَسْتَقْصُصُ عَلَيْكَ أَهْلُ الشَّامِ وَأَهْلُ الْعِرَاقِ، مَعَ أَنِّي لَا أَمْنُ طَلْحَةَ وَالزُّبَيْرَ أَنْ يَكْزُرَا عَلَيْكَ.

فَقَالَ ابْنُ عَبَّاسٍ: مَا هَذَا بِرَأْيٍ، مُعَاوِيَةُ رَجُلٌ مِنْ بَنِي أُمَيَّةَ وَهُوَ ابْنُ عَمِّ عُثْمَانَ وَعَامِلُهُ عَلَى الشَّامِ، وَلَسْتُ أَمْنُ أَنْ يُضْرَبَ عُنُقِي لِعُثْمَانَ أَوْ أَدْنَى مَا هُوَ صَانِعٌ أَنْ يَجْبِسَنِي فَيَتَحَكَّمُ عَلَيَّ.

'Ali (a.s.) said to Ibn 'Abbās: "How did he give me advice?"

Ibn 'Abbās said: "You know that Mu'āwiya and his companions are worldly oriented. If you reinstall them, they do not care who is running the government, and if you dismiss them, they will say: "He has taken the government without consultation and has killed our chief." They will stir up people against you and then the people of Shām and the people of Iraq will rise up against you, furthermore I am not sure that Ṭalḥa and Zubair would (not return to you) and attack you."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "As for your recommendation to reinstall them, by God, I have no doubt that this will be helpful for improvement of the transient worldly life. But based on my commitment to the truth and according to my knowledge of the administrators of 'Uthmān, I swear by God that I would never appoint any one of them to the government. If they submit to this [situation], it would be better for them and if they turned their back, I will draw sword against them."

Ibn 'Abbās said: "Accept my words, enter your house, go to your properties in Yanbū'¹ and close the door behind you, because the Arabs will make a move and then disperse and then you will find no one but yourself. By God, if you rise up with them today, they will impose on you the vengeance for the murder of 'Uthmān."

'Ali (a.s.) refused and said to Ibn 'Abbās: "Leave for Shām! I appointed you as the governor of that region."

Ibn 'Abbās said: "This is wrong. Mu'āwiya is a man from the Umayyad tribe and is 'Uthmān's cousin and his administrator in the Shām region. I will not be safe from him beheading me in revenge for the murder of 'Uthmān, or at the least, he will imprison me or treat me in whatever way he wishes."

'Ali (a.s.) asked him: "Why?"

Ibn 'Abbās said: "Because of the kinship between you and me. Whatever He intends to impose upon you, will impose on me therefore send a letter to Mu'āwiya and oblige him and make promises to him."

'Ali (a.s.) refused and said, "By God, this will never happen."²

Ibn 'Abbās said: "By God, the Commander of the Faithful was more informed and aware of the various opinions, places of prudence and handling of situations than to accept your council in what God has forbidden and disapproved of. *"You will not find a people believing in Allah and the Last Day endearing those who oppose Allah and His Apostle..."*¹, and he informed you of the Clear Reminder [The Qur'ān] and a recited verse, which is the saying of His Almighty: *"...Nor do I take those who mislead as assistants."*²

Was it permissible for him to assign people who were not trustworthy and confidential to him, to the public treasury and life of the Muslims? Far from it! Far from it! He is too aware of divine obligations and the traditions of His Messenger to harbor in his heart contrary to what he expresses, unless for the sake of dissimulation (taqiyya) and there is no room for dissimulation here, with the clearness of the truth, stability of the hearts and large amount of companions! He moves on like an unsheathed sword towards implementing God's commands, preferring obedience to his Lord and being God-fearing over the views of the worldly-minded."³

Refunding Public Assets

71. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –delivered when taking back the land grants made by 'Uthmān: "By God, even if I had found that women were married by such money or slave-maids have been obtained by it, I would have returned it back because there is an expansiveness in justice and he who finds justice hard and

72. شرح نهج البلاغة لابن أبي الحديد: هذه الخطبة ذكرها الكلبي مرويّة مرفوعة إلى أبي صالح عن ابن عباس أن علياً عليه السلام خطب في اليوم الثاني من بيعته بالمدينة، فقال: ألا إن كل قطيعة أقطعها عثمان، وكل مال أعطاه من مال الله، فهو مردود في بيت المال، فإن الحق القديم لا يبطئه شيء، ولو وجدته وقد تزوج به النساء، وفرق في البلدان، لرددته إلى حاله؛ فإن في العدل سعة، ومن ضاق عنه الحق فاجور عليه أضيئ.

قال الكلبي: ثم أمر به بكل سلاح وجد لعثمان في داره بما تقوى به على المسلمين فقبض، وأمر بقبض تجائب كانت في داره من إبل الصدقة فقبضت، وأمر بقبض سيفه ودرعه، وأمر ألا يعرض لسلاح وجد له لم يقاتل به المسلمون، وبالكف عن جميع أمواله التي وجدت في داره وفي غير داره، وأمر أن ترجع الأموال التي أجاز بها عثمان حيث أصيبت أو أصيب أصحابها.

فبلغ ذلك عمرو بن العاص، وكان بأيلة من أرض الشام، أتاه حيث وثب الناس على عثمان فترها، فكتب إلى معاوية: ما كنت صانعاً فاصنع، إذ قسرك ابن أبي طالب من كل مال تملكه كما تقشر عن العصا لحاها.^٢

constricting should find it harder to deal with injustice."¹

72. Sharḥ Nahj al-Balāghah –al-Kalbī has attributed this sermon in the form of a marfū'a tradition² to Abū Ṣāliḥ who has quoted it from Ibn 'Abbās: "On the second day of his allegiance, 'Ali (a.s.) gave a lecture in Madina, saying:

"Verily, any land that 'Uthmān has granted and any wealth from God's property that he has given as gift will be taken back to the Public Treasury. Nothing nullifies the previous rights and if I find these properties, I will restore them to their rightful place, even if they were given as a marriage portion to women or distributed among cities because there is an expansiveness in justice and he who finds it hard to act justly should find it harder to deal with injustice."

The interpretation of this statement is that: If it is hard for an administrator to manage affairs on the basis of justice, it would be harder for him to do it on the basis of injustice, for the unjust is always in a position that he might be prevented and averted from his injustice.

al-Kalbī said: "He ['Ali] (a.s.) then ordered all the weapons stored in 'Uthmān's house which were used against the Muslims to be confiscated. He ordered that the camels that were at his house and were from the alms to be collected and they were seized. He (a.s.) also ordered that his sword and shield be confiscated, and he instructed that no action should be taken in regard to the weapons which were not used to fight against Muslims and also avoid taking hold of his properties whether in his house or in other places. He ordered that the assets given away by 'Uthmān, wherever and with whomever they were, to be taken back."

The news of this treatment reached 'Amr ibn 'Āṣ, who was in Ayla, in Shām, where he had fled to when people assaulted 'Uthmān. He sent a letter [from there] to Muāwiya saying, "Do whatever you wish. The son of Abū Ṭalib separated you from your wealth, just like the bark cut off from a walking stick."³

The Difficulties of Certain Reforms

73. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "If my steps stay firm in these slippery places, I will alter [many] things."¹
74. al-Kāfi –narrated by Sulaym ibn Qays: "The Commander of the Faithful gave a speech praising and glorifying God and giving salutations to the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.). He then said:

"There are two features that I fear for you most: following desires and [having] long hopes. As for following desires, it bars one from the Truth, and as for long hopes, it makes one forget the Hereafter. Indeed the world is [departing] turning its back and the Hereafter is upcoming, each one having its own children [i.e. seekers]. Be the children of the Hereafter and not the children of this world, as today is the day of action not of reckoning and tomorrow is the day of reckoning not of action.

The cause of the trials and seditions are the desires that are followed and the laws that are innovated, in which (seditions) the laws of God are disobeyed and by which some men take authority over others.

Verily, if truth had not been intermingled with falsehood no conflicts would have existed and if falsehood had not been intermingled with the truth, it would not have been concealed from the people of wisdom. But some from each have been taken, intermixed and are shown together. Thereby the Satan dominates over its followers and only those whom Allah has already promised blessings will be far from hell [are saved]."

"Verily I heard the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) say: "How will you be when sedition befalls upon you in which the children grow up and the elderly age. People will follow according to these seditions and consider them Sunnah [tradition] and if a part of it is altered they would cry out that the tradition has been changed and people have committed a wrong act! Adversities will then mount, children will be taken captive, iniquities will Then while a group of his near of kin, close companions and followers were around him he said:

"The previous governors acted in such a way that they purposely opposed the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) and broke their allegiance to him and altered his tradition (sunna). prayer performed for the dead to be five, to have people recite bi-smi 'llāh al-Raḥmān al-Raḥīm loudly in prayers, to take out from the mosque those who were brought in next to the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) while he had expelled them and to bring back those who the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) had brought in but were expelled, to order people to obey the commands of God and divorce on the basis of the traditions (sunna), to collect all religious taxes (ṣadaqāt) in their various types and amounts, to take (the rules of) minor ablution (wuḍū), major ablution (ghusl) and prayer (Ṣalat) back to their original time and status and rules, to return the people of Najrān back to their homes, to change the way of treating the captives of Persia and of other origins back to the way commanded by the Book of God and the traditions of the Messenger of God, then they would disperse from around me.

"By God, I ordered people not to perform prayers in the month of Ramadan in congregation except for the obligatory prayers and instructed them that congregation in supererogatory prayers is an innovation (bid'ā). Suddenly some of the soldiers who were in my company screamed out: "O People of Islam! The tradition of 'Umar has been changed. He is preventing us from performing supererogatory prayers in Ramadan." I was afraid that [if I had not cancelled this order] the deviators from the right path and callers to the fire would have aroused disunity among some of my troops.

From this I [also] gave the share of the relatives [of the Prophet (ṣ.a.w.)] about whom God Almighty has said: "Know that whatever thing you may come by, a fifth of it is for Allah and the Apostle, for the relatives and the orphans, for the needy and the traveler, if you have faith in Allah and what we sent down to Our servant on the Day of Separation, the day when the two hosts met; and Allah has power over all things."¹ By God, we are those meant by 'the relatives', whom God has mentioned in association with Himself and His Messenger, as He Almighty said: "The spoils that Allah gave to His Apostle from the people of the townships, are for Allah and the Apostle, the relatives and the orphans, the needy and the traveler..."² Meaning us, "...so that they do not circulate between the rich among you. Take whatever the Apostle gives you, and relinquish whatever he forbids you, and be wary of Allah."³ He has [further] said about the injustice to the relatives of the Prophet: "Indeed Allah is severe in retribution"⁴ for those who oppress them. This is a form of grace from Him Almighty to us and richness by which God has made us free from need and He has instructed His Messenger so.

God did not allocate for us a portion in the share of alms. He gave honor to His Messenger and He made us the Ahlul Bayt greater than to feed us from the remnants of the people. They denied God and denied His Messenger, repudiating the Book of God that speaks about our rights and they deprived us that which God has allocated for us. There is no family of any prophet who has endured so much suffering and hardship from his community as we have suffered after [the passing away of] our Prophet (s.a.w.). God supports us against those who have oppressed us and there is no power and no strength save in God the Exalted, the Supreme."¹

Honesty in Policy

75. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Far be it! Had it not been for God-wariness, I would have been the craftiest of Arabs."¹
76. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "O People! If perjury were not repulsive, I would be the craftiest of people. Verily every perjury is an offence and within every offence there is disbelief and unthankfulness. Verily perjury, offences and betrayal all lead to Hellfire."²
77. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "By God, Mu'āwiya is not craftier than I am, but he practices deception and commits debauchery and were it not for the hideousness of deception, I would have been the craftiest of all people. But every kind of deception is a sin and every sin is disbelief [in God]. There will be a banner for every deceiver by which he will be known on the Day of Resurrection. By God, neither artifice can catch me by surprise nor shall I be overpowered by hardship."³
78. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "If you bind an agreement between yourself and your enemy or give him quarter in a protective covenant (dhimma), guard your agreement in good faith and tend to your covenant with fidelity. Make yourself a shield for what you have granted; for men, do not unite more firmly in any of the obligation (imposed upon them) by God than attaching importance to fidelity in agreements despite the division among their sects and the diversity of their opinions. Commitment to Truthfulness

79. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Indeed, the best of people according to God are those for whom acting according to the truth [enforcing the truth] is more beloved—even though it brings hardship or grief—than the wrong—even though it brings them benefit and increase."²

Ibn 'Abbās said: "I went to 'Ali (a.s.) and saw him stitching his shoes, so I said to him: "Our need for you to set in place our affairs is greater than what you are doing." He did not say anything until he finished stitching his shoe, placing it next to the other one. He then said: "What is the price of these?"

Commitment to Law

89. Imām al-Bāqir: "He ['Ali] (a.s.) arrested a man from the tribe of Banī Asad to carry out a punishment. His people gathered to mediate for him and asked Ḥasan (a.s.) to go along with them."

"He [Ḥasan] (a.s.) said: "Go to him ['Ali] (a.s.) for he is better aware of your affairs."

They went to him and brought up their issue.

He said: "Ask me for anything which is at my disposal and I will grant it to you."

They left him, thinking they were successful. Ḥasan (a.s.) asked them about what happened between them and they said: "We have come with the best of results", and told him the story.

He said: "Do whatever you need to do for your friend when he is being punished."

'Ali (a.s.) took him out and carried out the punishment on him, and he then said: "By God this [execution of punishment] is an issue out of my power [rather, it is God's command]."²

90. al-Ghārāt –in a report about the poet al-Najāshī: "In the battle of Siffin, al-Najāshī was 'Ali's (a.s.) poet. He drank wine in Kūfa and the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) executed the punishment on him. He became angry and joined Mu'āwiya and dispraised 'Ali (a.s.)...."

When 'Ali (a.s.) punished al-Najāshī, those from among his companions from the Yamāniyah tribe got angry and the closest of them to 'Ali (a.s.), Tāriq ibn 'Abdullah Nahdī, went to him and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! We did not imagine that the sinners and the obedient, the separatists and allies, are equal before the leaders of justice and the fountainheads of virtue until I saw your treatment of my brother Ḥārith [al-Najāshī]. You pained our hearts, dispersed our affairs and you made us choose a road which we previously thought that he who walks on it will be led to Hellfire."

 O Brother from Banī Nahd! Was he not a Muslim man who violated one of God’s sanctities and we executed against him the penalty which was his expiation? God Almighty has said: “...and ill feeling for a people should never lead you to be unfair. Be fair; that is nearer to Godwariness.”^{2 3}

Election of Righteous Administrators

103. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "For every person there is a right over the ruler to the extent that set it aright and his life is settled on to the extent that set it aright. But the ruler will not truly accomplish what God has enjoined upon him in this respect except by resolutely striving and recourse to God's help, by making himself adhere to truth and by being patient in enforcing the right, be it easy for him or burdensome.

Appoint as commander from among your troops the one who in your sight is the most sincere [advising] in the way of God, His Messenger (ṣ.a.w.) and your Imām and who is the purest and the most chaste of heart and the most outstanding in intelligence forbearance, who is slow to anger, accepts pardon, is gentle to the weak and harsh with the strong, and who is not stirred by severity nor held back by incapacity.

Then hold fast to men of magnanimity and noble descent and those of righteous families and good precedents, then to men of bravery, courage, generosity and magnanimity, for they are encompassed by nobility and embraced by honor. Then inspect their affairs the same way parents look into the affairs of their child....

Then look into the affairs of your administrators. Employ them (only after) having tested (them) and appoint them not with favoritism or arbitrariness, for these two (attributes) bring about different kinds of oppression and treachery. Among them look for people of experience and modesty from righteous families and the foremost in Islam, for they are nobler in moral qualities, more genuine in dignity and less concerned with ambitious desires, and they perceive more penetratingly the consequences of affairs.

Let not your choosing of them be in accordance with your own discernment, confidence and good opinion, for men make themselves known to the discernment of rulers by dissimulating and serving them well, even though beyond this there may be nothing of sincere counsel and loyalty. Rather examine them in that with which they were entrusted by the righteous (rulers) before you. Depend upon him who has left the fairest impression upon the common people and whose countenance is best known for trustworthiness. This will be proof of your sincerity towards Allah and towards him whose affair has been entrusted to you. Appoint to the head of each of your concerns a chief who is neither overpowered when these affairs are great nor disturbed when they are many. Whatever fault of your secretaries you overlook will come to be attached to you."¹

Refraining from Employing the Treacherous and the Feeble

105. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Mughayra ibn Shu'ba suggested to me that I should appoint Mu'āwiya as the governor of Shām and that I should stay in Madina, but I rejected his suggestion and God will never see me take those who mislead as my assistants."¹
106. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Truly the worst of your viziers are those who were the viziers of the evil (rulers) before you and shared with them in their sins. Let them not be among your retinue, for they are aides of the sinners and brothers of wrongdoers. You will find the best of substitutes for them from among those who possess the like of their ideas and effectiveness but are not encumbered by the like of their burdens, sins and offences; those who have not aided a wrongdoer in his wrongs nor an offender in his offences. They will be a lighter burden upon you, a better aid and more inclined towards you in sympathy and less intimate with others. So choose them as your special companions in your private and public assemblies."²
107. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –from his letter to Rifa'a who was his judge in the city of Ahwāz: "Know, O Rifa'a that this position of governance is a trust, so whoever betrays it, on him will be the curse of God until the Day of Judgment; and whoever employs a traitor, truly Muḥammad (ṣ.a.w.) will despise him both in this world and the world to come."³

wealth, nor should he be ignorant as he would then mislead them with his ignorance, nor should he be of harsh and indifferent as he will estrange them with his behavior, nor should he be unjust in the distribution of wealth, that he gives to a group and denies another, nor should he be one who accepts bribes when taking decisions, as he would forfeit the rights of others and hold them up not letting them reach the owners, nor should he stop the practice of the tradition (sunna) as he would ruin the nation."¹

109. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –from the aphorisms attributed to him (a.s.): "The person whose retinue are corrupt is like the one whose throat is congested with water [and there is no solution to it], since whatever that is stuck in the throat would be removed [washed down] with water."²
110. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "The blight of affairs is the incapacity of administrators."³

112. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "He whose vizier betrays him, his (power of) management will be spoiled."⁵

It may sometimes come to one's mind that why did Imām 'Ali (a.s.), who emphasized on the appointment of truthful administrators and warned against employment of the inefficient and traitors, employ incompetent administrators and governors and appoint such persons as Ziyād ibn Abih, Mundhir ibn Jārūd, and Nu'mān ibn 'Ajlān etc., who were traitors; and 'Abdullah ibn 'Abbās and Abū Ayyūb and others who were incapable. On the other hand, why did he dismiss a religious and competent person like Qays ibn Sa'd and appoint Muḥammad ibn Abī Bakr in his place? The response to the first question is given in the introduction of Section 16 and the answer to the second is in this same section in relation to the life (sīra) of Qays ibn Sa'd.

Generosity in Providing Administrators with Daily Sustenance

114. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: “Then bestow provisions upon them abundantly, for that will empower them to reform themselves and it will make them needless from consuming what is under their authority and it is an argument against them if they should disobey your command or sully your trust.”¹

Choosing Secret Agents to Keep a Check on the Administrators

2. It seems that the name Mālik ibn Ka'b is correct, as Imām 'Ali (a.s.) did not have an administrator by the name of Ka'b ibn Mālik, rather there was a person by this name who refused to swear allegiance to the Imām. Mālik Ibn Ka'b was indeed one of the trusted administrators of the Imām in the region of 'Ayn al-Tamr and the area of Bihqubādhat.

Al-Ash'ath ibn Qays²

120. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –in his letter to al-Ash'ath ibn Qays, his governor in Azerbaijan: "Certainly, your assignment is not a morsel for you, but it is a trust around your neck and you are being observed by your superiors. It is not for you to deal with your subjects as you like or act with save on strong grounds [being instructed]. You have in your hands the funds, which is the property of God to whom belong Might and Majesty and you hold its charge till you pass it on to me. I hope I am not one of the bad rulers for you. The envoy returned and reported what Ziyad told him. 'Ali (a.s.) wrote to Ziyad: "My envoy reported what you said to him about the Kurds and that you asked him to conceal it from me. You well know that you did not tell him, but with the intention that he informs me about it. 124. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) –in his letter to Ziyād, his governor in Persia (Fārs): “And now, my envoy has indeed brought me strange news. He thought that you have said to him something that should remain between you and him, that the Kurds had rebelled against you and ruined much of the taxes and you have told him not to report this to the Commander of the Faithful.

O Ziyād! I swear to God that you are a liar, and if you do not discharge the taxes, I shall inflict upon you such punishment that will leave you with an empty hand, a heavy back and humiliated, unless you take responsibility for whatever of the taxes you have ruined.”¹

Shurayḥ al-Qāḍī

125. Nahj al-Balāghah: “It is narrated that Shurayḥ ibn Hārith who was the judge (qāḍī) of the Commander of the Faithful at Kūfa purchased a house for eighty dinārs during his term. The Commander of the Faithful came to know of this and sent for Shurayḥ and said to him: “I have come to know that you have purchased a house for eighty dinārs and that you have written a document for it and you had witnesses for it.”

Shurayḥ replied, “Yes it is so, O Commander of the Faithful.”

The Commander of the Faithful cast an angry look at him and said: “O Shurayḥ, indeed someone [the angel of death] will come to you who will not look at your document nor question you about your evidence, but will take you out of it [the house] open-eyed and throw you in your grave empty-handed. Beware! O Shurayḥ, if you have purchased this house from money other than yours or paid the price of it from an unlawful source, then you have incurred the loss of this world as well as of the next. If you had come to me at the time of purchase, I would have written for you a document like this paper and then you would not have liked to purchase the house even for one dirham and nothing more than that. This is the document:

“This is the purchase made by a humble slave [of God] from a deceased person who has been forced to depart [for the next world]. He has purchased a house from the houses of deceit in the area of mortals and place of those liable to perish. This house has four boundaries:

The first boundary ends up with the sources of blights, the second boundary ends to the sources of distress, the third boundary ends up with devastating desire and the fourth boundary ends up with deceitful Satan and towards this fourth opens the door of this house.

This house has been purchased by one who has been deceived by desires from one who is being driven by death at the price of leaving the honor of contentment and entering into the humility of want and submissiveness. What a great loss this buyer will suffer.

If the purchaser encounters some (evil) consequences of this transaction, then it is for Him who dismantles the bodies of monarchs, snatches the lives of despots, destroys the domain of Pharaohs like Cyrus, Caesar, Tubba', Himyar and all those who amass wealth upon wealth and go on increasing it, build high houses and decorate them and collect treasures and preserve them for children, (Yes! It is for Him) to take them to the place of accounting and judgment and the position of reward and punishment, when the verdict will be passed "...and it is thence that the falsifiers become losers."¹ This affair can be testified by the intellect when it goes forth from the shackles of desires and is free from the attachments of this world."²

'Uthmān ibn Ḥunayf

128. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) –from his letter to 'Uthmān ibn Ḥunayf al-Anṣārī who was his administrator in Baṣra, when he came to know that the people of the place had invited 'Uthmān to a banquet and he had attended: “And now, O Ibn Ḥunayf, I have come to know that a young man of Baṣra invited you to a feast and you hastened towards it. Foods of different colors were being chosen for you and big bowls were being given to you. I never thought that you would accept the feast of a people who turn out the beggars and invite the rich. Look at the morsels you take, leave out that about which you are in doubt and take that about which you are sure that it has been secured lawfully.

Remember that every follower has a leader whom he follows and from the effulgence of whose knowledge he takes light. Realize that your Imām has contented himself with two shabby pieces of clothes out of the (comforts of the) world and two loaves for his meal. Certainly, you cannot do so but at least support me in piety, exertion, chastity and uprightness.”

"By God, I have not treasured any gold from your world nor amassed plentiful wealth nor added any clothes to my two shabby pieces of clothes. I have not taken from its land [even as little as] a span of the hand, nor have I taken more than a meager meal sufficient to feed a wretched animal, and indeed, in my eyes, it (the world) is more unworthy and insignificant than the gall oak fruit.

Of course, all that we had in our possession under this sky was Fadak, but a group of people felt greedy for it and another group withheld themselves from it generously. God is, after all, the best arbiter.

What shall I do with Fadak or with other than it, while tomorrow this body is to go into the grave in whose darkness its traces will be destroyed and (even) news of it will disappear? It is a pit that even if its width is widened or the hands of the digger make it broad and open, the stones and clods of clay will narrow it and the falling earth will close its aperture.

I try to keep myself engaged in piety so that on the day of great fear it will be peaceful and steady in slippery places. If I wished I could have taken the way leading towards (worldly pleasures like) pure honey, fine wheat and silk clothes; but far be it that my passions lead me and greed takes me to choosing good meals while in Hijaz or in Yamāma there may be people who have no hope of getting bread or who do not have a full meal. Shall I lie with a satiated belly while around me there are hungry bellies and thirsty livers? Or shall I be as the poet has said:

"It is enough for you to have a disease that you lie with your belly full,

While around you people are badly yearning [of hunger] for dried leather?"

Shall I be content with being called 'The Commander of the Faithful (Amir al-Mu'minin), although I do not share with the people the hardships of the world or shall I not be an example for them in the distresses of life? I have not been created to be kept busy eating good foods like the tied animal whose only worry is its fodder or like a loose animal whose activity is to fill its belly with its feed and forgets the purpose behind it. Shall I be left uncontrolled to pasture freely, or draw the rope of misguidance or roam aimlessly in the paths of bewilderment?

Stay away from me, O world! Your rein is on your own shoulders as I have released myself from your clutches, removed myself of your snares and avoided walking into your slippery places. Where are those whom you have deceived by your jesting? Where are those communities whom you have enticed with your embellishments? They are all now confined to graves and hidden in burial places.

By God, if you [O world!] had been a visible person and a body capable of being felt, I would have inflicted on you the punishment fixed by God because of the people whom you deceived through (false) desires, the communities whom you threw into destruction and the rulers whom you consigned to ruin and drove to places of distress after which there is neither going nor returning.

Far from it! Whoever stepped on your slippery path slipped; whoever rode your waves was drowned; and whoever evaded your snares was successful. He who keeps himself safe from you does not worry even if his abode is narrow and restricted and the world to him is like a day, which is near expiring. Get away from me! For by God, I do not bow before you so that you may humiliate me nor do I let you rein on my neck, so that you may drive me away. I swear by God, (unless He wishes not), that I shall so discipline my self that feels joyful if it gets one loaf for eating, and be content with only salt to season it. I shall let my eyes empty themselves of tears like the stream whose water has flown away. Should 'Ali eat whatever he has and fall asleep like the cattle that fill their stomach from the pastureland and lie down, or as the grazing goats, that eat the green and go into their pen? Woe is to him, if he, after long years, follows loose cattle and pasturing animals.

Blessed is he who discharges his obligations towards God and endures his hardships, allows himself no sleep in the night but when sleep overpowers him lies down on the ground using his hand as pillow, along with those who keep their eyes wakeful in

133. Ansāb al-Ashraf –in a letter to al-Mundhir ibn al-Jārūd, his governor in Iṣṭakhr² when he was informed that he had misappropriated certain property in his charge and granted lavishly to whomever he wished: "The good behavior of your father deceived me about you and I thought that you would follow his way and continue on his path. But according to what has reached me about you, you are not giving up the following of your passions however detrimental it is to your religion and you do not listen to [the words of] those who advise you however sincere they are in their well-wishing. I have been informed that you give up many tasks and go out for recreation, leisure and hunting and that you are lavishly generous to your Bedouin tribesmen with public property as if it is your parents' bequest.

I swear by God, if this is true, the camel of your family and your shoelaces are better than you. Indeed God does not like amusement and leisure. And the betraying of Muslims and ruining their works enrages Him and the person who acts this way is not fitting for safeguarding the borders, securing public property and being trusted with the belongings of the Muslims. Therefore proceed to me as soon as this letter of mine reaches you."

Dismissing Treacherous Administrators

134. al-Istī'āb: “Ali (a.s.) would appoint only the faithful and the trustworthy people [in the cities], and if any one of them was reported to him to have committed treachery, he would write to him the following: “There has certainly come to you admonition from your Lord. Observe fully the measure and balance, and do not cheat the people of their goods and do not cause corruption on the earth. What remains of God's provision is better for you, should you be faithful, and I am not a keeper over you.”² When my letter reaches you, settle what you are in charge of until I send someone to take it over from you.” He would then turn his face towards the sky and say: “O God! Certainly You know that I neither ordered them to tyrannize Your creatures nor to abandon Your rights.”^{3 4}
135. Da'a'im al-Islām: “Ali (a.s.) summoned Ash'ath ibn Qays, who was appointed by 'Uthmān as the governor of Azerbaijan and received a hundred thousand dirhams. Some said 'Uthmān had granted that money to him and others believed that he had gained it through his work.

فَأَمَرَهُ عَلِيٌّ بِإِحْضَارِهَا فَدَافَعَهُ، وَقَالَ: يَا أَمِيرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ، لَمْ أَصِبْهَا فِي عَمَلِكَ.
قَالَ: وَاللَّهِ لَئِنْ أَنْتَ لَمْ تُحْضِرْهَا بَيْتَ مَالِ الْمُسْلِمِينَ، لَأَضْرِبَنَّكَ بِسَيْفِي هَذَا أَصَابَ

أَمْرِنَا، وَلَا يَزَالُ يَقْدِمُ عَلَيْنَا مِنْ قَبِيلِكَ مَنْ يَسْمُو بِمَقَامِكَ وَيَبْطِشُ بِسُلْطَانِكَ

فَقَالَ مُعَاوِيَةُ: إِنِّي تَعْنِيَنِّي وَلِي تُهْدِدَنِي! لَقَدْ هَمَمْتُ يَا سَوْدَةُ أَنْ أَحْمِلَكَ عَلَى قَتْلِ
أُسُوسٍ، فَأَرَدْتُكَ إِلَيْهِ، فَيَفِذَ حُكْمَهُ فِيكَ. فَأَطَرَقَتْ ثُمَّ أَنْشَأَتْ تَقُولُ:

قَدْ حَالَفَ الْحَقُّ لَا يَبْغِي بِهِ بَدَلًا فَصَارَ بِالْحَقِّ وَالْإِيمَانِ مَقْرُونًا

فَقَالَ مُعَاوِيَةُ: مَنْ هَذَا يَا سَوْدَةُ؟ فَقَالَتْ: هَذَا وَاللَّهِ أَمِيرُ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ عَلِيُّ بْنُ

'Ali (a.s.) commanded him to present that money, but he refused and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! I have not obtained this money in your government."

The Imām said: "By God, if you do not present it to the public treasury, I will strike you with my sword and it will take from you what it must."

Thereupon he brought back the property and the Imām placed it in the treasury. He followed up this [inquiry] in relation to 'Uthmān's administrators, taking back whatever of [unlawful] property left in their hands and fining them for what they had wasted."¹

136. al-Fuqā al-Muhimma —narrated by Sūda daughter of -Hamdāniya who went to Mu'āwiya after the death of 'Ali (a.s.): "Mu'āwiya started to reproach her for her mocking remarks to him during the battle of Šiffin. Then he asked her: "What do you need?"

Sūda replied: "Indeed God Almighty will question you about our affairs and what has been entrusted to you. There is always someone coming to us from you who towers up your position, spreads your dominion, reaps us like the ears of wheat, beats us up like seeds of wild rue, debases us and makes us taste death. That was Busr ibn Artā'a who came to us, killed our men and took away our property. If it was not for our obedience [to you], we would have been dignified and honored, so if you dismiss him we will be grateful of you; otherwise we will complain about you to God."

Mu'āwiya said: "Are you referring to me and threatening me? O Sūda, I have decided to put you on an unruly camel and send you back to Busr to carry out his judgment about you."

Sūda put her head down keeping silent and then recited the following couplets:

May God's blessing be upon the body who was embraced,

By a grave in which justice was buried.

He allied with the truth and would not substitute it with anything,

And he became equal to the truth and faith.

Mu'āwiya said: "O Sūda, who is this person?"

Sūda said: "By God, this is the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.). I once went to him to talk to him about a man whom he had appointed as the head of [levying] taxes and that person had done injustice to us. I found him standing and ready to start saying prayer. When he saw me, he stopped and came towards me with a bright face, affection and leniency, saying: "Do you have any need?"

Punishing the Treacherous among the Administrators

137. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) –when he found out about the treachery of Ibn Harma who was in charge of the Ahwāz market, he wrote to Rafā'a: "When you read my letter, dismiss Ibn Harma from the market, cut him off from the people, put him in jail and inform the public. Write to your administrators and let them know about my opinion concerning him. Do not be negligent or extreme regarding him or you will perish in the eyes of God and I will dismiss you in the worst of ways. I seek God's refuge for you from this happening to you.

On the coming Friday, take him out of jail, give him thirty five lashes and take him around in the markets. If someone brings a witness against him, make him swear an oath with his witness and then pay him from the assets of Ibn Harma. Order him to be taken to jail degradingly, shamefully and by shouting

142. الإمام علي عليه السلام - في كتابه إلى بعض عماله -: أَمَا بَعْدُ، فَإِنَّ دَهَاقِينَ أَهْلَ بَلَدِكَ شَكُّوا مِنْكَ غِلْظَةً وَقَسْوَةً، وَاحْتِقَارًا وَجَفْوَةً، وَنَظَرَتْ قَلَمُ أَرْهَمِ أَهْلًا لِأَن يُدْنُوا لِشِرْكِهِمْ،

140. Akhbār al-Qudāt –narrating from ‘Ali ibn Rabi’a: “Indeed ‘Ali (a.s.) had employed a man from the Banī Asad tribe by the name of Dubī‘at ibn Zuhayr. When his mission concluded, he went to ‘Ali (a.s.) along with a sack full of money and said: “O Commander of the Faithful! Some people have brought me these gifts which have amounted to this. If they are lawful for me, I will use them; otherwise I am bringing them to you.”

‘Ali (a.s.) said: “If you had kept them, it would have been treachery.”

Then he took it from him and placed it in the public treasury.”¹

141. Imām ‘Ali (a.s.) –in his sermon in which he states his treatment with ‘Aqil when he had asked for some money from the Public Treasury: “A very strange thing which happened is that a man came to us with a closed flask full of honey paste but I disliked it as though it was the saliva of a snake or its vomit. I asked him: “Is this a reward or zakāt or charity, for these are forbidden to us, the members of the Prophet’s family [Alhul-Bayt].” He said that it was neither this nor that, but a present.”

“Then I said: “May childless women weep over you. Have you come to mislead me from the religion of God by tricking me? Are you insane, or have you been overpowered by some jinn or are you speaking nonsense?”

“By God, even if I am given all the seven domains with all that exists under the skies in order that I may disobey God to the extent of snatching a grain of barley from an ant, I would not do it. For me, your world is lower than a leaf in the mouth of a locust that is chewing it. What has ‘Ali to do with bounties that will pass away and pleasures that will not last? We seek the protection of God from the slumber of the intellect and the ugliness of stumbles, and from Him we seek succor.”²

Your position must be moderate in being soft along with being strict and without doing injustice and diminution because they brought prosperity to us while being feeble, so take what you demand from them while they are subordinate. Do not take any guardian besides God. Certainly God the Exalted and Almighty has said: "...do not take your confidants from other than yourselves; they will spare nothing to ruin you."², and He the Great, the Exalted has said about the People of the Book: "...do not take the Jews and the Christians for guardians..."³, and He the Exalted and Almighty says: "Any of you who takes them as guardians is indeed one of them. Adopt harshness when you cannot do without it. Lower your wings (in humbleness) before the subjects. Meet them with a broad face and keep yourself lenient (in behavior) with them. Prohibition of Abolishing Proper Customs

156. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Abolish no proper custom (sunna) which has been acted upon by the leaders of this community, through which harmony has been strengthened and because of which the subjects have prospered. Create no new custom which might in any way damage the customs of the past, lest their reward belong to him who originated them and the burden be upon you for abolishing them. It is incumbent upon you to recall the just government, the excellent customs, the sunna of our Prophet (ṣ.a.w.) and the obligations (promulgated) in the Book of God, which preceded you (and follow them)."²

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar (as narrated in Tuḥaf al-'Uqūl): "Study much with men of knowledge ('ulama) and converse much with sages (hukamā) concerning the consolidation of that which causes the state of your land to prosper and the establishment of that by which the people before you remain strong, since this will establish rightfulness more firmly and repel falsehood; and this will suffice as guidance and exemplar. Through you God the Great and Almighty brought us forth from disgrace and for your glory He freed His servants from chains. You choose for us and carry them out and command as you wish and enforce it, because you are a speaker whose words are believed, a successful ruler and entrusted sovereign. We do not see lawful disobedience to you in any matter and we do not measure any knowledge with yours, as your status is so lofty to us and your superiority so great." The person who most deserves to be as such is he who receives Gods bounty and favor most, because the bounty of God over any person does not increase without an increase in God's right over him.

In the view of virtuous people, the worst position of rulers is that it may be thought about them that they love glory and their affairs may be taken to be based on pride. I would really hate that it may occur to your mind that I love high praises or to hear eulogies. By the grace of Allah I am not like this. Even If I had loved to be mentioned like this, I would have given it up in submissiveness before Allah, the Glorified, rather than accept greatness and sublimity to which He is more entitled. addressed. Do not evade me as the irascible people are (to be) evaded; do not meet me with flattery and do not think that I shall take it ill if a true thing is said to me; and do not entitle me with undue greatness. Certainly the person who feels disgusted and burdensome when truth is said to him or a just matter is placed before him would find it more difficult to act upon them.

Therefore do not abstain from saying the truth or pointing out a matter of justice because I do not regard myself above erring.¹ I am not immune from erring in my actions unless that God helps me (in avoiding errors) in matters in which He is more powerful than I. Certainly I and you are slaves owned by a Lord, other than Whom there is no Lord. He owns from ourselves that which we do not own. He brought us forth from where we were towards what brings prosperity to us. He altered our straying into guidance and gave us insight after blindness."²

Commitment to the Truth in Knowing Men

165. al-Amālī –narrated by Aṣḥab ibn Nubāta: "Hārith ibn Hamdānī along with a group of Shi'ites, including myself, went to visit the Commander of the Faithful 'Alī ibn Abī Ṭālib (a.s.). Being sick, Hārith walked in with a bent back and a walking stick. The Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) came towards him, for Hārith was highly esteemed by him, and said: 'How are you feeling Hārith?'

He said: "Life has done to me what it has pleased, O Commander of the Faithful, and the conflict of your companions at your doorstep is irritating and infuriating me."

He asked: "What is their conflict about?"

He replied: "About you and the previous three caliphs. One

167. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "When things coupled one with another (chosen as pairs), laziness and incapability were connected and poverty was produced from them."¹
168. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Indeed I hate a man who is lazy in his worldly affairs; for if he is lazy in his worldly affairs, he will be more lazy in the affairs of the Hereafter."²

171. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "I advise you to fear God secretly and openly, to practice justice in pleasure and anger, and to earn livelihood in poverty and affluence."⁵

He would stop before people of every market and call out: "O Tradesmen! Be wary of God Almighty!"

When the marketers heard his call, they would give up what they were doing and attentively listen to him.

Then he would say: "Seek what is best, look for blessing by being lenient, be close to the customers, adorn yourself with tolerance refrain from swearing, avoid telling lies, beware of doing injustice and assist the oppressed in returning his right. Do not seek nearness to usury and observe fully the measure and the balance. Do not cheat the people of their goods and do not act wickedly on the earth, causing corruption."

He was holding a whip and walking in the markets enjoining the marketers to be wary of God and make fair deals. He would say: “Be loyal in the measure and balance.” And: “Do not blow in the meat.”¹
200. Makārim al-Akhlāq – narrating from ‘Abdullah ibn ‘Abbās: “When he [Ibn ‘Abbās] returned from Baṣra and entered Kūfa carrying money, he saw the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) standing in the market and shouting: “O People! From now on whomever I see selling hagfish, the fish caught dead [floating] and eels, I will punish them with this whip.” The whip he had was called ‘Sabtīyya’.”

Ibn ‘Abbās says, “I greeted him and he returned the greeting and then said, ‘O Ibn ‘Abbās! What happened to the money?’”

“I said, “Here it is, O Commander of the faithful!” I gave it to him and he brought me near to him and welcomed me.”

After that, a herald came to him carrying his sword, announcing the selling of it for seven dirhams and then he said: “If I had a share in the Muslims’ public treasury as little as the price of an Arak tooth brush, I would not sell the sword.”

He sold the sword and bought himself a shirt for four dirhams, gave two dirhams as charity and treated me as a guest for three days with the remaining one dirham.”²

201. Fadā’il al-Ṣaḥāba – narrating from Abū Maṭar al-Baṣrī who said: “I saw ‘Ali (a.s.) going towards the date sellers. A female slave was crying near a date seller. He [‘Ali] asked her: “What has happened to you?”

The female slave said: “He sold me some dates for one dirham, but my master returned them and he [the date seller] is not refunding the money.”

‘Ali (a.s.) said: “O owner of the dates! Take your dates back and refund her money as she is only a slave and she is not in authority.”

The date seller pushed ‘Ali (a.s.) back. The Muslims said to him: “Do you know whom you pushed back?” He said: “No I do not.” They said: “It is the Commander of the Faithful!” At this time, he took back the dates and refunded her the dirhams.

'Ali (a.s.) said, "I will be pleased with you only when you fully observe the rights of people."¹

202. Makārim al-Akhlaq – narrating from Mukhtār al-Tammar: "I used to spend the nights in the mosques and stay in the open square and buy bread from a grocer (he was from Basra). One day, I went out and all of a sudden a man called upon me and said: 'Hold up your gown; it will stay cleaner this way and it will be closer to God-fearing.'"

I asked who he was and I was told that he was 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭalib (a.s.).

I went after him while he was going towards the camels market. When he got there, he stopped and said: "O Tradesmen! Beware of false swearing, as it would ruin the goods and bring the blessings to naught."

He then continued moving till he reached the date sellers. At this time, a female slave was crying before a date seller.

He asked her, "What happened to you?"

She answered, "I am a slavegirl. My people have sent me to buy one dirham of dates for them. When I took the dates to them, they did not like it, so I returned them, but this man refuses to take them back."

He said, "O Man! Take the dates back and refund her money!"

He [the salesman] refused to do so. He was told: "This [man] is 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭalib (a.s.)." Then he took back the dates and refunded her the money and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! I did not recognize you. Forgive me."

He said, "O tradesmen! Be wary of God and make your dealings fairly. May God forgive you and us."

He then left that place and arrived in the canvas market and encountered a handsome man. He said: "O Man! Do you have two garments for five dirhams?"

The man rose to his feet and said, "O Commander of the Faithful! I have what you want." Since the shop owner knew it was the Imām, he left him and went to another young person and said: "O Young man! Do you have two garments for five dirhams?"

He said: "Yes I do." He bought the two garments; one of them was for three dirhams and the other was for two. He said: "O Qanbar! You take the garment that is for three dirhams."

Qanbar said: "You deserve it more; you go on the pulpit and give sermons to people."

When he put on the garment he noticed that the sleeves were longer than his hands. He said: "Cut off the extra." And the young man did so. Then he said: "Come forward and let me stitch it."

He quickly ran towards him in such a way that I heard the sound of his footwear and he was calling out: "Help is coming to you."

At this moment, he saw a man who was holding on to another man's collar. He said: "O Commander of the Faithful! I sold a garment to this man for nine dirhams on the condition that he would not give me torn and defective dirhams (and this was their common condition of that time) and now I come to him to change these dirhams for me and he is refusing to do so. So I held on to him, and he slapped me."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "Change it for him!" He then said: "What is your proof for being slapped?"

The man showed his proof. Then 'Ali (a.s.) seated the man and told him [the complainant] to take revenge on him. The man said. "I forgive him O Commander of the Faithful!"

'Ali (a.s.) said, "I wanted to be cautious for your rights." Then he gave the man nine lashes and said, "This is the right of the state."²

سِيَّاسَةُ اخِذِ الْخَرَجِ

206. الإمام علي عليه السلام - في كِتَابِهِ إِلَى أُمَرَاءِ الْخُرَاجِ: بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ. مِنْ عَبْدِ اللَّهِ عَلِيِّ أَمِيرِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ إِلَى أُمَرَاءِ الْخُرَاجِ، أَمَّا بَعْدُ، فَإِنَّهُ مَنْ لَمْ يَحْذَرْ مَا هُوَ صَائِرٌ إِلَيْهِ لَمْ يُقَدِّمْ لِنَفْسِهِ وَلَمْ يُجَرِّزْهَا، وَمَنْ اتَّبَعَ هَوَاهُ وَانْقَادَ لَهُ عَلَى مَا يَعْرِفُ نَفْعَ عَاقِبَتِهِ عَمَّا قَلِيلٍ لِيُصْبِحَنَّ مِنَ النََّادِمِينَ.

205. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Then do good to traders and craftsmen (or examine their affair). Know, nevertheless, that in many of them, there are shameful miserliness, detestable avarice, hoarding of benefits and arbitrariness in sales. They hoard goods for profiteering and fix high prices for the merchandise. This is a source of loss to all and a stain upon rulers. So prohibit hoarding, for the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) prohibited it. Let selling be openhanded one with justly balanced scales and prices, not harmful to either party, the seller or the buyer. Whoever lets himself be tempted to hoard after you have forbidden him (to do so), make an example of him and punish him, but not excessively."¹

Levying Taxes

206. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his letter to the tax collectors: "In the Name of God the All-Beneficent, the All-Merciful. From the servant of God 'Ali, Commander of the Faithful to the tax collectors: So now, he who does not fear where he is going (viz. the Hereafter) does not send forward for himself that which could protect him; and he who follows his desires and surrenders to them (despite of his knowledge of benefits that exist in the hereafter), will soon be among the regretful.

Know that the most felicitous person in the world is he who withdraws from what he knows is detrimental to him; and the most wretched person is he who follows passions. So take heed!

Know that whatever good you forward [to the Hereafter] will belong to you; apart from that, whatever you send forth, you would like that there would be a long distance between you and that. God warns you to beware of [disobeying] Him and God is the most Affectionate and the most Merciful to His servants. Certainly the loss of what you were negligent of, would return to you. And what you have demanded, is little, and Allah's reward is great.

If there were no punishment to be feared of in doing injustice and aggression that has been prohibited, there certainly is enough reward in avoiding it, leaving no excuse for anyone to give it up. Be merciful so that you may be granted (His) Mercy. Do not torture servants of God; and do not task them beyond their capacity. Be fair to people and be patient in fulfilling their needs, since you are the treasurers of the subjects. He who treats the trust lightly, indulges in treachery and does not keep himself and his faith untarnished by it has certainly deserved humiliation in this world, and his humiliation and disgrace in the Hereafter will be greater. Surely the greatest treachery is treachery against the Muslim community and the ugliest deceit is deceit towards the Muslim leaders. Wassalam!"¹

211. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from his instructions that he used to write to whomever he appointed for the collection of taxes: "Move on with the fear of God who is One and has no partner. Do not frighten any Muslim. Do not pass over his lands without his consent. Do not take from him more than God's right in his wealth. When you go to a tribe, you should stay at their watering place instead of entering their houses. Then go to them maintaining your dignity, calm. When you are in their midst salute them and do not be negligent in greeting and respecting them.

Tell them: "O servants of God, the vicegerent of God and His caliph has sent me to you to collect from you God's right in your wealth. Is there anything of His right in your wealth? If so, give it to His vicegerent." If someone says no, then do not repeat the demand [accept his plea]. If someone speaks to you in the affirmative, then go with him without frightening him, threatening him, making him nervous or behaving with tyranny. Take what he gives you such as gold or silver (coins). If he has cattle or camels do not enter upon them save with his permission, because the major part is his. Therefore, when you get there do not enter upon them as one who has full control over them or in a violent manner.

Do not scare away and frighten any animal; do not tease and bother their owner. Divide the property into two parts and let the owner choose one. When he has chosen do not object to it. Then divide the remaining into two parts and let him choose one and when he has chosen do not raise any objection. Continue like this till only that much remains which is enough to satisfy God's dues, then take God's due from it. If he still disputes your action allow his views, then mix the two (separated) parts and repeat what you had done before until you take God's due from his wealth.

Do not take an old, decrepit, broken, limbed, sick or unsound animal. Do not entrust them (for custody) except to one whom you are confident of his faith and takes care of Muslims' wealth until he hands it over to their chief to distribute it. Do not entrust the animal to anyone except a well wisher, God-fearing, trustworthy and watchful, and a person who is not harsh on Muslims' wealth nor makes them exhausted too much, nor tires them, nor labors them. Then send to us all that you have collected and we shall deal with it as God has ordered.

When your trustee takes over (the animal) tell him that he should not separate the she-camel from its young and not to milk so much that nothing is left for its young and also that he should not exhaust it in riding, and should treat it and all rest fairly. He should allow camels (that are tired) to rest, and drive with ease those whose hoofs have been rubbed off. When passing a water spring he should take the camels there for drinking and should not take them away from vegetated land to barren paths. He should allow them rest now and then and give them time near water and grass. In this way when they reach us by will of God they will be fat with plenty of marrow and would not be fatigued or distressed. We will then distribute them according to the (commands of) the Book of God and the sunna of His Prophet (ṣ.a.w.). Certainly this will be a great source of reward for you and a means to secure your salvation by the will of God."¹

212. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Investigate the situation of the land tax in a manner that will rectify the state of those who pay it, for in the correctness of the land tax and the welfare of the taxpayers is the welfare of others. The welfare of others will not be achieved except through them, for the people, all of them, are dependent upon the land tax and those who pay it. Let your care for the prosperity of the earth be deeper than your care for the collecting of land tax, for it will not be gathered except in prosperity. Whoever exacts land tax without prosperity has desolated the land and destroyed the servants (of God). His affairs will remain in order but briefly. So if your subjects complain of burden, of blight, of the cutting off of irrigation water, of lack of rain, or of the transformation of the earth through its being inundated by a flood or ruined by drought, lighten (their burden) to the extent you wish their affairs to be rectified. And let not anything by which you have lightened their burden weigh heavily against you, for it is a store which they will return to you by bringing about prosperity in your land and embellishing your rule. You will gain their fairest praise and pride yourself at the spreading forth of justice among them. You will be able to depend upon the increase in their strength (resulting) from what you stored away with them when you gave them ease; and upon their trust, since you accustomed them to your justice toward them through your kindness to them. Then perhaps matters will arise which afterwards they will undertake gladly if in these you depend upon them, for prosperity will carry that with which you burden it. Truly the destruction of the earth only results from the destitution of its inhabitants, and its inhabitants become destitute only when rulers concern themselves with amassing (wealth), when they have misgivings about the endurance (of their own rule) and when they profit little from warning examples."¹
213. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar (as narrated in Tuhaf al-Uqūl): "Gather tax-payers of all the regions under your dominion and order them to inform you of the situations of their regions including ways of prosperity and the ease in the collection of taxes. Then check the views raised by the experts other than tax-payers. If they complain of heaviness of taxes, or problem caused by the severing of the irrigation water, or of a change in the condition of the land either due to flood or drought or pestilence, you should remit the tax to the extent that you hope God will improve their position. If they seek help in rectifying what they can do with their own fortune, you should assist them; for your assistance will bring about prosperity.

The remission granted for the removal of distress from them should not be grudged by you, because it is an investment which they will return to you in the form of prosperity of your country, the progress of your dominion, the earning of their praise, well intention and happiness in addition to those which Allah makes easy for you to attract. The land tax cannot be collected through fatigue and exhaustion, yet, it is what you can depend upon. Besides, if something happens, you can depend upon them, that is because of the strength you preserved abundantly for yourself in them through catering for them and also because of their trust in you that you have gained through always treating them justly and also because you have shown to them that you have understood their excuses concerning the matters you relied on them and they happily accepted them. Indeed prosperity of towns guarantees what you expect and impose and the poverty and ruin of the land is because of the poverty of its people and people become poor when rulers turn towards extravagancy. As a result there remains very little hope for them (rulers) to remain in their post because of benefiting little from past lessons."¹

عَلَيْهِ مَالٌ مِنْ أَصْبَهَانَ، فَخَطَبَ النَّاسَ، وَقَالَ: أَغْدُوا إِلَيَّ عَطَاءَ رَابِعٍ؛ فَوَاللَّهِ مَا أَنَا

وَكَانَ فِي عَطَائِهِ أُسْوَةٌ لِلنَّاسِ؛ يَأْخُذُ كَمَا يَأْخُذُ الْوَاحِدُ مِنْهُمْ.⁴

217. Faḍā’il al-Ṣaḥāba – narrating from Muḥammad al-Taymī: “‘Alī (a.s.) would order the treasury to be swept and sprinkled with water. After that he would perform his prayers there in the hope that it would bear witness for him on the Day of Resurrection that he did not lock up wealth from people.”²
218. Tārīkh Dimashq – narrating from Abū Ḥakīm Ṣāhib al-Ḥifā’ on the authority of his father: “‘Alī (a.s.) would distribute the collected wealth [among people] three times a year. Once, some wealth was brought to him from Isfahan and he said: ‘Proceed for the fourth distribution. Certainly I am not the one who amasses [wealth].’”

[The narrator says] “He distributed the ropes and some people took [their share] and some refused to take.”³

219. Murūj al-Dhabab – regarding the events of the year 38 AH / 658 CE: “‘Alī’s (a.s.) companions received from him their provisions three times a year, depending on whatever wealth he would receive. He then received some wealth from Isfahan and he said: ‘The fourth distribution shall be next morning. By God, I am not the one who amasses [wealth].’”

Equality in Distributing Public Assets

227. al-Ikhtisāṣ - describing the characteristics and virtues of Imam 'Ali (a.s.): "He made equal distributions and practiced justice among citizens. He appointed 'Ammār ibn Yāsir and Abu Haytham ibn Tayyhan as directors of the treasury of Madīna and wrote to them: "The Arabs, Qurayshites, Anṣārs, non-Arabs and whoever is a Muslim, whether from among the Arab or non Arab tribes are all equal."

Sahl Ibn Ḥanīf brought a freed black slave to him and asked: "How much would you give him?"

The Commander of the Faithful asked him: "How much have you received?"

He replied: "Three dīnārs. The others have received the same amount."

Then, later you can return to the best of your character that God has bestowed on you, which is making equal distributions and practicing justice among citizens.'"

The Commander of the Faithful said: "Woe onto you! You are commanding me to seek support by doing injustice and inequity to the Muslims over whom I have been chosen as a guardian. The Arab woman said, "O Commander of the Faithful! I am an Arab and she is a non-Arab."

Then he ordered a man to go along with them to the market and to buy for each one of them a measurement of corn, three pieces of clothes –dresses, scarves, and veils– and to give one hundred dirhams from his own grants to each one of them.

When they returned, one of them unveiled her face and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! Favor me by what God has favored and honored you."

He asked: "How has Allah favored and honored me?"

She said: "By the Messenger of Allah (s.a.w.)."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "You are right, who are you?"

She said: "I am an Arab woman and this woman is a freed slave."

When he saw the abundance of wealth, he said:

"This is my harvest, and the best of it."

Then he distributed the wealth among his companions, who consisted of twelve thousand people, giving six thousand dirhams to each one of them. He took for himself the same amount as others. An Explanation on the Method of Distribution of Public Revenue in Early Islam

The term "Public Treasury" in the ḥadīth texts is a general term for the public income of the Muslims that is left to the Islamic state to be spent. A comprehensive study of ḥadīth (narrations) reveals that there are two categories of expenditure for the public treasury: the specific and the general.

1. Specific Expenditure

This category includes a series of public expenditure that has specific titles, such as: providing for the poor, the needy, the disabled and the families of martyrs; providing salaries for judges and troops; education and health care; the prisoners expenditures; [discharging the] debts of the [desperate] debtors; [discharging] blood money (diya) for the murdered who had no personal perpetrators; the developing and building of cities, etc.

2. General Expenditure

In early Islam, after providing for the specific expenditure, the surplus of public treasury was distributed among the Muslims. In ḥadīth texts, this type of expenditure is referred to as the people's general right in the public treasury.

The ideal distribution of the public treasury from an Islamic viewpoint relies on two fundamental features: 1) Observing justice and fairness in distribution, 2) Not locking up any public assets.

1. Observing justice in distribution: Economic justice in the distribution of public facilities in Islam, incorporates two main criteria: giving priority to social welfare and fulfilling the needs of the underprivileged and vulnerable strata and increasing their welfare; observing justice regarding equal entitlements.

The clearest instance of these two criteria is seen in Imām 'Alī's (a.s.) distribution policies. In his letters to his governors, he would always assert the allocation of part of treasury resources to the underprivileged and the low-income class. His strong emphasis on canceling undue and ambiguous privileges and granting equal rights to relatives and non-relatives, Arabs and non-Arabs, men and women, the famous and the unknown has displayed a brilliant image of human justice to those searching for justice in the world.

2. Not locking up public assets: Hastening in spending (infāq) and the avoidance of locking up public assets are among the basic characteristics of economic policies in Islam. Despite its emphasis on the necessity of moderation and even planning and precautions in spending, Islam has strongly condemned the locking up of the public property and stressed on speed in disbursement.

Considering the two above features, the ideal practice of spending from the public treasury can be stated as follows: Whenever part of the (state's) incomes is dedicated through certain planning to a particular purpose in a way that both the income and the expense are immediate, delay in spending in such cases is regarded as 'storing' and 'parsimony', and that is what the ḥadīths concerning the 'avoidance of accumulating public property' refer to.

The holy Prophet's (ṣ.a.w.) concern for observing this principle was so great that when even a small amount of the property that was supposed to be handed over to those who were entitled to it, remained in his hand, he would become very sorrowful. In the time of 'Umar, when there had been an unprecedented increase in public incomes, the government proceeded to establish public treasury and to set up state council. The public incomes were collected and stored all year round then finally distributed among Muslims at the end of the year.

Rejecting this policy, Imām 'Alī (a.s.) took up the Prophet's (ṣ.a.w.) procedure in this respect after he took reign over the government. His avoidance of delaying the distribution of the public treasury, even for a single night, and his emphasis on distributing what existed in the public treasury and even the dividing of a rope into seven portions indicates his great concern for refraining from piling up public property.

Supporting Lowest Class

250. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from his letter to Qutham ibn 'Abbās: "See into what has been collected with you of the funds of God (in the public treasury) and spend it on those around you from among the people with families, distressed, the starving and the empty-handed. Send the remaining to us for distribution among those who are next to us (throughout the state)."¹
251. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Then (fear) God, (fear) God regarding the lowest class, the wretched, the needy, those suffering and the disabled who have no means at their disposal, for in this class there is he who begs and he who is needy (but does not beg). Be heedful for God's sake of those rights of theirs, which He has entrusted to you. Set aside for them a share of your treasury and a share from the crops of the lands taken over as booty for Islam in every area, for to the farthest away of them belongs the equivalent of what belongs to the nearest. You are bound to observe the right of each of them; therefore be not distracted from them by arrogance, for you will not be excused, if attending to the important affairs, you neglect the small matter and trifling. So avert not your solicitude from them and turn not your face away from them in contempt."

"Attend to the affairs of those (of the lowest class) who are unable to gain access to you, those upon whom eyes disdain to gaze and whom men regard with scorn. Appoint to attend exclusively to them a person whom you trust from among the God-fearing and humble and let him submit to you their affairs (demands). Then act towards them in a manner that will absolve you before Allah on the day that you meet Him. For among the subjects these are more in need of equity than others; in the case of each of them prepare your excuse with Allah by accomplishing for him his rightful due."

'Ali (a.s.) returned and was distressed throughout the whole night. When the morning dawned, he took a basket of food on his back. Some people said: "Let us carry it for you."

He said: "Who will carry my sins for me on the day of Resurrection?"

Then he went to her house and knocked at the door.

The woman asked: "Who are you?"

'Ali (a.s.) replied: "The one who carried your water container for you yesterday. Open the door; I have brought some food for your children."

The woman said: "May God be pleased with you and judge between me and 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭālib."

١. كذا في المصدر وبحار الأنوار، ومقتضى القواعد النحوية المعمول بها اليوم أن يقال: «أن تعجني وتخزي... وتعللي» لمكان «أن» الناصبة للفعل المضارع. لكن ذكر صاحب النحو الوافي أن بعض القبائل العربية يهملها، فلا ينصب بها المضارع برغم استيفائها شروط نصبه: كقراءة من قرأ قوله تعالى: (وَأَلْوَ لَذْتُ يُرْضِعُنَّ أَوْلَادَهُنَّ حَوْلَيْنِ كَامِلَيْنِ لِمَنْ أَرَادَ أَنْ يُنْمِ الرِّضَاعَةَ) يرفع المضارع «ينمن» على اعتبار «أن» مصدرية مهمله. والآنسب اليوم ترك هذه اللغة لأهلها، والاختصار على الإعمال حرصاً على الإبانة، وتبعاً عن الإلباس (النحو الوافي: ج 4 ص 267).

baking bread or amusing the children and I will make bread?"

The woman said: "I am more acquainted with the baking and more capable of it. You stay with the children and keep them amused until I finish with the baking of bread." Then the woman took the flour and kneaded it and 'Ali (a.s.) picked up the meat, cooked it and made morsels of dates, meat and other foodstuff and put them in the children's mouth. Every time the children swallowed a mouthful, he would tell them: "My child! Forgive 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭalib for what has befallen you!"

While the woman kneaded the flour, she said: "O Servant of God! Make some fire in the oven!" 'Ali (a.s.) hastened to make the fire and when it flared up and the heat touched his face, he said: "O 'Ali! Taste it! This is the punishment of he who neglects the widows and the orphans."

Another woman who knew 'Ali (a.s.) saw him and she said to the widow: "Woe onto you! This is the Commander of the Faithful!"

The narrator said: "The woman hastily said: "I am ashamed before you, O Commander of the Faithful!"

'Ali (a.s.) said: "I feel ashamed before you, O servant of God, since I fell short of your affairs."¹

260. Kashf al-Yaqīn: "It is reported that one night 'Ali (a.s.) passed by a woman whose little children were crying out of hunger. The woman was amusing and playing with them to make them go to sleep, while she had set up a fire under a pot that contained just water so that the children would think that there is some food in the pot being cooked for them.

The Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) found out about the woman's condition. He went to his house along with Qanbar and he took a basket of dates; a sack of flour; some fat, rice and bread and put them on his back. Qanbar asked if he could carry it himself, but he (a.s.) refused.

When he reached the woman's house, he asked permission to enter and the woman allowed him in. He put some rice in a pot together with some fat and when he finished preparing the food, he called the children and asked them to eat. When they became full, he began to hop around the room (mimicking the actions of a lamb) and bleating and making the children laugh.

When they left the house, Qanbar said: "O my master! I saw something astonishing tonight and I understood the reason for it that is your carrying of the food which was for the sake of earning reward, but I did not know the reason for your hopping around the room and bleating!"

The Imām (a.s.) said: "O Qanbar! I went to see these children while they were crying from starvation and I wanted to leave them while they are full and laughing. I found no way to make them laugh other than the way I did."¹

270. al-Ikhtiyās: “A gift from the sea was brought for ‘Ali (a.s.) from Baṣra whose price was not known, so his daughter Umm Kulthūm said to him: “O Commander of the Faithful! Will you give it to me to wear it around my neck as ornament?”

The Imām said: “O Abū Rāfi’! Put it in the Treasury! It is impossible, except when all Muslim women have one like that.”²

271. al-Muṣannaf – narrated by Abū Rāfi’ who was ‘Ali’s (a.s.) treasurer: “I gave ‘Ali’s (a.s.) daughter a pearl from the Treasury, of which the Commander of the Faithful had knowledge, to ornament herself with. He saw it on her and he asked: “Where did she get this from? I am responsible in front of God to cut off her hand.”

Abū Rāfi’ said: “When I found out about this, I said: ‘O Commander of the Faithful! I gave it to my brother’s daughter, otherwise where could she have gotten it from?’ When he heard this, he kept silent.”³

فَقَالَتْ لِي: بَلَّغْنِي أَنَّ فِي بَيْتِ مَالِ أَمِيرِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ ؑ عِقْدُ لَوْلُو وَهُوَ فِي يَدِكَ، وَأَنَا أَحِبُّ أَنْ تُعِيرَنِيهِ أَتَجَمَّلُ بِهِ فِي أَيَّامِ عِيدِ الْأَضْحَى، فَأَرْسَلْتُ إِلَيْهَا: عَارِيَّةٌ مَضْمُونَةٌ مَرْدُودَةٌ يَا بِنْتَ أَمِيرِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ؟

فَقَالَتْ: نَعَمْ، عَارِيَّةٌ مَضْمُونَةٌ مَرْدُودَةٌ بَعْدَ ثَلَاثَةِ أَيَّامٍ، فَدَفَعْتُهَ إِلَيْهَا. وَإِنَّ أَمِيرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ ؑ رَأَاهُ عَلَيْهَا فَعَرَفَهُ.

فَقَالَ لَهَا: مِنْ أَيْنَ صَارَ إِلَيْكَ هَذَا الْعِقْدُ؟

فَقَالَتْ: اسْتَعْرَضْتُهُ مِنْ عَلِيٍّ بْنِ أَبِي رَافِعٍ خَازِنِ بَيْتِ مَالِ أَمِيرِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ لِاتِّزَانِهِ فِي الْعِيدِ ثُمَّ أَرَدَهُ.

فَقَالَ لِي: أَتَخُونُ الْمُسْلِمِينَ يَا بِنْتَ أَبِي رَافِعٍ؟!

فَقُلْتُ لَهُ: مَعَاذَ اللَّهِ أَنْ أَخُونَ الْمُسْلِمِينَ!

فَقُلْتُ: يَا أَمِيرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ، إِنَّهَا ابْنَتُكَ وَسَأَلْتَنِي أَنْ أُعِيرَهَا إِيَّاهُ تَتَرَتَّبُ بِهِ؛ فَأَعَرْتُهَا إِيَّاهُ عَارِيَّةً مَضْمُونَةً مَرْدُودَةً، فَضَمِنْتُهُ فِي مَالِي، وَعَلَيَّ أَنْ أَرُدَّهُ سَلِيمًا إِلَى مَوْضِعِهِ.

272. Tahdhīb al-Aḥkām – narrating from ‘Ali ibn Abī Rāfi’: “I was the treasurer and scribe of the Commander of the Faithful and there was a necklace in his Treasury which had been obtained in the battle of Baṣra.

The daughter of ‘Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib (a.s.) sent a message to me saying: “I have heard that there is a pearl necklace in the Treasury of the Commander of the Faithful and that it is at your disposal. I would like you to lend it to me to wear during the celebration of ‘Īd al-aḍḥā.”

I replied the message asking: “O Daughter of the Commander of the Faithful! Is it as a guaranteed loan to be returned?”

She replied: “It is a guaranteed loan to be returned in three days.” So I handed it over to her. The Commander of the Faithful found it with her and recognized it and he asked: “How did this necklace happen to be with you?”

She said: “I borrowed it from ‘Ali ibn Abī Rāfi’, the treasurer of the Commander of the Faithful in order to wear it as an ornament during ‘Īd al-aḍḥā and then return it to him.”

The Commander of the Faithful sent for me and I went to him. He told me: “O Son of Abū Rāfi’! Are you betraying the Muslims?!”

I said: “I seek refuge in God from betraying the Muslims.”

He said: “How did you lend to the daughter of the Commander of the Faithful a necklace from the treasury of the Muslims without my permission and their consent?”

I said: “O Commander of the Faithful! She is your daughter and she asked me to lend it to her to wear it as an ornament so I lent it to her as a loan guaranteed to be returned; and I guaranteed it with my own wealth and it is upon me to return it safely to its place.”

قال: فَرَدُّهُ مِنْ يَوْمِكَ، وَإِيَّاكَ أَنْ تَعُودَ لِمِثْلِ هَذَا فَتَنَالَكَ عُقُوبَتِي! ثُمَّ قَالَ:
أُولَى لِابْنَتِي لَوْ كَانَتْ أَخَذَتْ الْعِقْدَ عَلَى غَيْرِ عَارِيَّةٍ مَضمُونَةٍ مَرْدُودَةٍ لَكَانَتْ إِذَا
قال: فَبَلَغَ مَقَالَتَهُ ابْنَتَهُ، فَقَالَتْ لَهُ:

يَا أَمِيرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ، أَنَا ابْنَتُكَ وَبَضْعَةٌ مِنْكَ، فَمَنْ أَحَقُّ بِبَيْسِهِ مِنِّي!
فَقَالَ لَهَا أَمِيرُ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ: يَا بِنْتُ عَلِيٍّ بْنِ أَبِي طَالِبٍ! لَا تَدْهِنِينَ بِنَفْسِكَ عَنِ
الْحَقِّ، أَكُلَّ نِسَاءِ الْمُهَاجِرِينَ تَتَزَيَّنِينَ فِي هَذَا الْعِيدِ بِمِثْلِ هَذَا!^١
قال: فَخَبَضَتْهُ مِنْهَا وَرَدَدَتْهُ إِلَى مَوْضِعِهِ.^٢

He said: "Return it today! Take care that this should not be repeated or you will receive my punishment!"

Then he said: "I swear that if my daughter had taken that necklace by any means other than the way of a guaranteed loan to be returned, she would have been the first Hāshimī woman that I would have had her hand cut off for theft."

The words reached her daughter and she told her father: "O Commander of the Faithful! I am your daughter and part of your flesh. Who is more deserving to wear it than I am?"

The Commander of the Faithful said to her: "O daughter of 'Ali ibn Abī Ṭalib! Do not be tempted by your desires to ignore the truth. Do all the women of the Muhājirīn ornament themselves on this 'Id with such a necklace?"

'Ali ibn Abī Rāfi' said: "I took the necklace from her and returned it to its place."¹

The [narrator] says: "[At this time] 'Aqīl stood up and said to him: "By God, will you equate between me and a black man in Madīna?"

The Imām said: "Sit down! Was there no other person than you to speak? You have no precedence over him [the black man] except by precedence in religion or Godwariness."²

274. Imām 'Alī (a.s.): "By God, I would rather pass a night in wakefulness on prickly thorns or be driven in chains as a prisoner than to meet God and His Messenger on the Day of Resurrection as an oppressor of some people and a usurper of some worldly wealth. How can I oppress any one for the sake of a life that is fast moving towards destruction and [a body which] is to remain under the earth for a long time? By God, I saw [my brother] 'Aqīl fallen in destitution and he asked me for a *ṣā'*¹ out of your wheat. I also saw his children with messy hair and a dusty face due to starvation, as though their faces had been blackened by an indigo color. He came to me several times and repeated his request to me again and again. I heard him and he thought I would sell my faith to him and I would follow his path leaving my own way. Then I heated a piece of iron and took it near his body so that he might take a lesson from it, and he cried the way a person in protracted illness cries with pain and he was about to get burnt with its branding. Then I said to him: "May moaning women moan over you, O 'Aqīl! Do you cry on account of this iron which has been heated by a man for fun while you are dragging me towards the fire which Almighty God has prepared for [a manifestation of] His wrath? Should you cry from pain, but I should not cry from the (Divine) Furnace?"²

'Aqīl said: "Is there nothing else beside what I see?"

'Alī (a.s.) said: "Is this not God's blessings? All praise be to Him."

'Aqīl said; "Give me some money to discharge my debt and be quick to fulfill my request so that I may go away from you."

He asked him: "O Abū Yazīd! How much is your debt?" He said: "One hundred thousand dirhams."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "By God, there is not such an amount of money with me and I do not own this much; but wait until I receive my share [of the treasury] so that I help you with half of it and if it were not for the needs of my household, I would grant it all to you."

'Aqīl said: "The treasury is at your disposal and you put me off to [the time of receiving] your own share? Now, how much is your share? And if you give your entire share to me, how much would it be?"

He said: "You and I are [treated] like anyone of the Muslims in this wealth."

They were talking together on top of dār al-bukūma (the seat of rule) overlooking the [safe] boxes of the marketers and 'Ali (a.s.) told him: "O Abū Yazīd! If you do not accept my words, go down, break the boxes, and take what is in there!"

'Aqīl said: "What is in these boxes?"

He replied: "The wealth of the traders."

'Aqīl said: "Do you command me to break the boxes of the people who have trusted God and placed their wealth in there?"

The Commander of the Faithful said: "Do you command me to break into the treasury of the Muslims and give their wealth to you while they have trusted God and locked it? If you like, take your sword and I will also take my sword and go to Hira,¹ as wealthy merchants live there and we will ambush them and take their wealth!"

'Aqīl said: "Did I come here as a thief?"

٦. قوله: «في ذمة علي بن أبي طالب مقل الكراكي» استفهام استكزاري حذفت منه أداة الاستفهام؛ وكان مفاده: أن ما يقبل في بيته من اللحم في ذمته ومحاسب عليه إن كان دخوله بيته من غير ما أحله الله له. وكأنه: «غير الكراكي كناية عن اللحم الطيب؛ فإن الكراكي - كما عن ابن الأثير - جمع كركرة: زور [صدر] البعير الذي إذا برك أصاب الأرض، وهي نائمة عن جسمه كالفرصة. ومنه حديث عمر: «أما أجهل عن كراكي وأسنمة» فإنها من أطيب ما يؤكل من الإبل (النهاية: ج 4 ص 166).

287. al-Ghārāt – narrating from Zādān: "I went together with Qanbar to visit 'Ali (a.s.) and Qanbar said to him: "O Commander of the Faithful! Stand up as I have hidden something valuable for you."

He asked: "What is it?"

Qanbar said: "Come with me."

'Ali (a.s.) stood up and left for his home and there he saw bags full of gold and silver cups. Qanbar said: "O Commander of the Faithful! You do not leave anything without dividing it, so I saved these for you."

'Ali (a.s.) said: "You liked to bring a huge fire into my house! Then he unsheathed his sword and struck down on the cups and cleaved each into two or three parts. He then said: "Divide them into portions!" They did so, and then he uttered the following poem:

This is my harvest, and the best of it is in it;

Yet, every harvester put it with his own hand in his own mouth.

288. al-Ikhtisās – concerning the food of Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "He heard [the sizzling of] meat being roasted in his house and he rose to his feet and said: "Woe betide 'Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib if he eats this roasted meat (karakar)?"²

The narrator goes on to say: "His family got scared and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! A camel has been slaughtered

Establishing Justice

291. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – in his letter to Ibn 'Abbās: "Your envoy came to me and you have reported what you have seen or heard concerning the people of Baṣra after my return. I will now inform you about those people: They are either a group who desire something and aspire to obtain it, or one who are afraid of a punishment. So, make the eager ones hopeful by doing justice, being fair and doing good to them."¹
292. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Let the dearest of your affairs be those which are the nearest of them to rightfulness, most inclusive in justice and most comprehensive in (establishing) the pleasure of the subjects. ...Verily the foremost delight of the eye for rulers is the establishment of justice in the land and the appearance of friendship among the subjects."²
293. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – in his letter to Aswad ibn Quṭba, the commander of the Ḥulwān troops: "Now, if the governor's passions and desires increase, then he will be greatly hampered in justice. All people should be equal in right before you, for there is nothing in tyranny and oppression to substitute for justice. So avoid what you would not like for yourself."³

294. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "This is the commandment of the servant of God the Commander of the Faithful 'Ali to Muḥammad ibn Abī Bakr when he appointed him as the governor of Egypt. He ordered him to be wary of God, secretly and openly; to fear God in privacy and in public; to be gentle with Muslims; to be hard on the evil-doers; to do justice to those under the protective covenant (ahl al-dhimmah from among non Muslims); to be fair to the oppressed and severe to the oppressors; to pardon people and to be charitable to them as much as possible; God will reward the righteous and punish the sinful."¹
295. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his commandment to Muḥammad ibn Abī Bakr when he appointed him as the governor of Egypt: "Behave humbly with the people, keep yourself lenient, meet them with cheerfulness, accord them equal treatment so that the big should not expect injustice from you in their favor and the low should not be despondent of your justice to them. O group of His servants, God the Sublime will certainly question you about your actions, small or big, manifest or concealed. If He punishes you, it is because you have been oppressive, and if He forgives, then it is because He is the Most Generous."²
296. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from his words when he was reproached for showing equality in the distribution (of shares from the public treasury): "Do you command me that I should seek support by oppressing those over whom I have been placed as ruler? By God, I will never do so as long as the world goes on and as long as one star leads another in the sky! Even if it was my wealth, I would have distributed it equally among them, so how would be the case when the wealth is that of God."³
297. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "By God, I would rather pass a night in wakefulness on prickly thorns or be driven in chains as a prisoner than meet God and His Messenger on the Day of Judgment as an oppressor over any person or a usurper of anything out of worldly wealth. How can I oppress any one for the sake of a life that is fast moving towards destruction and [the body that] is to remain under the earth for a long time?"⁴

He therefore left for Shām and attended the Battle of Siffin along with Mu'āwiya and remained beside him until 'Ali (a.s.) was killed. After the uprising of Imam Ḥusain (a.s.), he left Kūfa so that the Imam would not enter Kūfa while he was there, as he said: "By God, I do not want to see him nor should he see me."

ثم ثار هو وأولاده فقتل ونهب، ولم يقتصر على نهب الأموال الشخصية بل نهب الأموال العامة. واستمر في ثورته زمان المختار ومصعب، وانتهى به الأمر إلى موازنة عبد الملك بن مروان، وقتل في الحرب مع جيش مصعب (تاريخ الطبري: ج 6 ص 128 - 138).

out between 'Ali (a.s.) and Mu'āwiya, he ['Ubaydullah] went towards Mu'āwiya and remained with him because of his love for 'Uthmān. He and Mālik ibn Misma' accompanied Mu'āwiya in the battle of Şiffin. 'Ubaydullah stayed with Mu'āwiya and his wife was in Kūfa and since his separation lasted long, his brother-in-law married her off to someone called 'Ikrama ibn Khabīs. When 'Ubaydullah was informed about this, he left for Kūfa and went to 'Ali (a.s.) to make a complaint against 'Ikrama.

'Ali (a.s.) told him: "You helped out the enemy and now you are infuriated?"

'Ubaydullah said: "Will this deprive me of your justice?"

The Imām said: "No."

۳۳ When Imām Ḥusain (a.s.) entered Qaṣr Banī Maqātil (one of the rest areas between Mecca and Kūfa) and saw his tent, he sent one of his companions to him ['Ubaydallah] to call him for his assistance, but he did not reply. Imām Ḥusain (a.s.) put on his shoes and went to him, he greeted him and sat down. Then he invited him to join the uprising, but he did not accept.

After Imām Ḥusain (a.s.) was killed, 'Ubaydallah went to visit Ibn Ziyād who had reprimanded him for not helping the troops of Yazīd against Imām Ḥusain (a.s.). He then held back his tears and left for the land of Karbala. He observed the battlefield and asked for God's forgiveness for them and composed a long poem in which he praised Imām Ḥusain (a.s.) and his martyred companions, showing his repentance and pity for not joining them in the uprising against the trickster tyrants of the time.

He and his children rose up and turned to fighting and robbery. He robbed not only private but also public property. His uprising continued through the time of Mukhtār and Muṣ'ab, ending up to his cooperation with 'Abd al-Malik ibn Marwān. He was killed when confronting the troops of Muṣ'ab. Then he told his story to 'Ali (a.s.) and he returned his wife to him. She was pregnant, so he left her with someone whom he trusted until she gave birth to her child and he handed the child to 'Ikrima and returned the woman to 'Ubaydullah. I told 'Umar: "One of the administrators of 'Ali ibn Abī Tālib (a.s.) had sent him a similar letter and he had replied to him as follows: "Now, fortify the city with Justice and clean the tyranny off its pathway!" 'Umar wrote the same reply to his administrator."²

Commitment to Rights

303. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in the Battle of Šiffin: "God the Glorified has made incumbent upon you some rights for me by placing me over your affairs (being your ruler) and you too have a right over me like mine over you. The truth is very encompassing in its description but very narrow [difficult] in its application.

Right does not apply in favor of any person unless it applies against him also, and it does not apply against a person unless it also applies in his favor. It is only Allah the Glorified that has rights over others without them having any rights over Him and that is by virtue of His Might over His creatures and by virtue of the justice permeating all of His decrees. He the Glorified has made His right over creatures that they should obey Him and He has laid upon Himself to reward them several times as a mark of His bounty and the generosity that He is worthy of.

Then, from His rights, He the Glorified assigned certain rights for certain people against others. He made them so as to equate with one another. Some of these rights produce other rights. Some rights are such that they do not apply except when

بِبَعْضٍ، وَأَعْظَمُ مَا افْتَرَضَ سُبْحَانَهُ مِنْ تِلْكَ الْحُقُوقِ حَقُّ الْوَالِي عَلَى الرَّعِيَّةِ، وَحَقُّ
الرَّعِيَّةِ عَلَى الْوَالِي، فَرِيضَةٌ فَرَضَهَا اللَّهُ سُبْحَانَهُ لِكُلِّ عَلَى كُلِّ، فَجَعَلَهَا نِظَاماً
لِلْكَفَيْتِهِمْ، وَعِزّاً لِدِينِهِمْ، فَلَيْسَتْ تَصْلُحُ الرَّعِيَّةُ إِلَّا بِصَلَاحِ الْوَلَاةِ، وَلَا تَصْلُحُ

وَقَامَتِ مَنَاهِجُ الدِّينِ، وَاعْتَدَلَتْ مَعَالِمُ الْعَدْلِ، وَجَرَتْ عَلَى أَذْلَاهَا الشُّنَنُ، فَصَلَحَ

وظَهَرَتِ مَعَالِمُ الْجَوْرِ، وَكَثُرَ الْإِدْغَالُ فِي الدِّينِ، وَثَرَكَتْ نَحَاجُ الشُّنَنِ، فَعُمِلَ
بَاهْوَى، وَعُطِّلَتِ الْأَحْكَامُ، وَكَثُرَتْ عِلَلُ النُّفُوسِ، فَلَا يُسْتَوْحَشُ لِعَظِيمِ حَقِّ

فَهُنَالِكَ تَذَلُّ الْأَبْرَارِ، وَتَعِزُّ الْأَشْرَارِ، وَتَعْظُمُ تَبِعَاتُ اللَّهِ سُبْحَانَهُ عِنْدَ الْعِبَادِ،
فَعَلَيْكُمْ بِالتَّنَاضُحِ فِي ذَلِكَ، وَحُسْنِ التَّعَاوُنِ عَلَيْهِ، فَلَيْسَ أَحَدٌ - وَإِنْ اشْتَدَّ عَلَى
وَلَكِنْ مِنْ وَاجِبِ حُقُوقِ اللَّهِ عَلَى عِبَادِهِ: النَّصِيحَةُ بِمَبْلَغِ جُهِدِهِمْ، وَالتَّعَاوُنُ
عَلَى إِقَامَةِ الْحَقِّ بَيْنَهُمْ، وَلَيْسَ امْرُؤٌ - وَإِنْ عَظُمَتْ فِي الْحَقِّ مَنَزِلَتُهُ، وَتَقَدَّمَتْ فِي
الدِّينِ فَضِيلَتُهُ - بِفَوْقِ أَنْ يُعَانَ عَلَى مَا حَمَلَهُ اللَّهُ مِنْ حَقِّهِ. وَلَا امْرُؤٌ - وَإِنْ صَغُرَتْ
النُّفُوسُ، وَاقْتَحَمَتِ الْعُيُونُ - بِدُونِ أَنْ يُعِينَ عَلَى ذَلِكَ أَوْ يُعَانَ عَلَيْهِ.^١

others do. The greatest of these rights that God Almighty has made obligatory is the right of the ruler over the ruled and the right of the ruled over the ruler. This is an obligation which God the Glorified has placed on each one against the other. He has made it the basis of their (mutual) relations and honor for their religion. Consequently, the ruled cannot prosper unless the rulers are sound, while the rulers cannot be sound unless the ruled are steadfast.

If the ruled fulfill the rights of the ruler and the ruler fulfils their rights, then rights attain the position of honor among them, the ways of religion become established, signs of justice become fixed and the traditions (sunna) are carried out. In this way time will improve, the continuance of government will be expected and the aims of the enemies will be frustrated.

But if the subjects overcome the ruler or the ruler oppresses his subjects, then differences will arise, signs of oppression will appear, wile will enter the religion and the traditions (sunna) will become forsaken. Then desires are acted upon, the commands (of religion) are discarded, diseases of the soul become numerous and there is no fear for disregarding even great rights nor for the committing of major wrongs.

In such circumstances, the virtuous are humiliated while the vicious are honored and there are serious punishments from God almighty on the people.

You should therefore counsel each other (for the fulfillment of your obligations) and cooperate with each other. However extremely eager a person may be to secure the pleasure of God and however fully he strives for it, he cannot discharge (his obligation for) obedience to God Almighty as is really due to Him.

It is an obligatory right of God over the people that they should advise each other to the best of their ability and cooperate with each other for the establishment of truth among them. No person, however great his position in the matter of truth and however advanced his distinction in religion may be, is above needing help in connection with the obligations placed on him by God. No man, however small he may be regarded by others or however humble he may appear before eyes, is too low to assist or to be afforded assistance in this matter."¹

Kindness to the Subjects and Love for them

317. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – in his instructions to Malik al-Ashtar: "Infuse your heart with mercy, love and kindness for your subjects. Be not in face of them a voracious animal, counting them as easy prey, for they are either your brothers in religion or your like in creation. Forbidding Fault-finding

339. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Certainly people are subject to faults, so do not uncover what is concealed from you; for God the Glorified will judge about it. Veil imperfection as much as you are able to and God will veil what you would like to be veiled."¹
340. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Let the furthest of your subjects and the most hateful to you be he who most seeks out the faults of men. For people have faults, which the ruler more than anyone else should conceal. So do not uncover those of them that are hidden from you, for it is only incumbent upon you to remedy what appears before you. God will judge what is hidden from you. So veil imperfections as much as you are able to and God will veil what you would like to be veiled from your subjects."²

Uncovering Excuses to Remove Suspicions

344. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "If your subjects should suspect you of an injustice, then explain to them your justification. By your explanation, turn their suspicions away from yourself. This way, you are training your self, acting kindly to your subjects and you will achieve your goal of setting them on the path of the truth."¹

Helping the Oppressed

345. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "He who does not take the rights of the oppressed from the oppressor, God will take his strength from him."²
346. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Behold, by Him who split the grain (to grow) and created living beings. If people had not come to me and supporters had not exhausted the argument and if there had been no pledge of God with the learned to the effect that they should not acquiesce in the gluttony of the oppressor and the hunger of the oppressed, I would have cast the rope of Caliphate on its own shoulders. I would have given the last one the same treatment as to the first one (i.e. leave it as before). Then you would have seen that this world of yours in my eyes is no better than the sneezing of a goat."³
347. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "O people! Support me in your own affairs. By God, I will take revenge on the oppressor on behalf of the oppressed and will put a string in the nose of the oppressor and drag him to the spring of truthfulness even though he may grudge it."⁴

350. Imām al-Bāqir: "'Ali (a.s.) was returning home in the heat [of the day] when he saw a woman standing, saying: 'My husband has wronged me, scared me, harassed me and he has threatened to beat me.'

'Ali (a.s.) said: "O Servant of God! Be patient until the weather cool off and then I will go with you if God wills."

The woman said: "His anger and fury will increase against me."

He lowered his head, then raised it and said: "By God, (I will not stop) until the right of the oppressed is secured without stammering. Where is your house?"

He went to the man's house, stopped at the door and called out: "Peace be on you (assalām alykum!)"

A young man came out and 'Ali (a.s.) said: "O Servant of God! Be wary of God! You have scared your wife and brought her forth."

The young man said: "Who are you to get involved? By God, I will burn her because of your words!"

Then the Commander of the Faithful said: "I am enjoining you to do good and refraining you from doing wrong and you respond to me with wrong and ignore the good?"

The narrator [Imām al-Bāqir (a.s.)] said: "People were gathering around and saying: 'Peace be on you O Commander of the Faithful!'"

Repentant and confused, the man said: "O Commander of the Faithful! Forgive my fault. By God, [from now on] I will be like the ground for her to step on."

'Ali (a.s.) sheathed his sword and said: "O Servant of God! Enter your house and do not force your wife into such troubles."³

He said: "I have not gone forth but to help an oppressed person or assist one who asks for help."

At this time a woman who was disheartened and bewildered came towards him. She stopped before him and said, "O Commander of the Faithful! My husband has wronged me, harassed me and threatened to beat me. Come along with me to go to him."

He lowered his head, then raised it and said: 'By God, not until the right of the oppressed is secured without stammering. Where is your house?

She said in such and such a neighborhood.

He went along with the woman until they reached her house. The woman said: "This is my house." [The narrator goes on to say] He greeted and then a man came out and he was wearing a long colorful garment. 'Ali (a.s.) told him: "Be wary of God! You have scared your wife." The young man said: "Who are you to get involved? By God, I will burn her because of your words!"

[The narrator says:] Whenever he ['Ali (a.s.)] went somewhere he would carry his whip in his hand and wear his sword. If someone was judged to be punished by whipping, he would whip him and if someone was judged to be punished with a sword, he would promptly carry it out.

All of a sudden the young man noticed that 'Ali (a.s.) had unsheathed his sword and was saying: "I am enjoining you to do good and refraining you from doing wrong and you are rejecting good? Repent! Or I will punish you."

[The narrator says:] People from the nearby alleys came towards the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) and crowded before him. [At this time] The young man repented and said: "O Commander of the Faithful Forgive me! May God forgive you [too]! By God, [from now on] I will be like the ground for her to step on."

Then he ordered the woman to go back to her house and he himself returned [home] too, while reciting: "There is no good in much of their secret talks, excepting him who enjoins charity or what is right or reconciliation between people..."¹

"Praise be to God who through me reconciled between a woman and her husband. 352. al-Kāfi – narrating from Usayd ibn Ṣafwān, a companion of the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.): “On the day of the death of the Commander of the Faithful, the town of Kūfa was quivering with the people’s weeping and the people were astounded (confused) just like the day of the Prophet’s (ṣ.a.w.) death.”

[At this time] a man came running towards us and reciting the verse “Indeed we belong to God, and to Him do we indeed return” and he said: “Today the chain of succession of Prophethood is broken off.” He stopped at the door of the house in which the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) was and said: “O Abū al-Hasan may God have Mercy upon you! You were the first of the people in [embracing] Islam and their most sincere in faith. The weak and the humiliated were powerful and honorable with you until you would secure their rights and the powerful and strong were weak and humiliated before you until you would take from them the rightful due. The distant people and the nearest ones were all the same to you in these things.”¹

Setting up the ‘House of Complaints’

Inspection to Repel the Wrongs Done by the Troops

357. Imām 'Alī (a.s.): "From the servant of God 'Alī, the Commander of the Faithful to whomever through whose jurisdiction the army passes, be they collectors of revenue or administrators of the land:

I have sent an army that will pass by you, if God wills. I have instructed them about what God has made obligatory on them, namely that they should avoid molestation and evade harm. I declare before you and based on the covenant I have with you (or those who are under your protection) that I denounce any annoyance committed by the army except when one is compelled by hunger and there is no other way of satisfying it. Then punish those who commit injustice. Prevent those who intend to do wrong to them from their injustice and avert the silly ones among you from harming them [the army] and to intervene in their affairs except in that which I have allowed. I myself am within the army, so refer to me their complaints and any hardship which is caused by them and which you cannot repel except through God and through me. I shall then repel it with the help of God, if He so wills."¹

Attempts towards Unifying the Muslim Community

Therefore they inclined towards the world and spoke out of desire. I have been struck with wonder in this matter upon which people who are self-conceited have gathered. I am providing a cure for their wound, but I fear it develops into a clot of blood (and becomes incurable). You should beware of division because the one isolated from the group is a prey to Satan just as the one isolated from the flock of sheep is a prey to the wolf."³
361. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Let Islam and its dignity keep you away from rebelliousness and blathering. Be united on one word. Hold fast to the religion of God, that beside it, no other creed would be accepted from any one; and to the word of sincerity (There is no god but Allah) which is the firm basis of religion."⁴

366. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – on warning people against disunity: "You should fear what calamities befell people before you on account of their evil deeds and detestable actions. Remember what has happened to them during good or bad circumstances and be cautious that you may become like them!"

After you have thought over both conditions of these people, attach yourself to everything with which their position became honorable and on account of which enemies remained away from them and through which safety spread over them. Attach yourself to that by which riches bowed before them and as a result of which they achieved distinction and honor. These things were all because of abstention from division, sticking to unity, calling each other to it and advising each other about it. Avoid everything which broke their backbone and weakened their power, such as malice in the heart, hatred in the chest, turning away (from each other's help) and withholding the hand from the assistance of one another!

Think about the condition of people from among the believers who passed before you. How they were in trials and distress! Were they not the most over-burdened among all the people and in the most straitened circumstances in the whole world? The Pharaohs took them as slaves. They inflicted on them the worst punishments and bitter sufferings. They continuously remained in this state of ruinous disgrace and severe subjugation. They found no plan for escape and no way for protection from sufferings until God the Glorified noticed that they were enduring troubles in His love and bearing distresses out of fear for Him, He saved them from the distress of trials. He changed their disgrace into honor and fear into safety and they became ruling kings and conspicuous leaders and God's favors over them reached that limit which their own wishes had not reached.

Look how they were when their groups were united, their views were unanimous, their hearts were upright and straight, their hands used to help one another, their swords were intended for assisting one another, their eyes were sharp and their aims were the same. Did they not become masters of all corners of the earth and rulers over the parts of the worlds? Thereafter, see what happened to them towards the end when division overtook them, unity became fractured and differences arose between their words and their hearts. They were divided into various groups and were scattered, fighting among each other and then, God took away from them the apparel of His honor and deprived them of the affluence of His favors. Only their stories have remained among you for the guidance of those who may learn lesson from them.

You should take a lesson from the fate of the progeny of Isma'il, the children of Ishaq and the children of Isra'il. How similar are their affairs and how akin are their examples. Ponder on their condition during the days of their division and disunity, when [such tyrants as] Kesras and Caesar were their masters. They turned them out from the pastures of their lands, the rivers of Iraq and the fertility of the world towards thorny forests, the passages of (hot) winds and hardships in livelihood. In this way they turned them into just herders of camels. Their houses were the worst in the world and their places of stay were the most drought-stricken. There was not one voice towards which they could turn for protection, nor any shred of affection on whose strength they could trust. Their condition was full of distress. Their hands were scattered. Their majority was divided. They were in great anguish and under layers of ignorance. They buried their daughters alive, worshipped idols, disregarded kinship and practiced robbery.

Now, look at the various favors of God upon them, when He sent forth for them a Prophet who made them to pledge their obedience to Him and made them unite through His call. [Look] how God's bounty spread the wings of its favors over them and flowed for them streams of its blessing and the whole community became wrapped in blissful prosperity. Consequently they were submerged under its bounty and enjoyed its lushful life. Their affairs became settled under the protection of a powerful ruler and the circumstance offered them overpowering honor and all things became easy for them under the auspiciousness of a strong country. They became rulers of the world and kings in [various] parts of the earth. They became masters of those who were formerly their masters and began issuing commands over those who used to command them. They were so strong that neither their spears needed testing nor did their weapons have any flaw.

Indeed, you have diverted yourselves from the rope of obedience and broken the divine fortress of God that was put up for you [by resorting to] the laws of the age of ignorance. Certainly it is a great blessing of God Almighty that He has engendered among them unity through the cord of affection under whose shade they walk and take shelter. This is a blessing whose value no one realizes because it is greater than any cost and more majestic than any honor."¹

Judicial Policies

Electing the Best for Judgment

367. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instruction to Mālik Ashtar: "Then choose to judge among men, the most excellent of subjects in your sight, i.e., one who is not beleaguered by (complex) affairs, who is not rendered ill-tempered by the litigants, who does not persist in error, who is not distressed by returning to the truth when he recognizes it, whose soul does not descend to any kind of greed, who is not satisfied with an inferior understanding (of a thing) short of the more thorough, one who hesitates most in (acting in the face of) obscurities, who adheres most to arguments, who is the least to become annoyed at the petition of the litigants, who is the most patient (in waiting) for the facts to become clear and who is the firmest when the verdict has become manifest; a man who does not become conceited when praise is lavished upon him and who is not attracted by temptation. But such (men) are few."¹

Financial Support for the Judges

368. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instruction to Mālik Ashtar: "Then choose to judge among men, the most excellent of subjects in your sight ... and grant generously to him that which will eliminate his wants and through which his need from men will decrease."²

الْأَمْنُ الْوُظَيْفِيُّ لِلْقَضَاءِ

369. الإمام علي عليه السلام - في عَهْدِهِ إِلَى مَالِكِ الْأَشْجَرِ -: ثُمَّ اخْتَرَ لِلْحُكْمِ بَيْنَ النَّاسِ أَفْضَلَ رَعِيَّتِكَ فِي نَفْسِكَ... وَأَعْطَاهُ مِنَ الْمَنْزِلَةِ لَدَيْكَ مَا لَا يَطْمَعُ فِيهِ غَيْرُهُ مِنْ خَاصَّتِكَ؛ لِيَأْمَنَ بِذَلِكَ اغْتِيَالُ الرُّجَالِ لَهُ عِنْدَكَ فَانْظُرْ فِي ذَلِكَ نَظْرًا بَلِيغًا؛ فَإِنَّ هَذَا الدِّينَ قَدْ كَانَ أَسِيرًا فِي أَيْدِي الْأَشْرَارِ، يُعْمَلُ فِيهِ بِالْهَوَى، وَتُطْلَبُ بِهِ الدُّنْيَا.¹

وفي رواية تُحْفِ الْعُقُولِ: ثُمَّ أَكْثَرَ تَعَهَّدَ قَضَائِهِ، وَافْتَحَ لَهُ فِي الْبَدَلِ مَا يُزِيحُ عِلَّتَهُ، وَيَسْتَعِينُ بِهِ، وَتَقِلُّ مَعَهُ حَاجَتُهُ إِلَى النَّاسِ، وَأَعْطَاهُ مِنَ الْمَنْزِلَةِ لَدَيْكَ مَا لَا يَطْمَعُ فِيهِ غَيْرُهُ مِنْ خَاصَّتِكَ؛ لِيَأْمَنَ بِذَلِكَ اغْتِيَالُ الرُّجَالِ إِيَّاهُ عِنْدَكَ. وَأَحْسِنَ تَوْقِيرَهُ فِي صُحْبَتِكَ، وَفُرْبَهُ فِي مَجْلِسِكَ، وَأَمْضِ قَضَاءَهُ، وَأَنْفِذْ حُكْمَهُ، وَاشْدُدْ عَصَدَهُ، وَاجْعَلْ أَعْوَانَهُ خِيَارَ مَنْ تَرْضَى مِنْ نَظَرَائِهِ مِنَ الْفُقَهَاءِ وَأَهْلِ الْوَرَعِ وَالنَّصِيحَةِ لِلَّهِ وَلِعِبَادِهِ؛ لِيُنَظِرَهُمْ فِيمَا شُبَّهَ عَلَيْهِ، وَيَلْطَفَ عَلَيْهِمْ لِيَعْلَمَ مَا غَابَ عَنْهُ، وَيَكُونُوا شُهَدَاءَ عَلَى قَضَائِهِ بَيْنَ النَّاسِ إِنْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ.²

التَّائِيْدُ عَلَى آدَابِ الْقَضَاءِ

370. الإمام علي عليه السلام - لِشُرَيْحٍ -: أَنْظُرْ إِلَى أَهْلِ الْمَعَكِ³ وَالْمَطَلِ، وَدَفَعْ حُقُوقِ النَّاسِ مِنْ أَهْلِ الْمَقْدَرَةِ وَالْيَسَارِ يَمْنُ يُدْلِي بِأَمْوَالِ الْمُسْلِمِينَ إِلَى الْحُكَّامِ، فَخُذْ لِلنَّاسِ بِحُقُوقِهِمْ

Occupational Security for Judges

369. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – in his instruction to Malik Ashtar: “Then choose to judge among men, the most excellent of subjects in your sight Bestow upon him that station near to you that none of your other favorites may aspire to, that by it he may be secure from harm by men of importance. Look into that (i.e., the selection of judges) with thorough consideration, for this religion was prisoner in the hands of the wicked who acted with it out of caprice and used it to seek (the pleasures of) the present world.”¹

[It is also narrated in the same letter in Tuḥaf al-'Uqūl:] Check frequently his decisions and grant generously to him that which will eliminate his wants and through which his need for men will decrease. Bestow upon him that station near to you to which none of your other favorites may aspire to, so that he remains safe from the harm of those around you. Be respectful to him when you associate with him, favor him in sessions, agree to his judgment, implement his rulings, support him and choose his supporters to be from among the jurists and people of piety who would advise for the sake of God and His servants. He may discuss with them any doubtful question, refer to them what he is ignorant of and they can be witnesses on his settlement of disputations among the people, God willing.”²

Emphasis on Good Manners of the Judicature

370. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – to Shurayḥ: “Look into the state of those delaying in discharging people's rightful due from among the rich and the needless, who put the Muslims' riches at the rulers' disposal. So take the Muslims' rightful due from them and sell the houses and lands, for I heard the Messenger of God (s.a.w.) say: "The delaying of a rich Muslim is [equal to] oppression to the Muslims; and those who do not own lands nor houses or wealth are not to be obliged."

Let it be known that no one will enjoin people to rightfulness except he who drives them away from falsehood. Treat the Muslims equally by way of your facial expression, speaking and meeting so that those who are near you not to be tempted and encouraged by your injustice (in their favor) and your enemy shall not lose in hope your justice. Return the oath to the claimant when evidence is presented (if evidence is presented by the accused then the claimant should take oath), for this will remove ambiguity and maintain (sound) judgment.

Let it be known that Muslims are just. They can bear testimony regarding each other except the one who has been whipped for a punishment and has not repented or is known for giving false witness or is suspected (concerning his faith). Take care not to express suffering and pain in a judgment session, for God has decreed a reward for it and there is a good reward reserved for the one who judges rightfully.

Let it be known that reconciliation among the Muslims is permissible, except that which prohibits something lawful or allows something prohibited; and give a respite to he who claims to have an absent witness. If he presents them, his right will be restored and if not, he will be duly judged. Take care not to carry out a verdict concerning retaliation (qisās), Divine sanctions and the Muslims' rights without informing me about it – God willing – and do not sit for judgments except after you have had your meal."¹

371. al-Kāfi – narrating from Aḥmad ibn Abi 'Abdullah (in a *disconnected*² narration): "The Commander of the Faithful told Shurayḥ: "Do not whisper to anyone in a judgment session and if you get infuriated, stand up and do not make any judgment in anger."³

372. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – when he was informed that Shurayḥ was making judgments in his house: "O Shurayḥ! Sit in the mosque as people consider it fairer (and closer to justice) and certainly it is a disgrace for a judge to sit in his house."¹
373. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – from his letter to Rifa'a, when he appointed him as his judge in Ahwāz: "Leave aside aspirations, oppose the desires and adorn knowledge with righteous manners. Forbearance is a good assistant for religion; had forbearance been (in the feature of) a man, it would have been a righteous one.

Beware of [expressing] boredom, for it is [a sign] of folly and meanness! Do not let the one who is not your like attend your sessions and choose the men of courage. Judge by what is apparent (and evident) and leave the secrets and the hidden matters to the Knower [God]. Give up saying, 'I suppose!' or 'It seems to me!' There is no room for ambiguity in religion. Do not dispute with the fools and the legal experts (faqīhs); because the latter will deprive you of his blessings and the former will dishearten you by his evils. Do not dispute with the People of the Book except in a manner that is recognized by the Qur'ān and the sunna. Do not accustom yourself to laughter, for it effaces your eminence and make your enemy brazen against you. Beware of accepting gifts from the adversaries and be wary of the internal (secret) side of affairs!

He who trusts in a foolish woman and consults with her and consents to her will shall regret. Beware of the tears of the faithful, for the one who moves them to tears will be shattered; and those tears will put out the seas of fire of such persons. Do not humiliate the adversaries and do not chide and repel one who has asked. Do not associate with non-jurist in judgment sessions and do not consult with them in your verdicts, for consultation is done only in warfare and in urgent expedencies. Religion is not a matter of opinion; rather, it is a matter of following and obedience. Do not waste the obligatory practices while depending on supererogatories.

Do good to him who has done evil to you; forgive him who has done injustice to you; pray for one who has assisted you; give him who has deprived you and be humble to him who has granted to you. Be thankful to God for what He has granted to you and praise Him for what He tried you with. Knowledge consists of three things: the explicit verses (of the Qur'an), the established Sunnah (tradition) and the moderate obligation and their criteria is what we command (they are measured by our command and loyalty to us)."²

377. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "It behooves a judge to avoid paying attention to only one of the litigants. He must share his glances at them equally and not to let one party show injustice to the other."⁴
378. Imām al-Ṣādiq (a.s.): "A man came to stay with the Commander of the Faithful [as a guest] for a few days and he brought up a lawsuit that he had not earlier informed him about. The Commander of the Faithful asked him if he were one of the litigants and he said that he was. Then he said: "Keep away from us. Verily the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) has prohibited that one litigant be a guest [to the judge] unless the other one also be with him."⁵

Dismissing Judges who Violate the Rules of Judgment

379. 'Awālī al-Li'ālī: "The Commander of the Faithful appointed Abū al-Aswad al-Du'li as a judge, then he dismissed him. He [Abū al-Aswad] asked him: "Why did you dismiss me, whereas I did not commit any crime nor betrayed?"

selected the ignorant to live with, he is enshrouded by the darkness of seditions. Those so-called humans have named him a scholar but he has not lived soundly even for a day. He wakes up early to collect the things the less of which is better (for him) than its abundance (worldly things) until when he has quenched his thirst from polluted water (wickedness) and acquired meaningless things in his mind. He sits among the people as a judge responsible for solving whatever is confusing to the others and if he opposes a judge preceding him, he himself will not be secure from his verdict being invalidated by the one who is to come after him, as he did to the preceding ones. If an ambiguous problem is presented before him, he prepares pleonastic arguments for it of his own accord and passes judgment on their basis and considers it right.

Thus, he is entangled in the confusion of doubts like the one in the spider's web, not knowing whether he was right or wrong (in his endeavors). He does not consider it as knowledge what he does not himself accept and believes in no religion except what he has come to believe himself. If he measures something with another, he will not disclaim his own view; and if he is confused, he will conceal it lest they tell him he does not know, for he is well aware of his own ignorance. Thus, he ventures and makes judgments. He is the key to darkness, seeking doubts and wandering astray in ignorance.

He does not apologize for what he does not know so as to remain safe. He does not strive to ascertain knowledge through which he would be able to make gains. He scatters the traditions as the wind scatters the dry leaves. The (lost) heritages will weep because of him and blood will cry on his account (civil and penal laws of Islam will be corrupted by him). By his judgments, unlawful relations (with women) become lawful and lawful becomes unlawful. He is neither to be trusted in the verdicts he passes nor is competent in what is performed by him; for he [only] claims to have knowledge about rights.”¹

The Imām's Direct Judgments

386. 'Awālī al-Li'ālī: "Ali (a.s.) is reported to have been sitting in the mosque of Kufa to judge and there was a special platform for this purpose called the platform of judgment (dakkaṭu'l qaḍā)."¹

388. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from his sermon when he assembled the people and exhorted them to jihād and they remained silent: "What is the matter with you? Are you dumb?"

A group of them replied: "O Commander of the Faithful! If you go forth we shall be with you."

Whereupon the Commander of the Faithful said: "What has happened to you? You may not be guided aright or shown the right path! Should I in these circumstances go forth? In fact, at this time one of the brave and the valorous among you whom I select should go out. It does not behoove me to leave the army, the city, the public treasury, the land revenue and the dispensation of justice among Muslims and looking after the demands of the claimants; and then follow one contingent after the other moving here and there like a featherless arrow moving in the quiver. I am the axis of the mill. It rotates around me while I remain in my position. As soon as I leave it the center of its rotation would be disturbed and its lower stone would also be disturbed. By God, this is a very bad opinion."³

Consistency in Judgment Procedures

Settlement of Judges' Difference

389. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "...Then, you should do your best to select judges from amongst the best about the traditions and the most knowledgeable reporters. They should not disagree nor dispute regarding the verdict of God and the traditions of His messenger (ṣ.a.w.). Disagreements regarding the verdict results in the waste of justice, inadvertence in the religion and cause of divergence. God has shown what to do and what to offer; and ordered to refer what they are ignorant of to those with whom God has entrusted the knowledge of His Book and authorized them the issuing of rulings."

"Divergence of judges arises when tyranny controls them and each depends on his own opinion without referring to those whose leadership is obligated by God. Neither the religion nor its followers will be righteous through such behaviors. Judges should issue verdicts according to what they know from the Prophet's traditions and practices. If it is impossible for them to judge in a case, they should refer to its rightful people. If a qualified person is not available, they should discuss the case with the Muslim jurists. They should not leave this to others."

"Two judges of the Muslim community should never issue different rulings regarding one case without referring it to the Leader. Hence, the Leader will judge in that matter according to his knowledge that he received from God. The two judges then should agree on the Leader's ruling whether it corresponds or differs from their opinions. Regarding matters that you are in doubt you should gather the jurists you and discuss the matter with them. Authorize what Muslim scholars unanimously agree upon in your presence. dispute should be referred to the leader and he should seek God's aid and do his best to enforce the law and force the subjects to follow his commandment. There is no strength save in God."¹

390. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – Criticizing the scholars' differences in divine rulings: "When a problem is put before anyone of them he passes judgment on it from his imagination. When exactly the same problem is placed before another of them he passes an opposite verdict. Then these judges go to the leader who had appointed them and he confirms all the verdicts, although their God is One, their Prophet is one, and their Book (the Qur'ān) is one."

"Is it God who ordered them to differ and they obeyed Him? Or He prohibited them from it but they disobeyed Him? Or (is it that) God sent an incomplete Faith and sought their help to complete it? Or they were His partners in the affairs, thus they have the right to say and He has to agree? Or is it that God the Glorified sent a perfect faith but the Prophet fell short of conveying it and handing it over (to the people)? The fact is that God the Glorified says: *"We have not omitted anything from the Book..."*² and in it there is an explanation for everything, and He the almighty, says that one part of the Qur'ān verifies another part and that there is no divergence in it, as He says: *"Had it been from [someone] other than God, they would have surely found much discrepancy in it."*³ Indeed the outward (manifest) aspect of the Qur'ān is wonderful and its inward (nonmanifest) aspect is deep (in meaning). Its wonders will never disappear, its marvels will never pass away and darkness cannot be cleared except through it."⁴ Prophetic judgments. The Commander of the Faithful brought me to his judge and he judged against him."

Then the Christian converted to Islam and admitted that 'Ali (a.s.) had unknowingly dropped the shield on his way to Şiffin. 'Ali (a.s.) was pleased that he embraced Islam and granted him the shield and a horse as well. The Christian took part in the battle against the Khawārij with him."¹

When Shurayḥ noticed him, he headed for another direction. 'Ali (a.s.) said: "Stay where you are!" He went to him, sat beside him and said: "This is my shield and I have not sold it nor given it away."

Shurayḥ told the Christian: "What does the Commander of the Faithful say?"

The Christian said: "This is my shield and in my view the Commander of the Faithful is not a liar."

Shurayḥ turned towards 'Ali (a.s.) and asked: "Do you have any evidence?" He said that he did not.

So Shurayḥ passed the verdict in favor of the Christian. Then he happily set out to go, but he returned and said: "Let it be known, I bear witness that this is [the type of] Prophets' judgments. The Commander of the Faithful brought me to his own judge and he passed a verdict against him! I bear witness that there is no god but Allah who is One and without partners. I also bear witness that Muḥammad (ṣ.a.w.) is His servant and His Messenger. I swear by God, O Commander of the Faithful that this shield is yours! It dropped off from your tawny camel while you were on your way to Şiffin along with your troops."

The Commander of the Faithful said: "Now that you have embraced Islam, keep the shield for yourself!" and he (a.s.) mounted him on a horse [grant it to him]."²

'Ali (a.s.) stood up and sat next to his plaintiff and they both began to debate. Then the man left and 'Ali (a.s.) returned to his place."

'Umar found him troubled in his face and asked him: "O Abū al-Ḥasan! Why do I see you disturbed? Are you upset about what happened?"

The Status of the Interests of the Islamic State in the Issuing of Verdicts

397. al-Ghārāt – narrating from Shurayh, "'Ali (a.s.) sent an order to me: "Judge as you have judged before until the affairs of the people are settled."²
398. Sharh Nahj al-Balāghah – explaining 'Ali's (a.s.) statement: "If my steps stand firm on these slippery places, I would alter several things": Without doubt, in certain legal ordinances and events he moved in a direction which contradicted the companions (ṣaḥābah) declarations such as amputation of the thief's tips of fingers [rather than the whole hand], sale of mothers of one's children (slave-maid), etc.; what prevented him from reforming the previous ordinances was his involvement in the battles against the rebels and the Khārijites, to which he referred as madāḥid (turbulences or slippery places) and in which he wished his steps would stand firm. Therefore, he ordered his judges: "to judge as you have judged before so that people remain united." Here the word 'hatta' suggests that he allowed them to follow the previous procedures in judgment so long as the people's integration is maintained; and [it is evident] that the clauses after 'hatta' are in contrast to the main clauses (this means that when there is no fear of division, do not follow the previous procedures any more)."³

Importance of Security

Rather we wanted to restore the signs of Your religion and to bring prosperity into Your cities so that the oppressed among Your worshippers might be safe and Your forsaken commands might be established."²
401. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "By the will of God, the soldiers are the fortresses of the people, the adornment of the rulers, the honor of religion, the routes of security and the people's affair will not be firm except through them. Never reject a peace treaty to which your enemy calls you to and which is accepted by God, for in peace there is ease for your soldiers, relaxation from your worries and security for your land."³
402. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "The fact is that people have no choice but to have a ruler, good or bad, in whose rule the faithful persons perform (good) acts, while the unfaithful enjoy (worldly) benefits until God would therein bring all to end. أَمِيرِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ إِلَى مَنْ قَرَأَ كِتَابِي هَذَا مِنَ الْعُمَّالِ: أَمَّا بَعْدُ، فَإِنَّ رَجَالاً لَنَا عِنْدَهُمْ بَيْعَةٌ

وَفَزِعَ أَهْلَ الشَّامِ لِذَلِكَ وَانْكَسَرُوا لِقَوْلِهِ. وَكَانَ مُعَاوِيَةُ بْنُ الصَّحَّاحِ بْنِ سُفْيَانَ

405. وقعة صفين: بَعَثَ عَلِيٌّ خَيْلاً لِيَحْبِسُوا عَنْ مُعَاوِيَةَ مَادَّةً، فَبَعَثَ مُعَاوِيَةُ الصَّحَّاحَ

Collecting Information

403. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his letter to his administrators: "In the Name of God, the All-Beneficent, the All-Merciful. From the servant of God, 'Ali the Commander of the Faithful to whomever of the administrators that reads my letter: Now, some men who have sworn allegiance to us have now escaped. We suspect that they have moved towards the cities of the Baṣra region. Ask about them from your townspeople and assign secret agents throughout your land over them. Then write to me whatever you find about them. Wassalām!"²
404. Waq'at Ṣiffīn: "'Ali (a.s.) mentioned that the next morning he would be setting out to fight against Mu'āwiya. The news reached Mu'āwiya and the people of Shām fell into a panic and were shattered by this [rumor]. Mu'āwiya ibn al-Ḍaḥḥāk ibn Sufyān – the standard bearer of the Banī Salīm tribe– was with Mu'āwiya while antagonizing him and the people of Shām and favoring the people of Iraq and 'Ali ibn Abū Ṭalib (a.s.). He used to write the news to 'Abdullah ibn Ṭufayl al-'Āmirī and he would then send them to 'Ali (a.s.)."³
405. Waq'at Ṣiffīn: "'Ali (a.s.) sent a group to obstruct the source of the water to Mu'āwiya who then dispatched al-Ḍaḥḥāk ibn Qays al-Fihri along with a group of soldiers towards them and dispersed the group sent by 'Ali (a.s.).

'Ali's (a.s.) secret agents came back and reported what had happened to him (a.s.), so 'Ali (a.s.) asked his companions: "What shall we do?"

A group said, do this and the other said do that; when he noticed their discrepancy, he ordered them [to be prepared] to launch an assault on Mu'āwiya. He led them to the battle (of Ṣiffīn) and the people of Shām were defeated."⁴

قال الإمام الباقر عليه السلام: لما نزل أمير المؤمنين عليه السلام النهر وان سأل عن جميل بن بصير كاتِب [أ] نوشيروان فقل: إنه بعدُ حتى يرضى، فأمر بإحضاره، فلما حضر وجد حواشي كلها سالمة إلا البصر، وذنه صافياً، وقرينه تامة.

فسأله: كيف ينبغي للإنسان يا جميل أن يكون؟

قال: يجب أن يكون قليل الصديق كثير العدو. قال: أبدعت يا جميل! فقد أجمع الناس على أن كثرة الأصدقاء أولى. فقال: ليس الأمر على ما ظننوا، فإن الأصدقاء إذا كثفوا السعي في حاجة الإنسان لم ينهضوا بها كما يجب وينبغي، والمثل فيه «من كثرة الملاحين غرقت السفينة».

فقال أمير المؤمنين عليه السلام: قد امتحنت هذا فوجدته صواباً، فما متعة كثرة الأعداء؟

فقال: إن الأعداء إذا كثروا يكون الإنسان أبداً متحزراً متحفظاً أن ينطق بما يؤخذ عليه أو يدير منه زلة يؤخذ عليها، فيكون أبداً على هذه الحالة سليماً من الخطايا والزلل. فاستحسن ذلك أمير المؤمنين عليه السلام (الندوات: ص 297 ح 65، بحار الأنوار: ج 34 ص 345).

Imām al-Bāqir (a.s.) says: "When the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) came down to the region of Nahrāwān, he asked about Jamil ibn Baṣṭirī, Anushirwān's scribe. They said he was still alive and having [his] daily sustenance. He ordered him to be summoned. When he arrived, 'Ali (a.s.) found him sound in his senses (except for his sight), clear-minded and highly talented. He asked him: "O Jamil! How should a person be?"

He said: "He should have few friends and many enemies!"

The Imām said: "You uttered a strange thing, O Jamil, as people are unanimous that it is better to have many friends."

He said: "It is not as they suppose; for when something is imposed on friends, they do not act as they should, there is also a proverb in this regard which says: "The ship sank because it had too many sailors."

The Commander of the Faithful said: "I have tried this and it is true; but what benefit is there in having many enemies?"

He said: "When there are too many enemies, man is always cautious and careful not to utter a word by which to get stuck [in trouble], or make a blunder to be reprimanded for. Therefore, he is always protected from erring." The Commander of the Faithful approved this. (al-Da'wat, p. 297, ḥ. 65, Bihār al-Anwār, vol. 34, p. 345)

Warning against Underestimating the Enemy

429. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Do not underestimate any of the enemies, even if they are weak."¹
430. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from an aphorism attributed to him: "Beware of underestimating the enemy, for it bars you from vigilance. Many a small group has defeated a great group!"²
431. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from an aphorism attributed to him: "Do not underestimate the power of your enemy when you are fighting with him, for if you win [the battle], you will not be praised and if he defeats you, you are not excused. The weak that keeps a watchful eye on the powerful enemy is closer to safety than the powerful who is conceited of his own power over the weak."³

Warning against Consultation with the Enemy

عَدَمُ الْعُقُوبَةِ عَلَى الظَّنِّ وَالتَّهْمَةِ

فَقَالَ لَهُ: إِنَّهُمَا اسْتَأْذَنَانِي فِي الْعُمْرَةِ، فَأَذِنْتُ لَهُمَا بَعْدَ أَنْ اسْتَوْثَقْتُ مِنْهُمَا بِالْأَيْمَانِ أَلَّا يَغْدِرَا وَلَا يَنْكُثَا وَلَا يُجِدُّنَا فُسَادًا. وَاللَّهِ يَا بْنَ عَبَّاسٍ مَا قَصِدَا إِلَّا الْفِتْنَةَ، فَكَأَنِّي بِهِمَا وَقَدْ صَارَا إِلَى مَكَّةَ لِيَسْتَعِينَا عَلَى حَرْبِي، فَإِنَّ يَعْلَى بْنَ مُنِيَةَ الْخَائِنَ الْفَاجِرَ قَدْ حَمَلَ أَمْوَالَ الْعِرَاقِ وَفَارِسَ لِيُفْتِكَ ذَلِكَ، وَسَيُفْسِدُ هَذَانِ الرَّجُلَانِ عَلَيَّ أَمْرِي، وَيَسْفِكَانِ دِمَاءَ شِيعَتِي وَأَنْصَارِي.

فَقَالَ عَبْدُ اللَّهِ بْنُ عَبَّاسٍ: إِذَا كَانَ عِنْدَكَ الْأَمْرُ كَذَلِكَ فَلِمَ أَذِنْتَ لَهُمَا؟ وَهَلَا حَبَسْتَهُمَا وَأَوْثَقْتَهُمَا بِالْحَدِيدِ، وَكَفَيْتَ الْمُسْلِمِينَ شَرَّهُمَا؟

فَقَالَ لَهُ: ﴿يَا بْنَ عَبَّاسٍ، أَتَأْمُرُنِي أَنْ أَبْدَأَ بِالظُّلْمِ وَالسَّيِّئَةِ قَبْلَ الْحَسَنَةِ، وَأُعَاقِبَ عَلَى الظَّنِّ وَالتَّهْمَةِ وَأَخَذَ بِالْفِعْلِ قَبْلَ كَوْنِهِ؟ كَلَّا! وَاللَّهِ لَا عَدَلْتُ عَمَّا أَخَذَ اللَّهُ عَلَيَّ مِنَ الْحُكْمِ بِالْعَدْلِ، وَلَا الْقَوْلَ بِالْفَصْلِ. يَا بْنَ عَبَّاسٍ، إِنِّي أَذِنْتُ لَهُمَا وَأَعْرِفُ مَا يَكُونُ مِنْهُمَا، لَكِنِّي اسْتَظْهَرْتُ بِاللَّهِ عَلَيْهِمَا، وَاللَّهِ لَا أَقْتُلُنَّهُمَا وَلِيُخَيِّرَنَّ ظَنُّهُمَا، وَلَا يَلْقِيَانِ مِنَ الْأَمْرِ مُنَاهَا، فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ يَأْخُذُهَا بِظُلْمِهَا لِي، وَنَكْثِهَا بِيَعْتِي، وَبَغْيِهَا عَلَيَّ.^١

Refraining from Punishment on the Basis of Conjecture

443. al-Jamal: "Ibn 'Abbās visited the Commander of the Faithful (a.s.) and he first started to speak and said: "O Ibn 'Abbas! Do you have any news?"

He said: "I saw Talḥa and Zubair."

He told him: "The two asked my permission for 'Umra (pilgrimage) and I granted them permission after I had them pledge not to deceive, commit betrayal or get involved in corruption. O Ibn 'Abbās! By God, they have no intention other than treason. I know that they have gone to Mecca to seek assistance against me; for the treacherous wicked Ya'lā ibn Munyah has taken the wealth of Iraq and Persia to spend it all. The two men will soon ruin my affair and shed the blood of my followers and companions."

'Abdullah ibn 'Abbās said: "If you think so, why did you give them permission and why did you not put them in jail and shackle them so that you would save Muslims from their harm?"

The Imām (a.s.) said: "O Ibn 'Abbās! Are you asking me to hasten to tyrannize and practice evil instead of doing good and punish on the basis of conjecture and accusation? Far be it! By God, I will not withdraw from the pledge I made to God as to judge on the basis of justice and speaking the truth.

O Ibn 'Abbās! I gave them permission and I know what they will commit; however, I asked God for help against them and I swear by God that I will kill them and make them hopeless and they will not fulfill their wish, for God will punish them for their injustice and transgression towards me and their violation of my allegiance and persecuting me."¹

أَصْحَابِكَ رَجَالٌ قَدْ خَشِيتُ أَنْ يُفَارِقُوكَ، فَمَا تَرَى فِيهِمْ؟

ثُمَّ جَاءَنِي مَرَّةً أُخْرَى فَقَالَ لِي: قَدْ خَشِيتُ أَنْ يُفْسِدَ عَلَيْكَ عَبْدُ اللَّهِ بْنُ وَهَبِ

الرَّاسِيَّ وَزَيْدُ بْنُ حُصَيْنٍ، إِنِّي سَمِعْتُهُمَا يَذْكُرَانِكَ بِأَشْيَاءَ لَوْ سَمِعْتُهُمَا لَمْ تُفَارِقْهُمَا

فَقُلْتُ: إِنِّي مُسْتَشِيرُكَ فِيهِمَا، فَمَاذَا تَأْمُرُنِي بِهِ؟

فَقُلْتُ: وَاللَّهِ مَا أَظُنُّكَ وَرِعًا، وَلَا عَاقِلًا نَافِعًا، وَاللَّهِ لَقَدْ كَانَ يَنْبَغِي لَكَ لَوْ أَرَدْتُ

How feeble-minded he was and how daring he was towards God! Once somebody came to me and said, 'There are men among your companions who, I fear, may separate from you. What do you think of them?'"

I told him: "I do not administer punishment on the basis of accusation, nor do I chastise on the basis of assumptions. I do not fight against anyone but the one who has antagonized me and manifested his enmity towards me and that I will not start to fight him [but] after I have invited him and presented my proofs to him. Then, if he repents and returns to us, I will accept him as one of our brothers; but if he refused and wished for nothing but battle against us, we will ask God to help us against him and will fight him. May God keep away from me what He wishes!"

Once again he came to me and said: "I fear that 'Abdullah ibn Wahab al-Rāsbī and Zaid ibn Ḥuṣayn would ruin your affair. I heard them say things about you that if you hear, you will not let them go unless you kill or chastise them. So never release them from the prison."

I said: "I will consult with you about them, so what do you suggest?" He said: "I suggest you send for them and kill them."

Then I found out that he was neither pious nor wise, so I said: "By God, I do not suppose you are pious, nor helpful or wise. By God, even if I ever wanted to kill them, it would be more fitting for you to say to me: "Be wary of God! Why do you consider their blood as lawful since they have neither killed anyone, nor have they risen up in war against you, or given up obeying you?"¹

445. Imām al-Ṣādiq: "The Commander of the Faithful 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭālib (a.s.) used to say to the people in Kufa: "O people of Kūfa! You suppose that I do not know what sets you aright? Yes, I do. But I do not like to do so by ruining myself [using unlawful means]."²

449. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his letter to the chiefs [collectors] of land tax: "Even if there had been no fear of punishment for revolt and disobedience, which God has prohibited, the reward in keeping aloof from them would be enough [incentive] to abstain from going after them. Show mercy [on others] so as to be shown mercy; do not torture servants of God and do not charge them to that which is beyond their capacity."¹
450. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "O People! I called you to the Truth but you turned your back on me and I beat you with the lash but you tired me out. Know that after me you will be ruled by rulers who would not be content with this; rather they would torture you with whips and iron. But I do not torture you with whips and iron, for whoever tortures people in this world, God will torture him in the Hereafter."²

 'Umar replied: "That is so."
 'Ali (a.s.) said: "Have you not heard the saying of the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.): "There should be no legal punishment to the one who has confessed after being tortured. Indeed the confession of the person whom you shackle, incarcerate, or threaten is invalid?"
 He [the narrator] said: "'Umar released the woman, then he said: "Women are unable to give birth to a son like 'Ali ibn Abī Ṭalīb. If it was not for 'Ali, 'Umar would be perished."³
452. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his sermon at the beginning of his government: "Surely, God has made unlawful the things which are not unknown and made lawful the things which are without defect. He has given precedence to the esteem of Muslims over others. He has placed the rights of Muslims in the same grade of importance as sincerity [to Him Almighty] and monotheism. Therefore a Muslim is one from whose tongue and hand every (other) Muslim is safe except in the matter of truth. It is not lawful to harm another Muslim unless it is obligatory."⁴

النَهْيُ عَنِ السَّبِّ

453. وقعة صفين عن عبد الله بن شريك: خَرَجَ حُجْرُ بْنُ عَدِيٍّ وَعَمْرُو بْنُ الْحَقِيقِ يُظْهِرَانِ

الْبَرَاءَةَ وَاللَّعْنَ مِنْ أَهْلِ الشَّامِ، فَأَرْسَلَ إِلَيْهِمَا عَلِيٌّ: أَنْ كُفَّا عَمَّا يَبْلُغُنِي عَنْكُمَا.

قَالَا: أَوْ لَيْسُوا مُبْطِلِينَ؟

قَالَا: فَلِمَ مَنَعْتَنَا مِنْ شَتْمِهِمْ؟

قَالَ: كَرِهْتُ لَكُمْ أَنْ تَكُونُوا لِعَانِينَ شَتَامِينَ، تَشْتِمُونَ وَتَتَبَرَّؤُونَ، وَلَكِنْ لَوْ

وَصَفْتُمْ مَسَاوِي أَعْمَالِهِمْ فَقُلْتُمْ: مِنْ سِيرَتِهِمْ كَذَا وَكَذَا، وَمِنْ عَمَلِهِمْ كَذَا وَكَذَا،

مِنْهُمْ: اللَّهُمَّ احْقِنِ دِمَاءَنَا وَدِمَاءَهُمْ، وَأَصْلِحْ ذَاتَ بَيْنِنَا وَبَيْنَهُمْ، وَاهْدِهِمْ مِنْ

Warning against Insult

453. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – narrating from 'Abdullah ibn Sharik: "Hujr ibn 'Adi and 'Amr ibn Ḥamq went out while openly expressing their aversion and cursing the people of Shām, so 'Ali (a.s.) sent a message to them to avoid what he had been informed about.

The two came to 'Ali (a.s.) and said: "O Commander of the Faithful! Are we not on the right path?"

He said: "Yes."

They asked again: "Are they not on the wrong path?"

He said: "Yes."

They said: "Why then did you prevent us from cursing them?"

He said: "I did not like you to be among the cursers and revilers who curse people and express aversion; but if you described their misbehavior and said: "Their conduct is such and their behavior is so", it would be more appropriate in saying and more effective in excusing. If instead of cursing and disavowing them, you would say: "O God! Spare our blood and theirs, reconcile between us and them and deliver them from their misguidance so that the one who has ignored the truth knows it and the one who has attached himself to aggression and enmity refrains from it", this would be dearer to me and better for you."

They both said: "O Commander of the Faithful! We accept your advice and we shall discipline ourselves by your good manners."¹

Gentleness as long as There Is no Conspiracy

455. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Gentleness will soften the roughness of opposition and defiance."¹
456. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in the aphorisms attributed to him: "Get close to your enemy to the extent that you may fulfill your need; and do not get too close to him lest you should debase your companions and yourself. Look at the stick erected before the sun. If you tilt it, the shadow will get longer and if you go to extremes in tilting the stick, the shadow will diminish."²
457. Tārikh al-Ṭabarī – narrating from 'Abd al-Malik ibn Abi Hurrah al-Hanafī: "One day 'Ali (a.s.) went out to give a sermon. He was lecturing while the Khawārij were chanting in a corner of the mosque 'there is no Sovereignty save for God' (lā ḥukm illā li'llāh)!"
'Ali (a.s.) said: "God is the Greatest (Allah Akbar)! It is a true word but falsehood is intended. If they keep silent, we will abandon them; if they go on talking, we will debate with them; and if they rise against us, we will fight them."³
458. al-Sunan al-Kubra – narrating from Kathīr ibn Namir: "While I was attending the Friday prayer and 'Ali (a.s.) was on the pulpit when a man rose and said, 'there is no Discretion belong only to God' (lā ḥukm illā li'llāh)!"

Another person rose and said, 'there is no Sovereignty save for God'! Then the Khawārij stood up from around the mosque. 'Ali (a.s.) requested them to sit down and he said: "Yes, Sovereignty belongs to God alone; a word by which a falsehood is intended. We will deal with you according to the judgment of God. Let it be known that there are three issues regarding you that matters for me:

So long as you are with us, we will not prevent you from the mosque in which you may utter the name of God;

462. al-Ghārāt – narrating from Sa'īd al-Ash'arī: "When setting out for Nahrawān, 'Alī (a.s.) put a man from the Nakha' tribe by the name of Hānī ibn Hūdha in his place. He wrote to 'Alī (a.s.) that: "The Ghānī and Bāhila tribes had revolted and prayed that your enemy gain victory [over you]."

'Alī (a.s.) wrote back: "Deport them from Kūfa and do not leave any of them therein."¹

463. Tārīkh al-Ṭabarī – narrating from Muḥill ibn Khalīfa: "A man from the Banī Sadūs tribe called 'Ayzār ibn Akhnas who believed in the Khawārij [sympathizing with them] set off on a trip towards them. In the outskirts of Madā'in, he ran into 'Adī ibn Hātim who was accompanied by Aswad ibn Qays al-Murādī and Aswad ibn Yazīd al-Murādī.

When 'Ayzār encountered 'Adī, he asked him: "Are you a healthy and successful person or a tyrannic and sinful one?"

'Adī said: "healthy and successful."

The two Murādīs said: "You only ask this out of the evil you have in you. We know for sure that you carry the views of the Khawārij. O 'Ayzār! You shall not be separated until we take you to the Commander of the Faithful and report your state to him."

A short while later 'Alī (a.s.) came and they reported to him saying: "O Commander of the Faithful! He is of the same opinion as that of the Khawarij. We know him."

He (a.s.) said: "[The shedding of] his blood is not permissible to us; however, we will imprison him."

'Adī ibn Hātim said: "O Commander of the Faithful! Leave him with me and I ensure that no harm would come to you from him." 'Alī (a.s.) left him with 'Adī."²

Attaching Importance to Military Training

A. Training the Troops

- 464. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – from his commandments to Ziyād ibn Naḍr when he assigned him as the commander of his army in the battle of Ṣiffīn: “You should know that the vanguards of an army serve as their eyes and the eyes of the vanguard are their forerunners. Therefore when you leave your town and approach the enemy you should not feel weary to search for them because the informers are everywhere and in some of the defiles, woods, and secret places as well as every area so [be on your guard] that your enemies will not raid you or lay trap for you.

Do not make the battalions and tribes proceed from morning to evening unless you want to mobilize them, so that when a matter occurs or a trouble befalls you are already mobilized for it.

يُرِيثُونَ لَكُمْ؛ لِتَلَّا يَأْتِيَكُمْ عَدُوٌّ مِنْ مَكَانٍ خَافَةٍ أَوْ أَمِنَ.

وَإِذَا نَزَلْتُمْ فَانْزِلُوا جَمِيعًا، وَإِذَا رَحَلْتُمْ فَارْحَلُوا جَمِيعًا، وَإِذَا غَشِيَكُمْ اللَّيْلُ فَتَزَلَّتُمْ
فَحَقُّوْا عَسْكَرَكُمْ بِالرُّمَاحِ وَالرُّسَسِ، وَاجْعَلُوا رُمَاتَكُمْ يَلُودُونَ تَرَسْتَكُمْ؛ كَيْلًا

وَاحْرُسْ عَسْكَرَكَ بِنَفْسِكَ، وَإِيَّاكَ أَنْ تَرْقُدَ أَوْ تُصْبِحَ إِلَّا غِرَارًا^٢ أَوْ مُضْمَضَةً^٣.

تُقَاتِلَ إِلَّا أَنْ يَبْذُوكَ، أَوْ يَأْتِيَنَّكَ أَمْرِي. وَالسَّلَامُ عَلَيْكَ وَرَحْمَةُ اللَّهِ.

465. عنه: - وَمِنْ وَصِيَّةٍ لَهُ^٤ لِمُعْقِلِ بْنِ قَيْسِ الرِّيَّاحِيِّ حِينَ أَنْفَذَهُ إِلَى الشَّامِ فِي ثَلَاثَةِ
آلَافٍ مُقَدَّمَةً لَهُ -: إِنَّهُ اللَّهُ الَّذِي لَا بُدَّ لَكَ مِنْ لِقَائِهِ وَلَا مُنْتَهَى لَكَ دُونَهُ. وَلَا
اللَّيْلِ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ جَعَلَهُ سَكَنًا وَقَدْرَةً مُقَامًا لَا ظِعْمًا. فَأَرِحْ فِيهِ بَدَنَكَ وَرَوْحَ ظَهْرِكَ.
فَإِذَا وَقَفْتَ حِينَ يَنْبَطِحُ السَّحَرُ أَوْ حِينَ يَنْفَجِرُ الْفَجْرُ فَسِرْ عَلَى بَرَكَاتِهِ اللَّهِ. فَإِذَا لَقِيتَ
الْعَدُوَّ فَقِفْ مِنْ أَصْحَابِكَ وَسَطًا، وَلَا تَدْنُ مِنَ الْقَوْمِ دُنُوًّا مَنْ يُرِيدُ أَنْ يُنْشِبَ
الْحَرْبَ، وَلَا تَبَاعِدْ عَنْهُمْ تَبَاعُدَ مَنْ يَهَابُ الْبَأْسَ حَتَّى يَأْتِيَنَّكَ أَمْرِي، وَلَا يَحْمِلَنَّكُمْ

Your camp should be upon heights, slopes of the mountains, or in between rivers so that they will form fortresses for you and will prevent your enemies from reaching you. Your fighting should be from one or two fronts. Order the vanguards to settle on the summits of mountains, heights and on the edges of rivers. They should oversee for you so that the enemies will not attack you from a fearful or secured place.

If you want to reside, you should reside collectively and when you want to continue your march, you should continue collectively. When you reside at night, you should encompass your camp with spears and armors. Put the archers behind the carriers of armors so that you will not be taken by surprise or inattentively.

Guard your army yourself. Beware, you should not sleep unbrokenly and should not pass a night with deep sleep. You should keep up this method until you meet your enemy.

You should be careful and deliberate in fighting. Beware of hasting unless a good opportunity arises for you. Do not fight before the enemy attacks you or you receive my order. Peace and God's mercy be upon you."¹

465. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – from his commandments to Ma'qal ibn Qays al-Riyāhī when he was dispatched to Sham as the head of a three thousand strong vanguards: "Be wary of God before Whom attendance is inevitable and with other than Whom there is no meeting. Do not fight except with those who fight you. Travel in the two cool periods (i.e. morning and evening). Let the men have midday rest and sleep. Give them ease and comfort when marching and do not travel during early hours of night for God has made it for resting and has ordained it for staying, not for journeying. Therefore give rest to your body in the night and let your carrier-beasts also rest. When morning has appeared and dawn has arrived, commence your journey with God's blessings. When you face the enemy stand in the midst of your comrades. Do not get too close to the foe, like the one who wants to commence the fighting, nor remain too distant like he who is afraid of action, till you receive my orders. Hatred for them should not lead you to fight before inviting them (to guidance) and leaving no excuses for them."²

466. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from his letter to some of his army chiefs: "If they [the enemies] return to the shelter of obedience, then this is all that we want. But if the affair of these people led to separation and disobedience, then take with you those who obey you and rush upon those who disobey you. And be content with those who follow you and do not worry about those who hold back from you because the absence of a halfhearted man is better than his presence and his sitting down is better than his rising up."¹
467. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "If the enemy launches an assault upon you, then spread your troops on the gates of the ditches for there exists nothing save swords; stand firm on the ground after arraying the troops. Do not look at the enemies in the face. Their number should not scare you, look to your own land [and front] instead. If they assault you, bend over on your horses and hide yourselves behind your shields like an impenetrable stronghold; and if they turn their back on you, launch an attack on them with your swords. If they stand firm, then stand firm on the other side too. And if they run away, rush on them and catch them."²
468. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "If God forbids you happen to face a defeat, hold a gathering and remember God and how He promised the deserters of the battlefield [to be punished]. Reproach the one whom you see turning his back on the enemy. Gather the banners and tie them together. The roughriders must hasten to bring the fugitives back to the troops and the army and anyone hiding in the hideaways is to come back to you. When the dispersed troops were gathered and your power was reclaimed and the defeated state has left you, hand over the troops to the commanders, mobilize the forces and fight. Seek assistance from God and be patient, for there is great reward for perseverance at the time of defeat and for the brave man's attack on the enemy."³

B. Arrangement of the Troops

471. Da‘ā’im al-Islām – regarding ‘Ali (a.s.): “When he advanced forward to fight, he would arrange the troops to the left, the right and the middle flanks, with himself stationed in the middle. He would appoint liaisons for them, would send forth vanguards and would order them to lower their voices, to pray, to have their hearts united, to draw their swords, to display their power. He would also order every group to be stationed in their own positions and that everyone who would make a raid should return to his position after the raid.”²
472. Da‘ā’im al-Islām – regarding ‘Ali (a.s.): “When he was ready to go on a battle, he would prepare the battalions and separate the tribes. He would appoint a person over every group, array the troops and divide them into divisions. Then he would set off for the battle.”³
473. Imām ‘Ali (a.s.) – on how to prepare for a war: “Send the infantry and the archers ahead to storm them [the enemy] with arrows, while the two flanks raid on them with spears. Set the riders and the elite forces as the support of the banner and the forerunners; and do not leave your positions for a rider from the enemy who has been left alone.”⁴

ج - عدم مفارقة السلاح في الحرب

475. دعائم الإسلام: إنه [علياً] عليه السلام كره أن يلقي الرجل سلاحه عند القتال؛ وقد قال الله عز وجل عند ذكر صلاة الخوف: (وَلْيَأْخُذُوا أَسْلِحَتَهُمْ)، وقال: (وَدَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا لَوْ تَغفلُونَ عَنْ أَسْلِحَتِكُمْ وَأَمْتَعَتِكُمْ فَيَمِيلُونَ عَلَيْكُمْ مَيْلَةً وَحِدَةً)،^٣ فأفضل الأمور لمن كان في الجهاد أن لا يفارقه السلاح على كل الأحوال.^٤

Your encounter should be from one or two fronts.

Place watchers on the peaks of mountains and the sides of highlands so that the enemy may not approach you from a secure or a fearful place. And know that the vanguard of an army serves as their eyes, and the eyes of the vanguard are their informers.

Beware of separation. When you halt, do so together, and when you move, you should move together. When night comes fix your spears in a circle and do not sleep except for a dosing or napping."¹

C. Keeping Hold of One's Weapon in Battles

475. Da'a'im al-Islām: "He ['Ali] (a.s.) detested a man to drop his weapon during combat. When pointing out the 'Prayer at the time of Fear', God said: "Let a group of them stand with you carrying their weapons" and He also said: "The faithless are eager that you should be oblivious of your weapons and your baggage, so that they could assault you all at once."²

The best thing for those who are in combat is not to separate their weapon from themselves by any means."³

Paying Special Attention to the Armed Forces

484. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Inspect the affairs of the soldiers as parents inspect their own child. Never let anything through which you have strengthened them distress you and do not underestimate the kindness you have undertaken for them even if it were small, for it will invite them to counsel you sincerely and trust you. Do not leave out attending to their minor affairs while depending upon (the examination of) the great matters because your small favors will also be of benefits to them as the big ones are also such that they cannot do without.

Among the chiefs of your army favor most him who assists the soldiers with his aid and bestows upon them what is at his disposal to the extent that suffices both them and those members of their families left behind, then their worries and concern in battle with enemy will be a single concern. Your kind inclination towards them will incline their hearts to you. Verily the foremost delight of the eye for rulers is the establishment of justice in the land and the manifestation of love for the subjects. But surely the subjects' love will not appear without the well-being of their hearts, and their advice and sincerity (toward rulers) will not become right and free from blemishes unless they watch over the rulers, find their governments of little burden and cease to hope that their period (of rule) will soon come to an end.

Therefore, let their hopes be expanded, persist in praising them warmly and taking into account the (good) accomplishments of everyone among them who has accomplished, for frequent mention of their good deeds will encourage the bold and rouse the weak and the indolent, God willing.

"Then recognize in every man that which he has accomplished, attribute not one man's accomplishment to another and fall not short (of rewarding) the full extent of his accomplishment. The eminence of one man should not lead you to regard his small deeds as big nor should the low position of a man make you consider his big deeds as small."¹

Care for the Troops' Morale

A. Encouragement

485. al-Kāfi – narrating from Abū Ṣādiq: "I heard 'Alī (a.s.) encourage people [to war] in three places: Jamal, Ṣiffin, and Nahrawān.

He would say: "O Servants of God! Be wary of God, cast down your eyes, lower your voices, speak little; and prepare yourselves for battle, conflict, confrontation, struggle, warfare, involvement, tough combat and steadfastness: "...and remember God greatly so that you may be felicitous. And obey God and His Apostle, and do not dispute, or you will lose heart and your power will be gone. And be patient; indeed God will be with the patient."^{2 3}

486. الإمام عليؑ - مِنْ كَلَامِ لَهُ ﷺ لِابْنِهِ مُحَمَّدِ بْنِ الْحَقِيقَةِ لَمَّا أَعْطَاهُ الرِّايَةَ يَوْمَ الْجَمَلِ :-

486. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in a sermon he delivered in the Battle of Jamal when the Commander of the Faithful gave the banner to his son Muḥammad ibn al-Ḥanafiyya: "Mountains may move from their position, but you should not move from yours. Grit your teeth, lend your head to God (in fighting for God, give yourself to God), fix your feet firmly on the ground. Have your eye on the remotest foe and close your eyes (to their numerical majority) and be sure that help is only from God the Glorified."¹
487. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – to his followers at the time of battle: "The retreat after which return is intended and the withdrawal after which attack is in view should not make you unhappy. Give the swords their due (to its maximum use). Knock your foes down on the ground; prepare yourselves for hurling strong spears and striking swords with full force and keep your voices down as it wards off defeat. By Him who split the seed (for growing) and created living beings, they [the hypocrites] had not accepted Islam but they surrendered (by verbally professing it) and had hidden their disbelief. Consequently, when they found helpers for their disbelief, they disclosed it."²
488. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – exhorting his followers to fight: "Put the armored men forward and keep the unarmored ones behind. Grit your teeth because this will make the swords skip off the skull. Dodge on the sides of the spears for it changes the direction of their blades. Close the eyes because it strengthens the spirit and gives peace to the heart. Kill the voices because it wards off defeat. Do not let your banner bend down, nor leave it alone. Do not give it to anyone except the brave and the defenders of honor among you because those who endure the befalling of troubles are the ones who surround the banners and encircle them from the left, the right the rear and the front. Everyone should deal with his adversary and also help his comrade by his own life and should not leave his adversary to his comrade lest both his own adversary and his comrade's join against him (comrade). By God, even if you run away from the sword of today you would not remain safe from the sword of the world to come. You are the foremost among the Arabs and the great figures. Certainly in running away there is the wrath of God, unceasing disgrace and lasting shame. And certainly he who runs away does not lengthen his life. Nor does anything come to intervene between him and his day (of death). He who come forward to God is like a thirsty man who approaches the water.

Paradise lies under the edges of spears. Today the reputations will be tested (all that is in mind will be revealed in the war). By God! I am more eager to meet them (in combat) than they are for (returning to) their houses!

They will not budge from their positions until the continuous striking of spears causes piercing (of wounds) through which wind may pass, until the hitting of swords cuts through their skull, cleaves bones and breaks forearms and legs, until they are attacked by contingent after contingent and assaulted by detachments which are followed by reserves for support, until their cities are continuously assailed by force after force and until the horses trample the extreme ends of the lands, the tracks of their beast and their meadows."¹

وعلي عليه السلام خلقه، فناداه: يا أبا القاسم! فقال: لبيك يا أبا. فقال: يا بني لا يستفزك ما

ترى، قد حملت الراية وأنا أصغر منك فما استفزني عدوي وذلك أنني لم ألق أحداً

إلا حذنتي نفسي بقتله، فحدث نفسك - بعون الله - بظهورك عليهم، ولا يتخذك

ضعف النفس باليقين؛ فإن ذلك أشد الخذلان. قال: فقلت: يا أبا، أرجو أن أكون

C. Inculcation of Victory

497. al-Jamal – narrating from 'Amr ibn Dīnār: "The Commander of the Faithful said to his son Muḥammad: "Hold the banner and move on!" 'Ali (a.s.) was behind him, he then called him: "O Abū al-Qāsim!"

He replied: "Yes, O Father!"

He said: "My son! What you see should not frighten you. I carried the banner when I was smaller than you and the enemy did not frighten me for I did not confront anyone except that I instilled in myself that I would kill him.

So with the help of God inculcate in your mind that you will triumph over them; and do not let mistrust in yourself bring you to your knees as it is the worst of degradations.

[Muḥammad said:] I said: "O Father! I hope I will be the way you wish for me to be. God willing!"²

501. Imām 'Alī (a.s.): "The escapee (from the battle) should know that he has infuriated God and has destroyed himself. Verily in escaping there is hostility towards God, perpetual degradation, eternal disgrace and depravity of life. The escapee will not prolong his life, nor will there come an interval between him and the day he is destined to die, nor will he please God. A man's death in honesty and truthfulness before committing such a practice [escape from battle] is better than involving in these practices and accepting them."¹
502. al-Kāfi – narrating from Mālik ibn A'yan: "The Commander of the Faithful exhorted the people in the Battle of Šiffin saying, "...May God have mercy on him who helps his brother and does not leave the adversary to his comrade lest both his own adversary and his comrade's join against him (comrade). This way he will be condemned and will come to vileness; and why should it not be so when his brother fights with two people whereas he has given up and left his adversary to his brother and while he is fleeing he looks back at the enemy and his brother? Everyone who does so, God will regard him as His enemy. Do not expose yourselves to enmity with God for you will certainly be moving towards Him. God the Glorified and Exalted said: *"Flight will not avail you, should you flee from death or from being killed, and then you will be left to enjoy only for a little while."*²

"By God, if you flee from the sword of the world, you will not be secure against the swords of the world to come. Take recourse in patience and truthfulness, for triumph would verily follow patience. Struggle for the sake of God with a struggling which is worthy of Him; and there is no power and no strength save in God."³

Deception

504. Imām ‘Ali (a.s.): “Whenever I quote a tradition from the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.), by God that it is dearer to me to fall off [such a high place as] heaven than to attribute a lie to him; but in respect to mine, then indeed war is a deception.”^{2 3}

وَكُنْتُ قَرِيباً مِنْهُ، فَقُلْتُ: يَا أَمِيرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ إِنَّكَ حَلَفْتَ عَلَى مَا فَعَلْتَ، ثُمَّ اسْتَيْتَيْتَ، فَمَا أَزِدْتَ بِذَلِكَ؟! فَقَالَ لِي: إِنَّ الْحَرْبَ خُدْعَةٌ، وَأَنَا عِنْدَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ غَيْرُ كَذُوبٍ، فَأَزِدْتُ أَنْ أُحَرِّضَ أَصْحَابِي عَلَيْهِمْ؛ كَيْلَا يَفْسَلُوا، وَكَيْ يَطْمَعُوا فِيهِمْ، فَأَفَقَهُهُمْ يَتَمَعُّ بِهَا بَعْدَ الْيَوْمِ إِنْ شَاءَ اللهُ^١.

508. تفسير القمي - في ذِكْرِ غَزْوَةِ الْحَنْدَقِ -: مَرَّ أَمِيرُ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ عليه السلام يُهْرَوُلُ فِي مَشْيِهِ ... فَقَالَ لَهُ عَمْرُو: مَنْ أَنْتَ؟ قَالَ: أَنَا عَلِيُّ بْنُ أَبِي طَالِبٍ؛ ابْنُ عَمِّ رَسُولِ اللهِ صلى الله عليه وآله، وَخَتَنَتْهُ. فَقَالَ: وَاللهِ إِنْ أَبَاكَ كَانَ لِي صَدِيقاً قَدِيماً وَإِنِّي أَكْرَهُ أَنْ أَقْتُلَكَ، مَا أَمِنَ ابْنُ عَمِّكَ - حِينَ بَعَثَكَ إِلَيَّ - أَنْ أَخْتَطِفَكَ بِرُحْمِي هَذَا فَأَتْرُكَكَ شَائِلاً بَيْنَ السَّمَاءِ وَالْأَرْضِ؛ لَا حَيٍّ وَلَا مَيِّتٍ!!

قَالَ عَلِيُّ عليه السلام: دَعِ هَذَا يَا عَمْرُو، إِنِّي سَمِعْتُ مِنْكَ وَأَنْتَ مُتَعَلِّقٌ بِأَسْتَارِ الْكَعْبَةِ تَقُولُ: «لَا يَعْزِضَنَّ عَلَيَّ أَحَدٌ فِي الْحَرْبِ ثَلَاثَ خِصَالٍ إِلَّا أَجَبْتُهُ إِلَى وَاحِدَةٍ مِنْهَا»، وَأَنَا أَعْرِضُ عَلَيْكَ ثَلَاثَ خِصَالٍ، فَأَجِبْنِي إِلَى وَاحِدَةٍ! قَالَ: هَاتِ يَا عَلِيُّ!

507. al-Kāfi - narrating from 'Adī ibn Ḥatīm: "When the Commander of the Faithful confronted Mu'āwiya in Ṣiffin, he raised his voice so that his companions could hear him and he said: "By God, I will kill Mu'āwiya and his companions!" Then he lowered his voice and said: "If God wills!"

I was near him and I said to him: "O Commander of the Faithful! You have truly sworn to do it and then you said 'if God wills'. What did you mean by this?"

He said: "War is a deception and I am not a liar in the sight of the faithful. I wanted to incite my followers and encourage them not to show weakness and to fight against the enemy. Therefore, in future the wisest of them will benefit from this word. God willing!"¹

508. Tafsīr al-Qummī - in the report about the Battle of Khandaq: "The Commander of the Faithful passed by while walking hastily and 'Amr [ibn 'Abduwud] asked him: "Who are you."

He said: "I am 'Alī ibn Abī Ṭalīb, the cousin of the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) and his son-in-law."

'Amr said: "By God, your father was an old friend of mine and I do not like to kill you. When your cousin sent you to me, wasn't he afraid that I would snatch you up with my weapon and leave you in the air, neither killed nor alive?"

The Commander of the Faithful said to him: "My cousin knew that if you killed me I would enter Heaven and you would be in fire; but if I killed you, you would stay in Hellfire and I will go to Heaven."

'Amr said: "O 'Alī, both of them are for you! This is not a fair dividing!"

He said: "Leave it aside now! I heard you say while holding on to the curtain of the Ka'ba: "If a person presents to me three requests, I will at least answer one of them." And [now] I have three requests from you, so answer to one of them."

'Amr said: "O 'Alī, say what they are!"

He said: "The first is that you bear witness that there is no god but Allah and that Muḥammad is His Messenger."

'Amr said: "Put this aside and ask the second one!"

He said: "The second is that you go back and turn this army [of yours] away from [confronting] the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.). If he [the Prophet] is truthful, you will be honored through him, and if he is a liar then the Arab robbers and rascals do it (kill him) for you."

'Amr said: "Would not the women of Quraysh then speak about it and the poets mention it in their poems that I was cowardice and retreated from a battle and that I betrayed a group that chose me as their chief."

The Commander of the Faithful said: "My third [request] is that you dismount [your horse] so that I could fight with you, as you are mounted and I am on foot."

He then dismounted his horse and hamstrung it and said: "This is a trait for which I did not suppose any of the Arabs would bargain with me." Then he started [the battle] and struck 'Ali's (a.s.) head with his sword. The Commander of the Faithful held his head behind his shield, but the sword rent the shield and hit his head.

'Ali (a.s.) said to him: "O 'Amr! As an Arab warrior will you not be able to fight by yourself and need to ask for assistance while I am fighting you alone?"

'Amr turned his face [to look behind him] and the Commander of the Faithful delivered a swift blow on his knees and cut them off. A huge cloud of dust rose around them and the hypocrites said 'Ali ibn Abi Ṭalib was killed.

Soon the dust settled and they saw the Commander of the Faithful who was saying:

"I am 'Ali, son of 'Abd al-Muṭṭalib;

Death is better for the knight than running away."

Thereupon, the Messenger of God (ṣ.a.w.) said: "Did you play a trick on him?"

He replied: "Yes, O Messenger of God! War is a craftiness."¹

A. Prohibition of Initiating a Battle

509. Tārīkh al-Ṭabarī - narrating from Jundab al-Azdī: "Ali (a.s.) would command us whenever we were in his company and we confronted the enemy: "Do not fight them until they begin; because you, by the grace of God, have proof (reason), and letting them initiate the fighting will be another proof and excuse for you. Whenever you fight with them and defeat them, do not kill one who retreats; do not murder the wounded; do not slander, nor mutilate the dead. When you reach the encampment of the enemy do not plunder nor enter a house without permission. Do not seize anything from them except what you find in their military base. Do not inflict pain on women by persecuting them even if they insulted your honor and abuse your officers, as they [the women] are weak in power and in will."¹
510. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar before the battle of Ṣiffīn: "Beware of starting the war against this group till you meet them and hear their words unless they begin it. Their evil should not prompt you to fight before inviting them [to guidance] and repeatedly leaving some room for their excuses."²
511. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to his army before confronting the enemy in Ṣiffīn: "Do not fight them unless they initiate the fighting for by the grace of God, you have proof, and let them until they begin fighting will be another proof for you against them. If, by the will of God, the enemy is defeated then do not kill the one who runs away, do not strike a helpless person and do not finish off the wounded."³

ب- النَّهْيُ عَنِ الدَّعْوَةِ إِلَى الْمُبَارَزَةِ

512. الإمام علي عليه السلام - لابنه الحسن عليه السلام -: لا تَدْعُونَّ إِلَى مُبَارَزَةٍ، وَإِنْ دُعِيتَ إِلَيْهَا فَأَجِبْ؛ فَإِنَّ الدَّاعِيَ إِلَيْهَا بَاغٌ، وَالْبَاغِي مَصْرُوعٌ.^١

ج- الْحَصَانَةُ السِّيَاسِيَّةُ لِلرُّسُلِ

513. الإمام علي عليه السلام: إِنْ ظَفَرْتُمْ بِرَجُلٍ مِنْ أَهْلِ الْحَرْبِ فَرَزَعَمَ أَنَّهُ رَسُولٌ إِلَيْكُمْ؛ فَإِنْ عُرِفَ ذَلِكَ مِنْهُ وَجَاءَ بِهَا يَدُلُّ عَلَيْهِ فَلَا سَبِيلَ لَكُمْ عَلَيْهِ حَتَّى يُبْلَغَ رِسَالَتِهِ وَيَرْجَعَ إِلَى أَصْحَابِهِ، وَإِنْ لَمْ تَجِدُوا عَلَى قَوْلِهِ دَلِيلًا فَلَا تَقْبَلُوا مِنْهُ.^٢

د- إِقَامَةُ الْحُجَّةِ قَبْلَ الْحَرْبِ

515. الإمام علي عليه السلام - مِنْ كِتَابِهِ إِلَى مَنْ شَاقَّ وَغَدَرَ مِنْ أَهْلِ الْجَنْدِ وَصَنَعَاءٍ -: إِذَا أَنْتَأَمَّ رَسُولِي فَتَفَرَّقُوا وَانْصَرَفُوا إِلَى رِحَالِكُمْ أَعْفُ عَنْكُمْ، وَأَصْفَحْ عَنْ جَاهِلِكُمْ، وَأَحْفَظْ قَاصِيَكُمْ، وَأَعْمَلْ فِيكُمْ بِحُكْمِ الْكِتَابِ. فَإِنْ لَمْ تَفْعَلُوا فَاسْتَعِدُّوا لِقُدُومِ

C. Diplomatic Immunity of Envoys

513. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): “If you triumph over a man of the enemy and he claimed to be an envoy to you, if his claim is proven and he brings something that can substantiate it, then do not harm him until he delivers his message and returns to his comrades; but if you find no proof to his claim, do not accept his assertion.”²

D. Giving an Ultimatum before a Battle

514. al-Sunan al-Kubrā – narrating from Barā' ibn 'Āzib: “'Ali (a.s.) dispatched me to fight against the Khawārij in Nahrawān and I invited them [to guidance] three times before we fought them.”³

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from his letter to the people of Ṣan'ā and Janād who were hostile and deceitful: “When my messenger comes to you, disperse and go to your residences so that I may grant you amnesty, forgive your ignorance, protect those of you who are away, and treat you by the ordinances of the Qur'ān. E. Supplication before a Battle

516. Imām Ṣādiq (a.s.) – when the Commander of the Faithful set out for a battle, he would recite the following supplication: “O God! Verily, You showed one of Your paths, put Your satisfaction in it, called Your friends to it and made it the best of Your ways for reward, the noblest for returning [to You] and the most favorable to You as a conduct. Then [in this path], You purchased of the believers their persons and their wealth, that they would gain in return (the Garden) Paradise; they fight in His Cause, and slay and are slain; a true promise binding on You.

So, place me among those from whom You have bought his soul and he has fulfilled his covenant to You; one of those who did not break a pact, nor violate or alter it; rather, he made it (his sacrifice) in response to Your loving kindness and as a means of approximation to You.

So make it the seal of my affairs and ordain the end of my life in this way. Bestow upon me in it a martyrdom which brings me Your pleasure and removes my blunders. Place me among those who are living and provided for by the enemies and the rebels [through being martyred by them] under the banner of truth and guidance; moving ahead to assist them, not turning his back [on fighting], and nor creating doubts.

O God! I seek refuge in You from cowardice at the time of terror, from indolence at the time of the champions’ assault, and from the sins that would ruin my actions. I would thus be enfeebled out of doubt, or pass on without certitude, so my attempts would be futile and my actions unaccepted.”¹

517. Waq'at Şiffin – narrating from Tamim: “Whenever ‘Ali (a.s.) set out for a battle, he would utter the name of God when mounting [his horse] and say: “Thanks be to God for His bounties to us and His immense Grace! Immaculate is He who has disposed this for us, and we [by ourselves] were no match for it. Indeed we shall return to our Lord.”²

Then he would face the Ka'ba, raise his hands towards heaven and say: “O God! The steps were taken toward You, the bodies tired out, the hearts inclined to You, the hands raised up and the eyes turned keen. Our Lord! Judge justly between us and our people, and you are the best of judges!”³

Then he would say: “God is the greatest! God is the greatest! There is no god save God! God is the greatest! O God! O Aḥad (One)! O Ṣamad (Everlasting Refuge)! O Lord of Muḥammad! In the Name of Allah, the All-Beneficent, the All-Merciful” There is no power and no strength save in Allah, the All-Exalted, the All-Supreme. All praise belongs to Allah, Lord of all the worlds, the All-Beneficent, the All-Merciful, Master of the Day of Retribution, You [alone] do we worship, and to You [alone] do we return for help.”⁴ O Lord! Repel from us the oppression of the oppressors”. This was his slogan in the battle of Şiffin.⁵

G. Helping the Feeble

519. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – to his companions on the battlefield in Şiffin: "Whoever among you feels spiritedness of heart during the battle and finds any of his comrades feeling disheartened, he should defend him just as he would do for himself because of the superiority in courage he enjoys over him. If God wills, He will make the former also like him."²
520. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Whenever in a war, you find any of your brothers wounded, or someone afflicted with an injury, or someone who has been targeted by the enemy, strengthen him by your spirit [giving him courage]."³

H. Good Conduct towards the Remaining Enemy Troops:

When the battle of Šiffin took place, he killed the warriors as well as those who had turned their back on the battlefield and allowed concerning the wounded. Abān ibn Taghlib said to ‘Abdullah ibn Sharīk: “These two treatments are different.”

530. الإمام علي عليه السلام - لَمَّا سُئِلَ عَنِ الْعَدْلِ وَالْجُودِ أَيُّهُمَا أَفْضَلُ؟ - : الْعَدْلُ يَضَعُ الْأُمُورَ

مَوَاضِعَهَا، وَالْجُودُ يُخْرِجُهَا مِنْ جِهَتِهَا، وَالْعَدْلُ سَائِسٌ عَامٌّ، وَالْجُودُ عَارِضٌ

خَاصٌّ، فَالْعَدْلُ أَشْرَفُهُمَا، وَأَفْضَلُهُمَا.^١

Establishing Justice

530. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – when asked which of the two is better, justice or generosity: "Justice puts things in their places while generosity takes them out from their directions. Justice is the general guideline (that applies to the whole community and is essential for the survival of the society) while generosity is an exceptional case; consequently, justice is superior and more distinguished of the two."¹
531. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "He who acts with justice, God will safeguard his kingdom."²
532. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Observe justice and you will rule."³
533. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Do justice to [be able to] govern."⁴
534. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Nothing has safeguarded states like justice."⁵

588. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Make sure that you, the members of your family and those whom you favor from amongst your subjects observe justice as regard to Allah and the people. For indeed if you do not do so, you have wronged. And as for he who wrongs the servants of God, God is his adversary instead of His servants. God renders null and void the argument of whosoever contends with Him. Such a person will be God's enemy until he desists or repents. Nothing is more conducive to the removal of God's blessing and the hastening of His vengeance than to continue in wrongdoing, for God listens to the call of the oppressed and He is always on the watch against the wrongdoers."⁶

سَفَكَ الدَّمَاءَ بِغَيْرِ حَقٍّ

601. الإمام علي عليه السلام - في عهده إلى مالك الأشتر -: يَاكَ وَالْدَّمَاءَ وَسَفَكَهَا بِغَيْرِ حِلِّهَا؛ فَإِنَّهُ

الدَّمَاءِ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ.

فَلَا تُقَوِّينَ سُلْطَانَكَ بِسَفَكِ دَمٍ حَرَامٍ؛ فَإِنَّ ذَلِكَ بِمَا يُضْعِفُهُ وَيُوْهِنُهُ، بَلْ يُزِيلُهُ
وَيَنْقُلُهُ. وَلَا عُذْرَ لَكَ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ وَلَا عِنْدِي فِي قَتْلِ الْعَمِدِ؛ لِأَنَّ فِيهِ قَوْدَ الْبَدَنِ. وَإِنْ

Unlawful Bloodshed

601. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Beware of blood and spilling it unlawfully, for nothing is more deserving of vengeance, greater in its consequence or more likely to (bring about) a cessation of blessing and the cutting off of (one's appointed) term than shedding blood unjustly. God, the Glorified, on the Day of Resurrection will begin judgment among His servants over the blood they have shed.

So never strengthen your rule by shedding unlawful blood, for that is among the factors which weaken and enfeeble it, nay, and rather overthrow and transfer it. You have no excuse before God and before me for deliberate killing, for in that there is bodily [talion] retaliation. If you are stricken by error and your whip, your sword or your hand should exceed their bounds in punishment – harmed anyone by mistake – never let the arrogance of your authority prevent you from paying the relatives of the killed their rightfully due."⁴

612. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Then surely the ruler has favorites and intimates among whom there is a certain arrogance, transgression and lack of equity in transactions. Remove the causes of these (qualities) by cutting off their roots. Bestow no fiefs upon any of your entourage or relatives, nor let them covet from you the acquisition of an estate which would bring loss to the people bordering it in (terms of) water supply or a common undertaking, the burden of which would be imposed upon them. Its benefit would be for those (who acquired the fiefs) and not for you and its disgrace would be upon you in this world and the next.

Impose the right (al-ḥaqq) upon whomsoever it is due, whether he be related to you or not. Be patient in this and look to your (ultimate) account; however this may affect your relatives and favorites. Look for the ultimate end in that (i.e., imposing the right) which weighs heavily against you, for its outcome will be praiseworthy."²

Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "Beware of arrogating for yourself that in which men are equal; and of negligence in that which is of concern after it has become manifest to the eyes (of men), for these things will be held against you for (the benefit of) others; and (beware of negligence) of the fact that little remains until the coverings of affairs are lifted from you and justice is demanded from you for the wrong."³

614. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – regarding 'Uthmān: "I am putting before you his case. He ruled with arrogation and did it badly. You protested against it and committed excess therein. With God lies the real verdict upon the arrogant and the impatient."⁴

Statement is masculine while response is feminine, so whenever the masculine and the feminine become one, then there must be a result."

He then recited the following poem:

*"The honorable is he who avoids responding;
And he who is tolerant towards people will achieve his goal.
He who has respect for people will be respected by them too;
And he who humiliates people, will receive no respect."⁸*

644. Imām 'Alī (a.s.) – in his instructions to Mālik al-Ashtar: "If you bind an agreement between yourself and your enemy or grant him a protective covenant (dhimmah), guard your agreement in good faith and tend to your covenant with loyalty. Make of yourself a shield before what you have granted, for men, despite the division among their sects and the diversity of their opinions, are not united more firmly in any of the obligations (imposed upon them) by God than in attaching importance to fidelity in agreements. The idolaters had already adhered to that (honoring agreement) among themselves before the Muslims, by reason of the evil consequences of treachery that they had seen. So never betray your protective covenant, never break your agreement and never deceive your enemy, for none is audacious before God but a wretched fool. God has made His agreement and His protective covenant a security, which He has spread among the servants by the Grace of His Mercy and a sanctuary in whose impregnability they may rest and in whose proximity they may spread forth. Within it there is no corruption, treachery or deceit.

Do not make an agreement in which you allow deficiencies and rely not upon ambiguity of language after confirmation and finalization (of the agreement). Let not the difficulties of an affair in which an agreement before God is binding upon you invite you to seek its abrogation unjustly. For your patience in the hardships of an affair, hoping for its solution and the blessing of its outcome is better than an act of treachery that you fear its consequences and being questioned by Allah and you could not ask for forgiveness for it in this world and the next."³

Discharging Obligations

645. Imām 'Ali (a.s.): "Return the trust to the person who has trusted you, even though he would be the murderer of the children of the Prophets."¹

648. Imām 'Ali (a.s.) – from his letter to one of his tax collectors: "He whose hidden position is not different from his open position and whose action is not different from his words, has discharged his obligation and his worship is pure. I also order him that he should not harass them (subjects), should not be harsh towards them and should not turn away from them because of superiority of an official position over them, for they are brothers in faith and helpers in the recovery of levies.

Certainly you have a fixed share and a known right in this levy, and there are other sharers who are poor, weak and starving. We shall discharge your rights. So you should pay off their rights. If you do not do so, you will have the largest number of enemies on the Day of Judgment. How wretched is the man whose enemies in the presence of God are the needy, the destitute, the beggars, the turned away, and the indebted and (penniless) travelers.

He who treats the trust lightly, indulges in treachery and does not keep himself and his faith untarnished by it has certainly secured humiliation in this world and his humiliation
